Typhoon Floods Stadium

Wilda the Wildest

TOKYO (UPI)—Wilda, the most powerful Pacific typhoon of the season, swept across Japan's Amani-Sohima Island with destructive winds today and smashed into the main southernmost island of Khyushu.

Weather officials said heavy rains and high winds would continue in Tokyo through Friday. Flooding was reported in the lower levels of the stadium built for next month's Olympic Games.

Winds as high as 100 miles an hour tore off roofs, smashed windows and uprooted trees on Amani-Sohima. Electricity was knocked out in Naze, the island's main town.

Commonwealth To Oust U.K.?

NAIROBI (AP) — African member states might expel Britain from the Commonwealth if she continued to supply South Africa with arms, said Kenya Health Minister Dr. Njoroge Mungai. He told Parliament that though South Africa had been expelled from the Commonwealth, other states persisted in treating her "as if she were a civilized country."

MINI-METRO: NOT SO FAST!

By A. H. MURPHY
Colonist City Hall Reporter

BURNABY — Endorsement of the mini-metro principle by 500-odd delegates to the Union of B.C. Municipalities in convention here was delayed, if not blocked, Wednesday by the motion of Victoria Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow.

The endorsement recommendation which approved in principle "the concept of joint services boards to deal with certain regional problems" was sponsored by the executive of UBCM, and proposed from the chair after delegates were addressed on the subject by Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell.

"We're going too fast here," said Ald. Edgelow. "There are a lot of things about this scheme that we need to know more about.

TOO LATE

"Once a plan such as this is enacted into legislation it's too late. Let's slow up and give this more study."

His motion to table the chair's resolution for further study and possible future action during the convention received almost

By Staff Reporter

BURNABY — Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell admitted Wednesday to delegates from 123 members of the Union of B.C. Municipalities that the timing of the provincial government's curtailment of winter works benefits might have been something less than fair.

In a question period during a speech which did not touch on the thorny question he granted "some value" to the complaint of a Victoria alderman that the decision to cut back had put municipalities in a tight spot.

The action of the government in restricting its share of winter works benefits only to those who have been receiving welfare for at least three months

Hurricane

Apples Face Threat

HALIFAX (CP) — Hurricane Gladys was expected to strike southern Nova Scotia early today and move through the province with winds up to 70 miles an hour.

The weather office here said late Wednesday the storm was heading for Nova Scotia and was expected to reach Yarmouth, on the province's southwestern tip, at dawn.

FEAR FOR CROP

Farmers in the 100-mile-long Annapolis Valley fruit belt were hoping a last-minute change in the hurricane's course would keep it away from their apples, now nearly ripe and hanging heavily on the trees. One fruit processing firm estimated 95 per cent of the valley's 2,500,000-bushel crop is still on the trees.

Meanwhile, coastal communities in Nova Scotia were preparing for the hurricane.

There was no calm before the storm Wednesday night. Winds were moderate in southern Nova Scotia and there were periods of heavy rain.

BOSTON (UPI)—Treacherous Hurricane Gladys churned up six to 10-foot ocean swells off the fog-shrouded New England coastline Wednesday night but veered sharply out to sea when nudged by a cold upper air mass.

Lodge Visits Commons, Hears Viet Nam Rapped

OTTAWA (CP)—U.S. special envoy Henry Cabot Lodge sat in a Commons gallery Wednesday and heard the South Viet Nam government described as corrupt.

The fomer ambassador to Saigon had just spent more than two hours briefing Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin on the American position in South Viet Nam.

"CORRUPT"

During the Commons question period, which Mr. Lodge watched from the Speaker's Gallery, H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) said he hopes administration of Canada's foreign aid to South Viet Nam is not left to the "corrupt" government of that country.

Mr. Martin said Mr. Herridge's "loose language" was not based on careful reflection. The funds were handled by Canada's external aid office.

MPs APPLAUD

Earlier, T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, asked what Canadian commitments, if any, had been sought by Mr. Lodge. (See Page 31.)

Fluoridation Issue Kept Out of UBCM

BURNABY — Ald Garnet Reynolds of Port Alberni spearheaded a successful attack against introduction of the fluoridation issue at the convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities here Wednesday.

The resolution, which asked amendment of the Municipal Act to permit fluoridation of water on a three-fifths vote of council, was described by the alderman as an affront to democratic traditions.

"It's a matter of a few choosing for the many," he said, "and that's no good."

"Why do we keep fumbling around with this issue year after year?" asked another delegate. "It's not a matter for the UBCM. Health is a provincial matter. Forget it."

Delegates forgot it.

Ignore Queen's Visit French Canada Urged

MONTREAL (UPI) — Quebec's most influential private association Wednesday called on French-Canadians to ignore next month's royal visit to Quebec City.

The 75,000-member St. Jean Baptiste Society recommended that groups and individuals within the province "show no gestures for or against" the Oct. 10-11 visit by Queen Elizabeth and her husband Prince Philip. (See Page 9.)

"Especially, abstain from all violence in showing your disapproval," the society added in an "open letter" statement to French-Canadians.

* * *

The society's statement, issued with approval of its general council and 17 regional bodies, was the latest contribution to a continuing verbal battle over the Queen's visit.

Unlike many previous offerings from French-Canadian sources, it made no suggestion that the visit be cancelled and demanded specifically that French-Canadians refrain from violence during the monarch's stay. Several sources within the province and across the remainder of English-speaking Canada have suggested the visit be dropped because of fear that threats of violence by Quebec separatist-terrorist groups might be carried out.

Georges Marcotte, 32, convicted killer of St. Laurent, Que., policeman, has been granted third stay of execution to enable him to make new appeal to Supreme Court of Canada. Two earlier appeals failed.

Protest Ended

MADRID (UPI) — Police Wednesday night broke up a budding demonstration of about 300 Spaniards outside the U.S. embassy. They were protesting the sinking of the Spanish freighter Sierra Aranzuzu off the Cuban coast Sept. 6.

How Kelowna Cut Decay

Dramatic Drop Followed Fluoridation

KELOWNA (CP) — For a cost of 10 cents a person, parents in Kelowna are saving money on repairs to their children's teeth, two dental experts say.

Figures released this week by Dr. Alan Gray, regional dental consultant for the Okanagan health unit, showed children in Kelowna have fewer dental problems that the sister communities of Vernon and Penticton.

The reason, said Dr. Gray, is fluoridation.

"We decided to compare decay rates of grade one children born and brought up in Kelowna with those of similar children from Vernon and Penticton, where there is only a small trace of fluoride in the water," he said.

Kelowna began its fluoridation plan in September, 1956.

Dr. Gray said the survey included 101 Kelowna youngsters, 90 from Vernon and 98 from Penticton.

The results were that slightly more than 30 per cent of the Kelowna children were free of tooth decay. Only 10 per cent of those in Vernon could make the claim, while 10.2 per cent of the Penticton children were cavity-free.

"These figures tell the story of improved dental health in Kelowna," Dr. Gray said.

"What they leave out is the saving in misery and suffering from toothaches, the better growth and development of faces and jaws, and the actual saving in money taking place in Kelowna."

He said the cost of fluoridation works out to about 10 cents per capita per year.

Changing Winds Ease Fire Threat

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—Fire that routed hundreds from their homes and destroyed or damaged 18 houses in a "night of terror" changed direction Wednesday, easing the threat to this coastal city and the fashionable suburb of Montecito.

But there was no hope for control or immediate containment of the fire which burned in a northeasterly direction in a hilly watershed area vital to Santa Barbara, a city of 60,000, and adjacent communities.

East Sooke Sealed Off In Hunt for Molester

* * *

RCMP said early today a man answering the description of the molester showed up at the house of an East Sooke resident, Peris Atkinson, a former city police inspector, and asked to buy some food Tuesday night.

He was invited into the house and given a meal after telling the Atkinsons he was a lost hunter.

* * *

It was not until after he left that they realized who he might be and called in RCMP. The Saanich tracking dog Rex was called in and followed a strong trail through the dense bush for nearly two miles, then the trail petered out.

Police called in extra cars and set up road blocks at key points in the East Sooke area.

Wednesday all abandoned cabins and residences in the East Sooke area were thoroughly searched for signs of the molester.

Police say the suspect will have a three or four-day growth of beard and is wearing olive drab overalls and logging boots.

Campbell Urges Close Look At All Services

By A. H. MURPHY

BURNABY—Mini-metro, even if it spread across the province, would not mean a fourth level of government, B.C.'s first full-time Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell assured members of the Union of B.C. Municipalities in convention here this week.

"I believe we can get together and solve our regional problems in B.C.," the minister told delegates. "I believe the talent for doing this is present in this hall."

We should be asking ourselves many questions in this fast-expanding province, the minister said.

JOINT SERVICES

We should be looking more closely at administrative machinery available for joint services. We should be asking if municipal boundaries, as they now exist, include sufficient population and tax base to provide taxpayers with economic service.

"These and other questions are being heard loud and clear among municipal leaders throughout the province," said Mr. Campbell who dealt only with the broad aspects and the philosophy of the joint services plan which the government hopes to put into effect in several regions in B.C.

The thought that local government should occupy itself with services to property while central government dealt with services to people was rapped by Mr. Campbell. (This was the basic principle suggested in the UBCM Murison report several years ago.)

ULTIMATE OBLIVION

"Such a course would lead to sterility in government and to its ultimate oblivion," he said.

Such a concept would mean taxation representation and let us hope that it never gains hearthold or headhold in B.C.

Sharing between province and municipalities should never be static, the minister said. It should be a flexible rule to be adjusted to the needs of people and the times.

CONTINUING ROLE

"The government of this province feels that local government should play a continuing role in the area of service to people.

"Municipal government is part of a great system of financial checks and balances which operate for the ultimate benefit and protection of the taxpayer."

Burton's Hamlet

Real Taste of Stage

By IAN STREET

It was done by means of a new process that recorded on film an actual performance before a live audience in New York's Lunt-Fontanne Theatre.

AGAIN TODAY

Last night's performance, which played simultaneously in movie theatres in Canada and the U.S., will be repeated here today at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Burton, who was acclaimed for his Hamlet by Broadway critics, came across with electrifying vitality on the big screen.

Something of the magic that is live theatre was missing, the bond that grows between audience and actors on the stage. But enough of the vitality and pace of the stage performance was retained to thrill the audience.

The voice of Sir John Gielgud, who produced Burton's Hamlet, told patrons before the curtain went up that what they were about to see was no moving picture.

He was right. It was the closest thing to first-class theatre for the masses that has yet been achieved.

Gielgud wanted to let the play "speak for itself" and it does so eloquently, on a bare stage with actors in casual street clothes.

It also served to remind those who in recent months may have had doubts, that Burton the actor is considerably more than the husband of a movie star.

UBCM Again Approves Sunday Entertainment

For the fourth straight year, the Union of B.C. Municipalities has come out in favor of commercial entertainment on Sunday. The latest endorsement was Wednesday—over strong opposition from Ald. Lily Wilson of Victoria.

The resolution, which said the government should again be petitioned for Sunday sport and entertainment for which fees can be charged and which would be held after 1:30 p.m., was passed after a short debate.

Another resolution approved Wednesday in Burnaby was from North Cowichan, endorsed by the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities, calling for payment by hospitals in hospital districts for fire protection.

'Unfair' Timing Hinted

is expected to cost Victoria more than $100,000.

"Is it fair," asked Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, "after a municipality has prepared a plan, raised the money and started a project for the government to change the rules?"

"I must say," said Mr. Campbell, "that this is the most valuable point which has been made by critics of the plan. However," he continued, "it is not necessarily a budgetary matter.

THREE QUESTIONS

"If this is solely a budgetary matter why not say so and stop beating about the bush," he continued.

Councillor Jock Smith of Surrey rapped out three sharp questions during the discussions.

Where, he asked, did the minister get the figure of 10,000 unemployed employables he maintained were there to be called upon?

HOW SKILLED

If they were there, how skilled were they outside the use of a shovel and sandpile?

Did the minister honestly feel that these people would be of any use to the municipalities? he concluded.

The 10,000 figure he got from the provincial welfare department, the minister crisply responded. He would concede that they were unskilled and the answer to the third question depended on the projects contemplated.

He was, said Ald. Edgelow, not necessarily against the joint services principle, but he was opposed to having the resolution sprung on delegates without previous warning.

It should, he said, be treated as any similar resolution not given delegates for prior study. Delegates should decide whether it should even be considered.

EXTRAORDINARY

"This legislation could be the most important ever passed in B.C.'s history, and we need to know just where we are going," the alderman said.

Several delegates said the temporary repudiation of the motion amounted in effect to a vote of non-confidence in the UBCM executive.

"Most extraordinary," said one Vancouver Island member of the UBCM ruling body.

Ingrown Hairs Can Be Eased By Proper Shaving Habits

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has a very tough beard and is constantly bothered by ingrown hairs. He tries to pull them out and there are so many it takes him an hour or longer to shave. Is there anything he can do to prevent this condition? — MRS. J.J.L.

Ingrown hair of the beard usually occurs in the neck (but can occur elsewhere). In the neck, the hairs emerge from the follicle at different and not always predictable angles.

What happens is that the hair, instead of growing out normally, "digs into" the skin. Sometimes it curls up, and creates quite a miniature ball of hair under the skin.

TOO CLOSE

Shaving too close is a contributing factor when people tend to have this trouble. Shaving with the angle of the hair, rather than "against the grain" can ease the condition. On the neck, however, it may not always be possible to determine the direction.

Using a different kind of razor may help. For some, an electric razor is more satisfactory.

Pulling out the hairs with tweezers can at most give only temporary relief, since they will grow back again. It is possible, however, if only a certain few hairs are causing trouble, to have them removed by electrolysis, which is permanent.

SKIN DISORDER

In some cases, there can be a disorder of the follicle right at the skin surface. It can be well worth while to have a dermatologist check this possibility, and if this is the case, rather simple treatment sometimes is effective.

For example, a softening ointment is sometimes used. It must be obtained by a doctor's prescription. It is not a panacea for all cases, but only in certain types.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: How effective has ultrasonic sound therapy been in the field of medicine? I have heard from people who had the treatment for arthritis with little or no relief. How about arteriosclerosis or Buerger's disease?—M.G.

The principle of ultrasound is to project heat deep into the tissues by means of high frequency sound waves—of such high frequency that we cannot hear them, but which still can carry a good deal of energy, just as a very loud noise can have enough energy to rattle or even break windows.

ULTRASONIC

Ultrasonic treatments have been successful in acute bursitis (but not the chronic type, or that involving calcium deposits), and in mild arthritis.

I have no information indicating that it would be effective in advanced arthritis, in Buerger's disease or arteriosclerosis.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: What is a Baker's cyst? I have one behind my left knee and the doctor says it may have to be removed surgically. Could it be cancerous?—MRS. R. W.

This is a swelling in the hollow behind the knee. It is a swollen bursa, and there are many bursae in this area because of the many tendons.

In rare instances fluid may accumulate there in the bursa because of some injury to the knee joint proper. Then it can be painful. In that case, or if the swelling is large, surgical removal is the only recourse. It is not alarming; it is not cancerous.

Borrowing Limit Raised

Trust, Loan Firms Get New Powers

OTTAWA (CP)—New borrowing powers that could aid the trust and loan companies in competing with the banks to attract the public's savings are included in the government's financial legislation introduced in the Commons Wednesday.

These companies would be empowered by the bill to borrow from the public amounts to 15 times their paid-up capital and reserves. The present limit is 12½ times, unchanged since 1958 when it was raised from 10 times.

This means that for every $1 in capital and reserves, these so called "near banks" would be able to borrow $15 instead of the present $12.50 from the public by accepting deposits, selling their debentures or selling guaranteed investment certificates.

CROWDING LIMIT

Officials here explained that some of the companies have been crowding the present limit. When that happens, the only way they can expand is by retaining their earnings as reserves or by selling additional shares, as several have done in recent months.

The new legislation takes account of some joint ownership among trust and mortgage loan companies by applying the new borrowing limit to the consolidated position of any two of them.

PROTECT LENDERS

Basically, the limit is designed to protect those who lend money to these institutions, by trying to ensure that their assets will always be worth enough to meet their liabilities to the public.

Officials here calculate that under the present limit, assets could shrink by 7.4 per cent in value before there would be any shortfall. They said the new limit would reduce this "protective margin" to about 6.2 per cent.

$5,000 FINE

The bill introduced Wednesday gave further details of proposals to prevent foreign takeovers of the country's financial institutions—the banks, and the insurance, trust and mortgage loan companies.

It provides a fine of up to $5,000 or up to a year in jail, or both, for every director of one of these institutions who knowingly allows the sale of shares to non-residents beyond the proposed limits.

Door Locked Too Late Says Gordon Critic

TORONTO (CP) — Charles F. W. Burns, chairman of the board of Crown Life Insurance Co., Wednesday described Finance Minister Gordon's proposed legislation to encourage Canadian ownership of financial institutions as locking the door after the horse is gone.

General reaction, however, was mixed, as some top financial men favored Mr. Gordon's proposals.

Mr. Burns said: "I admire the Canadianism of the man but there's too much of this nationalism. The principle to me is quite wrong."

He said the restrictions are not retroactive and might affect the confidence of foreign policy buyers in the Canadian insurance industry.

The proposed legislation would limit total non-resident holdings in Canadian banks, loan, trust and insurance companies to 25 per cent. Individual non-residents would be limited to 10 per cent.

Drug Keeps Girls Short and Shapely

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—A drug is being used in Australia to stop young girls from growing too tall. A side effect is that it gives girls of 12 or 13 figures they might expect a couple of years later.

Sydney Sun reporter John Yeomans told of a meeting with a "Miss X," who was treated with the drug.

He said she is 13 years and three weeks old and her measurements are 36-27-35; she had seemed likely to grow to more than six feet but was five feet, 9⅞ inches.

The drug is an artificial female hormone, often used to make the rooster grow instead of crow.

NO PROBLEM

Dr. A. F. Roche, reader in anatomy at Melbourne University, said the same thing could easily be done with boys but height was not such a problem with them.

"An apprentice jockey could have his height limited," he said, "but what would happen if later he wanted to be a policeman?"

A Melbourne specialist who treated about 30 girls said they attained adult characteristics because the drug "telescopes" puberty.

Politics Jazzed Up

Wilson Offers U.S. Whoop-La

By PHIL NEWSOM

LONDON (UPI) — Britons, whose respect for tradition includes a generally restrained approach to politics, are getting an introduction to political whoop-la, American style.

Labor party leader Harold Wilson gave the country a taste of it at Wembley at the party's national rally, kicking off a campaign which will end in general elections Oct. 15.

It could have been the Democrats in Atlantic City or the Republicans in San Francisco.

'WASTED YEARS'

Spotlights played upon the stage where African dancers performed and Humphrey Lyttleton's band played a blues number entitled Thirteen Wasted Years.

In the eyes of this political hurricane stood the round and slightly crumpled figure of Wilson, who hopes after the elections to take over the prime minister's job from his Conservative opponent, Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

'FIRE . . . HUMANITY'

What this country needs, he boomed over the auditorium loudspeaker system, is a government of men with "fire in their bellies and humanity in their hearts."

Wilson's speech it described as "presidential style."

But if British newspapers could compare the rally and Wilson's style to U.S. politics, there remains important differences.

CONTRAST

In Britain, a candidate "stands" for office. He does not "run."

And those two words alone mark a sharp contrast.

Lord Sutch Doesn't Dig Labor Leader

LONDON (Reuters)—Screaming Lord Sutch, 22-year-old pop-singer, has announced he will oppose Harold Wilson, leader of the opposition Labor party, in the Oct. 15 general election.

The long-haired leader of the 2,000-strong National Teen-age party said popular music stars will help him.

His election platform includes demands for action to make it illegal for anyone to be victimized because of long hair and knighthoods for pop singers such as the Beatles.

Sutch said he was confident he would get more than the 220 votes he obtained in the Stratford-on-Avon byelection last year.

Rescued man tells his story . . .

* * *

Four Men Worry About Rescuers

NEVADA TEST SITE, Nev. (UPI) — Four electricians trapped four days 1,800 feet underground in a nuclear bomb test chamber were rescued one by one Wednesday and showed more concern for their rescuers than themselves.

All four were in good condition and in high spirits, including Leland Roeder, 45, Pioche, Nev., who was trapped in a mine 28 years ago for 16 hours. "The conditions were real good this time," he said.

Their only sorrow was the death of one worker above ground when a cable snapped, plugging the shaft.

Floyd Shaw, 51, Santa Barbara, Calif., was first to reach the surface. The others, Roeder, Arthur Luhnow, 27, North Las Vegas, Nev., and George R. Cooper Sr., 44, Tucson, Ariz., were brought up in that order at intervals of about one hour.

Each man realized about $1,000 in double time for the 96 hours spent underground.

His Language Barrier Held Off the Law

VANCOUVER (CP) — The language barrier let Ronald Duchesnes, 24, of Montreal walk out of court a free man.

Charged with assaulting a police officer, the deaf-mute shoemaker could converse only in sign language. A sign-language expert was brought in.

Duchesnes made it known he could only understand sign language in French. The prosecutor entered a stay of proceedings.

Lacked Friends

Cuts Self-Inflicted Student Admits

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI)—A 15-year-old cerebral palsy victim who told police she had been attacked by classmates with a razor, actually inflicted the wounds on herself, officers said Wednesday.

Officers said the girl, Margaret Mary Little, apparently wounded herself because she was despondent over not having any close friends and hoped that the story would "reunite her with her father."

The girl had claimed five teen-age students at Torrance High School accosted her last Friday as she walked home from class. She told police one of them slashed her five times on the face and arms with a rusty razorblade and one of the attackers warned her not to return to class because they did not want "any misfits."

Strike Averted On DEW Line

WINNIPEG (CP)—Union and management agreed Wednesday to binding arbitration if necessary to settle a dispute over a working agreement for employees on the Canadian section of the Dew Line.

Reforming the Rules

THE New Democrats have launched a public campaign to induce Parliament to mend its ways by adopting more stringent rules of procedures in order to get its business done with some promptitude. This is a new approach to an old subject, in effect inviting the public to tell MPs to get a move on.

They should not need telling, nor a reminder that Parliament exists to legislate and not to engage in endless wrangling and party polemics, resulting as Mr. Douglas is frank to concede in parliamentary prestige being at its present low ebb.

The NDP leader makes the point obviously enough that present Commons rules are archaic and derive from more leisurely times when Parliament had much less work to do, and could enjoy the byplays of party nuance without serious detriment to national affairs. Nowadays national government is the biggest business in the land, and as all the country knows it is not being efficiently handled.

The NDP proposals for parliamentary reform, a package of ten suggestions aimed to limit debate to reasonable proportions and streamline procedures to enable a speed-up in dealing with various measures, is taken as an effort to forestall any government action in the same direction lest the latter be too one-sided, although under present rules and in the absence of clear-cut majority government these would face the disability that presently creates the kind of stalemate that is fast bringing Parliament into disrepute. A much greater degree of party co-operation will be necessary if things are to be any better.

The NDP proposals make provision for unlimited debate for measures of major concern, something that in itself could simply repeat the all too frequent hiatus that prevails, but elsewhere these recommend definite time schedules for presentation and debate, a badly needed correction of current parliamentary habits.

It should not be necessary for every MP to speak on every subject that comes up, or at the length presently allowed them. Time limits are essential if national affairs are to be properly and rationally dealt with, and less indulgence in purely party gambits for political gain.

Probably real parliamentary reform will await the election of a new government having the mandatory power to enforce it, but meantime the NDP proposals should serve to induce MPs of all ranks to give serious attention to an imperative need—a design for arranging Commons business so that it may be dealt with in some degree of dispatch and orderly progression. Parliament won't restore its image until it bestirs itself in this direction.

Death by Degrees

APPEARING not as leader of the Opposition but as a citizen of B.C., Mr. Robert Strachan suggested earlier this week to the Public Utilities Commission that the application for permission to charge higher bus fares "seems to indicate a desire for self destruction on the part of the transit section of the B.C. Hydro Authority." Some of the testimony given by Hydro officials under cross-examination Tuesday strengthens that impression.

If the bus system should lose more riders than reckoned by the authority through the near-doubling of fares, the manager of the rates and costs department admitted, the reduction in the deficit could be negligible; indeed if the proportionate loss of passengers equalled the worst on record elsewhere, the transit operations would lose more money than ever. He thought, though, that the chance of losing substantially more riders than calculated was remote.

But it is the possible remedy if this should happen, suggested by the transit division manager, Mr. S. J. Sigmundson, that especially lends weight to Mr. Strachan's observation. Mr. Sigmundson said that if riding fell off as much as the municipalities feared, a solution might involve replacing the present Greater Victoria system with "routes not as close to each other and with less frequent service."

And a further decrease in users, as a result? Followed by another reduction in service? This solution, surely, would only mean death by degrees for the bus operations. And none too lingering, at that.

Pay for Trustees

AT THE B.C. School Trustees Association convention next month, school board delegates will debate asking for remuneration for their services, on the same scales as laid down in provincial legislation for members of municipal councils.

This would neither make them rich nor noticeably burden the taxpayers. The scales for councillors and aldermen run from $200 a year in municipalities with fewer than 500 people to $2,500 where the population exceeds 50,000, and Greater Victoria trustees presumably would receive the latter sum.

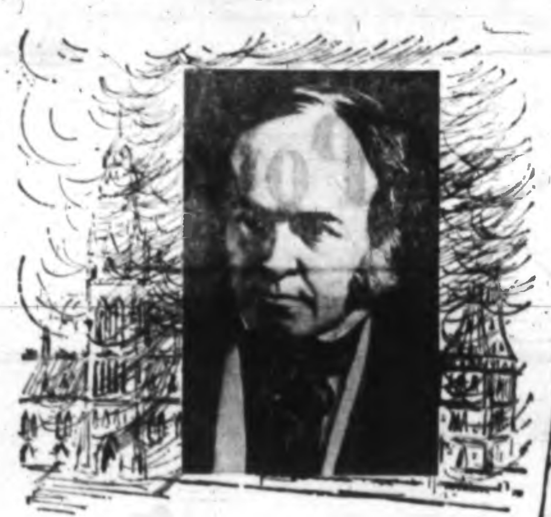
But there are points on both sides of the question that call for thoughtful deliberation.

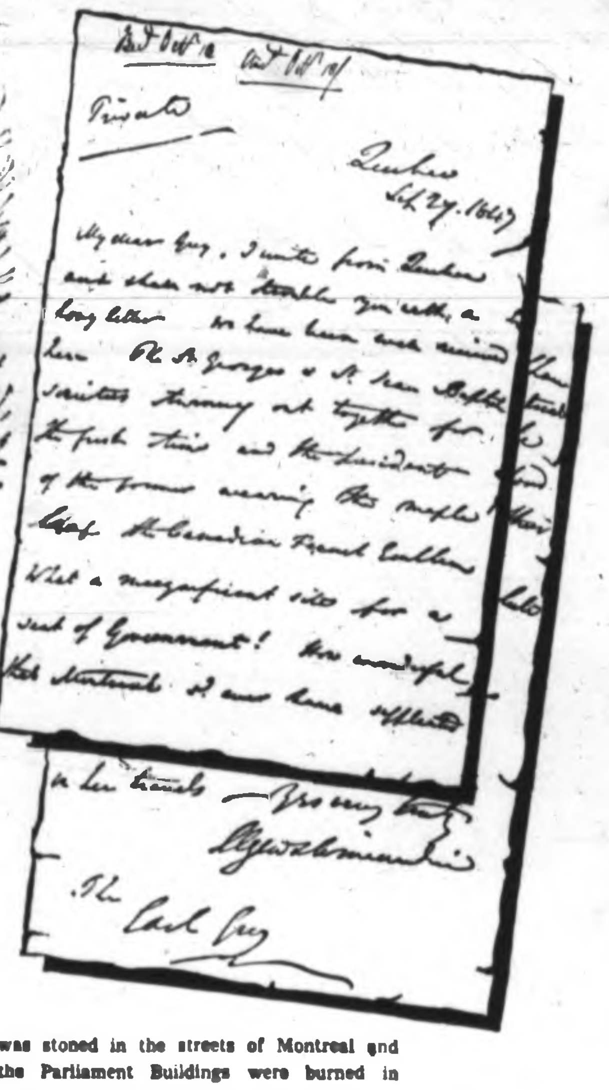
On one hand, trustees who advocate indemnification are obviously right when they say that theirs is no small responsibility or job. The problems they contend with are of as much community importance in many ways as those that occupy the councils, and their efforts to get the most for the taxpayers' money of as much consequence. It can hardly be doubted either that the trustees often find their public service personally expensive.

One may question however whether the school board members have quite as many calls on their own wallets by reason of their office and their prominence as do Victoria aldermen, for instance, or are obliged to devote so much of their business-hours time to civic duty. It has been suggested furthermore by one trustee that "if you pay too much people will start running for office for the money." By the same token, the absence of remuneration tends to ensure that those who are members of the school boards are there through a genuine and lively interest in serving their fellow citizens and in education.

Yet perhaps others just as interested and capable feel barred by economic circumstances if they are not to be recompensed. In balance, it does not seem likely that reasonable taxpayers will be opposed if the trustees at their convention ask for the same treatment as council members.

FAMOUS LETTERS IN CANADIAN HISTORY—NO. 11





The Maple Leaf

Responsible Government was to come and Confederation was still 20 years off but Canadians were making it clear that they intended to run their own affairs.

This was one of the first discoveries which James Bruce, Earl of Elgin and Kincardine, was to make after he arrived in Canada in 1847 to introduce the Responsible Government which had been recommended earlier by his father-in-law, Lord Durham.

In this letter to Earl Grey, Lord Elgin tells of the reception which greeted his arrival at Quebec and has something to say about the Maple Leaf as a Canadian symbol.

Two years later he was to see the bitter side of English-French relations when he was stoned in the streets of Montreal and the Parliament Buildings were burned in protest when he signed the Rebellion Losses Bill.

Lord Elgin Comments on Emblem

Quebec, September 27, 1847.

My Dear Grey:

I write from Quebec and shall not trouble you with a long letter. We have been well received here. The St. Georges and St. Jean Baptiste societies turning out together for the first time and the president of the former wearing the Maple Leaf, the Canadian French emblem . . . I send an article I have cut out from the Pilot, the Montreal Liberal paper showing how little the people of this province are inclined to tolerate any interference with their local affairs. The states of the union enjoy each of them absolute freedom of action within its own sphere — that example has its effect here. Mary improves in her travels.

Yours very truly,

Helps Build Friendship

Co-operation in Education

By HOWARD GREEN
Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

RECENTLY a Commonwealth education conference was held in Ottawa. It was the third such gathering, the other two having been in London and New Delhi.

This time about 200 delegates attended. They came not only from the 18 nations of the Commonwealth but also from 16 colonies, several of which will shortly gain nationhood.

Co-operation in the field of education is proving to be of great benefit to all concerned. It was initiated by my predecessor, Hon. Sidney Smith, who gave up his position of president of the University of Toronto to head the Department of External Affairs. Previously he had been president of the University of Manitoba.

* * *

At the first conference a Commonwealth Scholarship Plan was agreed to under which 1,000 students from the Commonwealth were to study for a period of two years in universities other than those in their homeland. Canada agreed to provide one quarter of these scholarships and in the intervening years many hundreds of students from other Commonwealth countries have studied here.

This plan was highly successful from the start and is to be continued. In addition there has been a steady increase in the number of teachers going to the less developed countries and educational facilities of various kinds have been provided.

Now plans are to be expanded in order to meet the drastic shortage of teachers in the new countries. Britain, Canada and Australia will take the lead as they are the three most developed Commonwealth nations.

One feature of the educational program has been direct co-operation between universities. For example our own UBC has assisted the University of Malaysia to establish a faculty of business administration. This has meant an exchange of professors between the two universities.

Another splendid program has been undertaken by Canadian University Service Overseas, better known as CUSO. It is somewhat like the American Peace Corps although the latter is a government to government operation.

The objective is to build up to a total of about 1,000 young graduates working abroad. This month about 150 more volunteers have left Canada and like their predecessors will be gone for two years. They are to serve in communities in the less developed nations beside local young people and under the same conditions.

* * *

Many of these graduates will be teaching but others will work as agricultural experts, doctors, nurses, engineers, and in a dozen other callings. Funds for their support are raised in various Canadian centres.

These new nations are desperately short of trained leaders and their own young people are eager for an opportunity to take training. There is no finer way for young Canadians to render service than in work of this kind.

I believe that co-operation in education will prove to be the main factor in drawing the members of the New Commonwealth together. Not only does it help unite them now but also the steady stream of trainees moving into positions of leadership will strengthen the ties with the countries from which help has come.

In the broad world picture these developments are of tremendous value. They set a standard. If the diverse races and creeds of the Commonwealth can work together then there is hope for general co-operation among all nations.

* * *

There will of course be setbacks and discouragements. Jeremiahs in Canada are still wringing their hands and predicting the breakup of the Commonwealth. But it shows no signs yet of disintegrating and the members are working well together.

For this success the teachers and the scholarship students and the graduate volunteers deserve much of the credit. They are pioneers in a field which is one of the most important to mankind. It must always be remembered that we live in days of a vast spreading of independence—and when co-operation among the nations may be the only alternative to mass destruction.

Canada's help in the sphere of education extends also to the French-speaking countries of Africa which are members of the "French Community," a grouping similar to the Commonwealth.

The University of Montreal and Laval University in Quebec City have been working with them and we initiated a grant of $300,000 per year for aid to such countries. Teachers and experts are supplied and students are brought to Canada: here again the services rendered is of the highest order.

No other nation in the world is in such an advantageous position as Canada for helping new nations in this field—and nothing will do more to build friendship for us abroad.

Today in History

By The Canadian Press

Six boxes of gold bullion worth $215,000 were stolen from an unguarded building at Toronto's Malton Airport 12 years ago today—in 1952. The gold, awaiting air shipment to Montreal, was never found but investigations indicated it had been flown to New York City in a private aircraft. It was believed to have been smuggled to Hong Kong and then to Communist China.

1869—A panic was caused on Wall Street—"Black Friday"—when financiers Jay Gould and James Fisk attempted to corner the gold market and the U.S. government had to step in.

1950 — A Canadian military mission arrived in Tokyo — the first Canadian unit to reach the Far East in the Korean conflict.

First World War: Fifty years ago today, in 1914, German troops began an attack on French positions along the Meuse River; Indian troops landed at Marseilles to join the Allied armies in France.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today, in 1939, the French armies began a counter-attack against the Nazis along a 60-mile front between Saarbrucken and the Rhine; Warsaw radio reported more than 1,000 civilians killed in 24 hours of shelling by the Germans.

Malaysia and Viet Nam

Difference in Heritage

By EDWARD NEILAN
from Kuala Lampur

THE "will to fight" of the people of Malaysia is much greater and in marked contrast to that of the people of South Viet Nam.

This has nothing to do with individual courage, which is not the monopoly of any nation or race. But here there is a feeling distinctly different from that in South Viet Nam about fighting Communists.

The comparison arises because the insurgency problems of South Viet Nam are often compared with those experienced in Malaya some years ago.

There have been complaints in recent months that the South Vietnamese soldier tends to avoid hard fighting, ambushes and "swinging the gate shut" on the enemy.

It also is frequently mentioned that the South Vietnamese population does not cooperate with the government efforts to exterminate the Communist Vietcong.

In South Viet Nam, when the Vietcong soldiers are spotted coming toward a village, people seldom scurry to tell the police or other government representatives.

By contrast, during the recent Indonesian landings at Pontian, farmers and peasants immediately told the police. When more Indonesians landed in Johore state, prompt information enabled the authorities to apprehend many of the intruders.

The Malaysians—then Malayans — resisted a Communist guerrilla invasion even though it took them 10 years. The success is sometimes attributed to geography—short land borders.

A sounder reason, according to one theory, is that the success should be attributed to the sense of civic justice and order instilled by the British.

By contrast, South Viet Nam did not inherit any such legacy from the French.

The British colonial civil service has been accused of being inefficient and bureaucratic, but in effect it was much more efficient and less corrupt than any other administration in Asia.

The people respected British justice. A farmer knew that in the majority of cases he could trust the police to do right by him. Thieves and lawbreakers were punished and couldn't buy their way out of jail.

In Indochina, the French colonies were much more loosely run. There was little example made of individual rights and upholding of justice for non-Frenchmen.

Aside from a program to educate a small elite, the French did little to uplift the people. Little, at least, by comparison with the British.

The difference in colonial heritage also is seen in the fact that Indonesians are ethnically, linguistically and religiously almost the same as Malayans. Yet their development after independence has been very slow in comparison.

Also, the Vietnamese have been subjected to many years of war and never really have "won." What little hope they might have had in the French was evaporated at Dien Bien Phu.

The South Vietnamese civil service was located almost exclusively in the cities. There was little effective administration, justice or government contact in the outlying areas.

The Communist Vietcong now have established governmental structure where in effect it existed only on paper before.

The Vietnamese thus are fighting for a sort of hazy "better tomorrow" which they have never really seen. In the last analysis, it is remarkable that they have any will to fight at all.

Difficulties Ahead

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

NOW that the special flag committee of the House of Commons has gone to work behind closed doors, people here are beginning to wonder if it can really accomplish anything.

There is little doubt that it might eventually come to some sort of decision, but it has only six weeks within which to do this and it must meet one further condition which could lead to trouble.

This is that unless at least 12 and possibly 13 of the 15 members agree on a single flag design, the Conservative Opposition will not accept the committee recommendation.

That could mean trouble when you consider the members who have been selected for the committee.

* * *

To begin with, one of the Liberals is John Matheson, the member for Leeds and the man chiefly responsible for the design of the three-leaf flag proposed by Prime Minister Pearson as his choice.

Mr. Matheson is firmly devoted to his design and changing his mind on it will not be easy. It won't help, either, that three of the four Quebec members of the committee will back him up on this. The fourth Quebecker, Theogene Ricard (Conservative—St. Hyacinthe-Bagot), is a firm Diefenbaker supporter sticking with the Red Ensign or something like it.

Opposing Mr. Matheson and holding out for some design featuring symbols of the British background of Canada will be at least two of the Tory members.

* * *

Hon. J. Waldo Montieth (C—Perth) is adamant in his demand that the Red Ensign be maintained, although he is willing to see some change in the symbol on the fly. Of much the same mind is Hon. Hugh Flemming (C—Victoria-Carleton).

In between these two extremes are the rest of the members, faced with the difficult task of bringing the opposing factions together on some sort of compromise or having to report failure to the Commons when the six weeks is up.

One of the best hopes as a mediator in this situation is Reid Scott (NDP—Toronto-Danforth), who has said more than once that he wants most simply to get the flag issue settled and who will support any reasonable design likely to win the most support.

He is a persuasive speaker and a man both well-liked and respected by other members. He may thus come to be the ace mediator of the committee.

* * *

Of help to him in this, oddly enough, will be a Conservative—David Pugh from Okanagan-Boundary in British Columbia.

While Mr. Pugh stands with his party on most matters, his strongest desire in the flag issue is that it be settled and he is a reasonable man who can see compromise and deal with it when it appears.

It is a bit more difficult to tell how other members of the committee will react. But whatever their reactions are, they will be those of a good portion of the country.

Somehow the various parties have managed to put on the committee members from all provinces except Nova Scotia, Alberta and Prince Edward Island.

The Liberals hold enough seats in Nova Scotia and on the committee to have done something there. The Conservatives covered five provinces with their five members. The Social Credit Party has two Alberta members, but chose to name one from Quebec. PEI was just forgotten.

As it is, Quebec has four voices on the committee, Ontario four, New Brunswick two, British Columbia two, and Newfoundland, Manitoba and Saskatchewan one apiece.

* * *

There is that about Commons committees, however, which allows members to be replaced as time goes on.

It is possible that some other MPs will take their places on this committee and offer their views (perhaps from other provinces) and lend their influence to whatever conclusion the committee might reach.

This remains to be seen at the moment, but could eventually prove to be one of the most fascinating games of musical chairs ever played in a committee.

Washington Calling

Separate Tracks

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE presidential campaign has thus far developed little that was unexpected and the six weeks remaining promise more of the same.

What is lacking is a sense of engagement—candidates joined in discussing the central issues of the day. While this may be a naive expectation, it has happened in earlier campaigns when debate has served to illuminate the road ahead. This year they are running on separate tracks that seem quite unrelated.

President Johnson is being chieftain, kindly father, of all mankind. His appeal for unity is calculated to get a warm response from a people who have seen too much of turmoil and change in the past year. But, standing on the high elevation of his office, he is above the battle and a little remote.

Sen. Barry Goldwater is pitching his campaign on denunciation—on scare and scandal. The moving target is hard to hit. And when the Republican candidate is wide of the mark, as in his charge that President Kennedy staged the Cuban missile crisis to win votes in the Congressional election of 1962, he makes a really whopping and spectacular miss. Whether this is a deliberate miss—planting the seeds of doubt—one can only speculate.

With so little engagement on issues attention focuses on the side shows. The polls are No. 1. George Gallup reports that never in his 29 years of political polling has he found such an imbalance—Johnson 65, Goldwater 29—at a comparatively late stage in the contest. The pollsters seem at times to be saying that there's really no need to bother with the rest of the campaign since it's all over but the shouting.

Under these circumstances organization attracts a disproportionate amount of interest. If President Johnson wins by the landslide the polls currently indicate, it will be in spite of the disarray of the Democratic National Committee. With certain activities excepted—the efficient way news is being funneled out to radio and television stations—it is confusion worse compounded.

* * *

You get two views on why this is so. One is that the president insists on keeping all the controls in his own hands, making every decision himself. He telephones at midnight and knocks a carefully-worked-out campaign schedule into the middle of next week.

The second version is that he has no choice, since otherwise the job would not be done.

After Goldwater's nomination in San Francisco a whole new Republican team was sent in. The old team had not been noted for its aggressiveness or its brilliance. But at least they knew who the paying customers were and how to find the locker room.

Whether the dedicated and intensely hard-working new men can on a national scale do what they did beginning in 1960 to capture the Republican party is questionable. The impression is strong at times that this is a rehearsal—it is skull practice in cementing their hold on the party and expanding their national base for the election of 1968.

In short, for the Goldwaterites it is an interim operation. No one is likely to admit this in the heat of the campaign. But as the new men quietly cinched the nomination for Goldwater, with moderate and liberal Republicans scarcely aware of what was happening, so their determination to hold and remake the whole party structure for the long pull cannot be discounted.

After Richard M. Nixon's nomination in 1960 Goldwaterites such as F. Clifton White set out immediately to make the party an instrument of the Goldwater brand of conservatism. Their success is a measure of their ability and zeal. It is idle to think that if they are overwhelmed in this election they will graciously surrender the GOP to the men they pushed out.

Tables Turning on Indonesia?

Now It's Operation Crush Sukarno

By EDWARD NEILAN

The project is part of neighboring and interested nations' answer to the Indonesian president's own Crush Malaysia program.

Five countries, the United States, Nationalist China, Australia, New Zealand and Great Britain are in on the plan.

* * *

It is actually a rebirth of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency operation that coincided with the abortive 1958 rebellion in Sumatra, the northernmost island of Indonesia. Nationalist Chinese agents were training and leading bands of Sumatran rebels. The CIA was paying the bills.

The U.S. State Department howled and an effort was made to get along with Sukarno.

* * *

Extreme Communist pressures on him and his own broken-field diplomatic darting about have now made this virtually impossible.

Reason for the revived guerrilla activity in Sumatra is plain: If Sukarno's massive military forces have to worry about a domestic insurgency problem, the pressure will lift on Malaysia.

Operation Crush Sukarno is just getting off the ground and won't be heard from for some time. Some Malaysian guerrillas will be trained in Taiwan for the job.

* * *

This is being done despite the fact that, for political balance reasons, Malaysia recognizes neither Nationalist or Communist China.

Sumatra is the main target because the island is still seething with discontent toward Sukarno's administration. Also, it's closer to the Malayasian mainland (just over 20 miles at some points).

The same factors that led to the revolution in 1958 are still present. These include traditional distrust of the Javanese whom Sukarno has installed in most top jobs. Rich oil, rubber and tin products of the island virtually support the rest of the nation. But most of this wealth goes into central government coffers in Djakarta on Java. Little returns to help Sumatrans.

* * *

Exiled Indonesians who took part in the 1958 revolt are now in Malaysia. They have close contacts with the once-active bands in Sumatra.

Lines of communication and supply have been set up.

The slow process of recruiting reliable people has begun in the Sumatran jungle. Recruiting is fairly easy because of the wide dislike of Sukarno in Sumatra, which he has neglected on most of his countrywide visits.

Arms supplied to the rebels in 1958 by the CIA reportedly are still cached in the Sumatran jungles.

* * *

Indonesia on several occasions has charged Britain with smuggling arms into the Celebes to stoke up the on-again off-again uprisings there.

Britain has denied these charges.

Ontario's Grits Pick Leader Pearson Protege Eyes Left

By FRASER KELLY

Liberal intellectual and party professionals in Ontario are convinced that to win the next provincial election they must get the votes of many reform-minded people now supporting the New Democratic party. Andrew Thompson, 39, Liberal's new leader in that province, typifies a new breed of men the party hopes will attract these votes.

He has lived with the troubles of minorities. His whole thrust as a politician was born in the years he served as a probation expert in British Columbia and in Canada's first Department of Citizenship.

"My dedication in being in politics is that we can, as politicians be champions of minorities who are not getting equal opportunities—and I don't mean ethnic groups alone. I mean the unemployed, rural groups, even drug addicts, and alcoholics."

* * * * * *

The Thompsons at Moment of Victory

Pundits and politicians have predicted the Ontario Liberal party will move to the left—towards a merger with New Democrats—under his leadership.

Yet Andy Thompson maintains there are clear and very strong philosophical differences separating the two parties.

* * *

"The socialists believe the government can do a better job in running business than private enterprise," he says. "I don't. The vitality of our economy comes from the climate which permits individual talents to express themselves."

At Lester Pearson's suggestion he ran provincially in a riding that hadn't voted Liberal since Confederation, in 1959.

"Neither he nor I thought I could win. But I thought I could help him if I had political experience, so I entered three weeks before the election.

* * *

"After the first week, when I saw how hard people were working for me, I decided I would really try and win. And I did, although at that time I was still more interested in federal than provincial affairs," he said.

He liked the "sense of freedom and certain elation" he felt as a politician. And now he admits he likes the excitement of the political arena.

Andy Thompson denies that he had any thoughts of being Ontario Liberal leader until after the election last September 25 when his party was badly beaten and its leader John Wintermeyer was defeated.

Ironically it was he who first approached Charles Templeton, who almost beat him for the job about entering the leadership race. And he wouldn't enter himself until Templeton freed him of his obligation to support him.

* * *

Now the future of the Liberal party is in his hands, and he's not quite sure how it got there. Certainly he didn't plan it.

"I've never had a clear, narrow goal in life. I believe events shape you, and you have to jump at the opportunities as they arrive," he said.

The Ontario Liberals have given him the opportunity to be a leader. Only the future will tell how good he really is.

Spain Takes Stride

By JEAN BRATTON

MADRID — Spain's 30,000 Protestants gathered recently to celebrate the beginning of a new era of religious freedom as agreement between the Spanish hierarchy and the Franco government over a proposed Bill of Rights for non-Catholics was announced.

* * *

This was the climax of a seven-year struggle led by the foreign minister, Senor Fernando Maria Castiella, to obtain legal recognition for Spain's religious minorities. Opposition from diehard church leaders such as the Bishop of Huelva, who recently declared that Spain was not yet "mentally, psychologically or socially ready for the exercise of religious freedom" frequently slowed progress.

An active boost, however, from the Vatican authorities, who have urged the speedy passage of the measure since 1961, helped bring the issue to a head in late June. Spain's primate then officially notified Castiella that the hierarchy was ready to discuss final points of the proposal with government representatives.

* * *

Non-Catholic Bill of Rights Is Announced

* * *

Last week, after a summer round of talks, a three-man commission of the primate, the Archbishop of Madrid, and the Archbishop of Sion for the hierarchy and Senor Castiella for the government signed a draft proposal.

After hearing Castiella's progress report the cabinet instructed an inter-ministerial committee to present the draft to the Spanish parliament when it reconvenes late in October. A foreign ministry spokesman expects the proposal to pass routine study and reach the floor for passage "well before the end of the year."

Although the contents of the bill have not been disclosed, reliable sources say the right to worship openly, own church property, conduct schools, publish religious tracts and maintain burial services and cemeteries are included.

As speculation mounted in the wake of brief official communiques, Spanish Protestants voiced jubilation that the quarter-century struggle for recognition was at last nearing completion. Some leaders were inclined to express reserve, but on the whole there is optimism. "Now we can stand for what we are—in the open, not undercover," said one leader.

Revolutionary German Car New Dimension in Driving

By ANTONY TERRY

NECKARSULM, West Germany—The revolutionary pistonless Wankel-engined car will begin to come off production lines at the Neckarsulm plant before the end of September.

The West German auto is a sports model of normal design called the Spider and will sell for $22,400 in West Germany.

Its sponsors think it will compete successfully with British sports models in West Germany.

This weekend I was given an exclusive ordinary motorist preview of this remarkable new dimension in driving.

Accelerator, gear lever, clutch and brake are all in their normal places and it is only when the car leaps from a standing start to a speed of 62 m.p.h. in 13 seconds that one realizes the extraordinary power contained in the tiny 500 c.c. hatbox-shaped rotary engine located in the rear.

Further acceleration up to 100 m.p.h. is at a slightly lower rate but despite its tiny engine the car easily outpaces and out-accelerates normal small sports cars with conventional piston engines.

Driving the Wankel, one is fascinated by the revolution counter. This seems determined to vanish off the top end of the dial every time one changes gear, and the engine seems to enjoy being driven at nearly 90 m.p.h. in third.

Authorized revolutions for the tiny power unit are 6,000 but the engine seems to race ahead beyond its red warning mark at 6,000 to 7,000 or more without effort, although it is in the range between 2,500 and 5,500 that it develops maximum power.

Earlier the Wankel engine for the Spider—almost its only moving part is a rotor shaped like a rounded-off triangle with curved sides—ran at 15,000 revolutions a minute.

It has now been slowed down to less than half this to increase engine life, which is now said to be normal.

At 35,000 miles the lining of the engine's rotor, which serves roughly the same purpose as piston rings in a normal engine may have to be replaced, but the engine needs virtually no servicing and, though it uses a pint of oil every 300 miles, this never has to be changed.

Little Wales Thrives In Patagonia's Hills

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — Descendants of 150 Welsh pioneers who created a "little Wales" in Argentina 99 years ago are preparnig for centenary celebrations next year.

The pioneers founded the colony in a hilly area of Patagonia inhabited by Indians. They built farms and developed the area now known as Chubut province.

* * *

Other groups which emigrated from Britain to Argentina, unlike the Welsh, did not remain together in one community.

To this day, the Welsh community has observed the customs of the homeland. The Welsh language is kept alive in the homes and in chapels.

Patagonia was reconnoitred with a view to settlement by two Welshmen, Captain Love Jones Parry, and a typographer, Lewis Jones, in 1863.

* * *

Today there are about 12,000 people of recognizably Welsh descent among the 150,000 people of Chubut province. These do not include a considerable number of descendants on the female side.

FOREST FIRES

Coast to Coast, from Sept. 21 to 26, we observe NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK. We are happy to have this part in honoring the men and women of our forest industries and the products of their work and ingenuity.

We live in homes built of wood, and we furnish these homes with wood in all its most appealing forms. Millions of new homes are built every year and most of them are built of wood. Our future homes, too, will be wooden homes because wood is a tradition and a heritage of our people.

More and more schools are being built in single storey frame construction because architects have rediscovered wood as a lasting material of great charm and beauty.

In most of our churches, too, the beauty of wood is employed to create an atmosphere of serene repose conducive to worship.

Yes, wood is part of our heritage and it is proper that we should have NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK set aside for special recognition.

Banks Stocks Given Boost At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Banks moved up over a point on index as stocks closed fractionally higher.

Montreal gained 1⅜ to 69⅝. Commerce one point to 68½, Banque Provinciale ¾ to 58½ and Nova Scotia and Royal ⅛ each to 78 and 76¾. Banque Canadienne Nationale lost ½ to 76½.

Great Lakes declined ¼ to 66¼ and Abitibi and Fraser ⅛ each to 14¼ and 32⅛.

* * *

Golds Taper Off

Dome was the main loser, dropping ¾ to 34½. Bralorne lost a small five cents to $4.15, but McIntyre Porcupine gained a point to 59¾.

Banks were the strongest group among industrials.

Power Corp. sparked a rising financial issues group by gaining ⅜ to 14⅜ after touching a new high of 14½. Canada Permanent Mortgage gained a point to 74, Eastern and Chartered Trust ⅜ to 51, Industrial Acceptance ¼ to 23¾ and Laurentide Finance ⅛ to 16⅜.

Canada Southern Petroleum dropped 20 cents to $3.25, New Calumet five cents to 96 cents, and Anglo Rouyn three cents to 65 cents.

The senior base metals list was strong. Falconbridge gained ⅜ to 77½, while Hudson Bay and Inco gained ½ each to 71 and 88¾ respectively.

* * *

Isolated Gains

VANCOUVER — The stock market was easier all round, with isolated gains in individual stocks, including Aluminium, Consolidated Mining and B.C. Forest Products.

Mines were dull with Endako at 9.60, Granduc at 6.75 and Bethlehem at 8.05. Silver Standard eased to .69 and Copperidge to .74.

GM Holds Line

All the big three motors took fractional losses. The big news was that General Motors has decided to "hold the line" on prices of its 1965 models and this served to counteract some of the inflationary psychology building up on Wall Street. GM stock dipped ⅜ to 99⅞.

Airlines were responding to a sizable increase in August traffic over year-ago figures, brokers said.

The newly awakened interest in Texas Gulf Sulphur gathered further power Wednesday, based on talks that the company's ore body near Timmins, Ont., is even richer than previously estimated. Texas Gulf was the most active stock, up 3¼ at 58¾ on 199,200 shares.

Milwaukee Railroad rose ¼ to 33¼ on 186,600 shares, making it the second most active. The Milwaukee and Chicago and North Western Railroad have agreed on merger terms, it was reported. The latter lost ⅛ in much lighter trading.

Gordon's Finance Plans

His Target Multiple

By HARRY YOUNG

Colonist Business Editor

Finance Minister Walter Gordon hopes to kill quite a few birds with one stone in his new financial institution legislation.

Primarily, in restricting the foreign ownership of shares of banks, life insurance companies, trust companies and savings and loans companies to 25 per cent of the outstanding stock capital, he is very effectively going to prevent any further foreign take-overs of these types of companies.

He is also going to ensure that any new companies will have 75 per cent Canadian ownership, and with no non-resident having more than 10 per cent individual interest.

OTHER AIMS

The other aims are to encourage life insurance companies to invest a larger proportion of their assets in Canadian equity stocks, and to increase the legal amount of a first mortgage from two-thirds to three-quarters of the value of a property.

The financial world has generally applauded Mr. Gordon's proposals, and once again the finance minister has served up a dish that stamps him as being more a Conservative in thought and deed than he is a Liberal.

Mr. Gordon, by and large, is carrying on the trend first taken by Donald Fleming.

POLICING?

One of the questions being asked is the way in which the finance department will police the new regulations. One of the initial snags appears to be that life insurance and trust companies incorporated under provincial charter will be able to circumvent the federal regulations.

For instance, provincially chartered life insurance companies may apply for licences to trade in eight Canadian provinces whether they hold federal charters or not.

B.C. government officials handling these matters, however, expressed Wednesday the view that there would be close co-operation between the federal and provincial authorities in this matter, and that as in the past they would be anxious to move towards uniformity, rather than the reverse.

TURN DOWN?

What would B.C. do if foreign interests sought to set up a $100,000,000 insurance or trust company under provincial charter in Vancouver? Would Mr. Bennett turn them down because it was against federal policy?

No one in government circles was willing to answer those questions, although it was generally maintained that there would be close liaison between the two governments.

One of the immediate effects of the legislation will be to relieve the Canadian financial institutions of take-over dangers.

HEADACHE

In the past this has been a headache for life insurance companies, and in many cases, including that of the mammoth Sun Life, the Canadian ownership was maintained only because the company was allowed by law to purchase its own shares and so mutualize itself.

Although the regulations for banks are to be drawn up separately, presumably in the revised bank act, the limitation of foreign ownership here will leave the Mercantile Bank of Canada as the only chartered bank not in Canadian control.

Mercantile Bank is owned jointly by Dutch and New York banking firms, and these two now appear to have the foreign element of the Canadian banking system as a complete monopoly, for the new legislation is not retroactive.

The concensus is that Mr. Gordon has taken a preview of the findings of the Porter Commission on Banking and Finance, and that the new legislation represents a first step by the government to implement some of the commission findings.

CANADIAN PACIFIC APPOINTMENT

WILLIAM MILLER

J. M. Roberts, Vice-President, Traffic, Canadian Pacific, has announced a significant development in the Company's freight rate department. William Miller of Montreal, has been appointed to the newly-created position of General Freight Traffic Manager-Rates. The position involves system jurisdiction over all freight rates and division matters. Mr. Miller, a native of Winnipeg, Man., has been associated with the railway freight traffic operations of Canadian Pacific for more than 30 years. In addition to service in Western Canada, he has held positions at Fort William, Toronto and Montreal. Mr. Miller was closely involved in the preparation of traffic material studied by the MacPherson Royal Commission on Transportation. Prior to his new appointment, he was Assistant General Traffic Manager. •••

Agriculture Profits

Pearson Is Stepmother To Poor Cinderella

OTTAWA (UPI) — The fisheries department Wednesday was portrayed as "the Cinderella" of the government with Prime Minister Pearson acting more like "the stepmother . . . than in the capacity of Prince Charming."

Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) used the metaphor during debate on the estimates of the fisheries department which were tabled in the House of Commons Wednesday afternoon.

Barnett claimed that the "sister" department to fisheries—agriculture—was getting priority from the government leaving the Canadian fisherman without a development program.

Fisheries Minister Robichaud gave a lengthy outline of a number of programs which his department would implement, including an "eat fish" program.

The minister said the object will be to get Canadians eating more fish "in the home, in restaurants and in institutions."

Bishops Applaud Plea for Liberty

VATICAN CITY (AP)—American cardinals, backed by Canadians and Latin Americans, pressed the Vatican Ecumenical Council Wednesday for a declaration of religious liberty and set off a conflict with European conservative prelates. The Americans' stand was applauded, in violation of council rules.

Speaking of "decent respect for the opinion of mankind," Cardinal Cushing of Boston told his fellow bishops from around the world:

"We must insist on this declaration because it is so important for all nations . . . It is something the Catholic world and non-Catholic world alike have been waiting for . . ."

Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal speaking for bishops of Canada, praised the text of the declaration—still to be made public—as "very acceptable and said it would be a help in the Roman Catholic Church's efforts toward Christian unity.

Italy's Alfred Cardinal Ottaviani, conservative secretary of the Vatican's ancient holy office, and Ernesto Cardinal Ruffini, archbishop of Palermo, took sharp issue with these views.

"We must profess and defend our Catholic faith no matter what the consequences," declared Cardinal Ottaviani. "It is not lawful to admit freedom to spread a religion when this may harm the unity of a Catholic nation and culminate in weakening it."

Public Will See Little of Queen

OTTAWA (CP)—Queen Elizabeth will make only two major public appearances—one of 15 minutes and another of 25—during her eight-day royal visit to Canada next month.

The detailed itinerary for the Oct. 5-13 tour, released Wednesday, also shows the Queen will drive along streets in closed cars on 23 occasions—12 in Prince Edward Island, seven in Quebec City and four in Ottawa.

Total driving time will be 127 minutes in P.E.I., 125 minutes in Quebec and 85 minutes in Ottawa, the only stops on the tour.

The two main opportunities for the public to see the Queen and Prince Philip will be at a children's rally in the Charlottetown Exhibition Grounds Oct. 7 and a wreath-placing ceremony on Oct. 12—Thanksgiving Day—at the National War Memorial in downtown Ottawa.

At Quebec, no large public events are scheduled.

The Queen is to make two brief national network television addresses. The first will be about 2 p.m. EDT Oct. 6 in the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building at Charlottetown, the second at about 10:35 a.m. EDT Oct. 10 in the Quebec Legislative Chamber.

Both speeches will come at ceremonies marking the 100th anniversary of the pre-Confederation conferences in those cities, the main reason for the royal visit.

ARRIVE BY JET

The royal couple will arrive in Canada by BOAC jet Oct. 5, landing at the Summerside, P.E.I., RCAF field at 4:35 p.m. EDT.

They will leave separately, however. Prince Philip is to fly from Ottawa to Quebec City on Thanksgiving afternoon to board the Britannia for his trip to the Caribbean. The Queen will leave Ottawa for London the morning of Oct. 13 aboard an Air Canada jet.

Sex in Church Parlor

Girl, 15, Testifies

CHATHAM, Ont. (UPI)—A 15-year-old girl testified Wednesday that she had sexual intercourse with a boy at a frequency "too numerous to mention" in the parlor of Park Street United Church.

She was the 15th of 20 crown witnesses appearing at the trial of Rev. Russell Horsburgh, 45, charged with eight counts of contributing to juvenile delinquency by encouraging and providing accommodation for sexual intercourse among juveniles.

Defence attorney Cy Perkins asked for an early adjournment Wednesday because he intended to cross-examine the girl for at least two hours and wanted to get an early start today.

SAID NOTHING

The girl testified that the minister knew what was going on in the apartment in the church building, but said nothing about it.

Earlier in the morning, a 13-year-old girl, unsworn because Judge W. H. Fox ruled she did not fully appreciate the meaning of an oath, said her 14-year-old sister was raped in the apartment.

The younger girl claimed that she and her sister were sorting used clothes when a boy entered and forcibly evicted her. She said she ran to Mr. Horsburgh for help, only to have the minister tell her, "Leave them alone."

UNAWARE OF KEY?

Mr. Perkins asked her if she had at any time heard about a key for the apartment upstairs. She said she hadn't.

Mr. Perkins then produced a statement the girl had made to police which said she heard Mr. Horsburgh tell a boy to take a girl to the apartment and the minister would give the boy a key.

The 16-year-old boy accused of the attack denied the story, saying he met the girl at a church meeting. In January or February of this year, he said, he was in the minister's office when the sisters came in.

MINISTER WENT TOO

The "Rev" sent the two girls upstairs, he said, and then suggested, "Why don't you go upstairs and (word denoting sexual intercourse) (girl's name)."

The boy claims the minister went upstairs with him and it was he who pulled the 13-year-old sister from the room. He said the other girl did not object "too much."

Outside the courtroom, a tense situation prevailed, as crown and defence witnesses, most of whom have been attending the trial since it started, glowered at each other.

GLARING GROUPS

One policeman patrols the corridors, another checks reporters' credentials before admitting them to the courtroom.

The two factions are most readily identified at the noon break, when Mr. Horsburg enters the court building with an entourage of young people who glare silently at another group—youths with whom they used to be friends.

Scouters To Hold Camp Fire

An outdoor camp fire will be held 8 p.m. Friday at Camp Barnard to honor a visit of B. H. Mortlock, director of relationships services at National Scout Headquarters, Ottawa—but the Boy Scouts themselves will, in many cases, be at home babysitting.

The camp fire is for Campers, committee men and their wives in the Greater Victoria region who will hear an address by the director.

At 12:15 p.m. Friday Mr. Mortlock will be at he Colonial Inn Hotel for a luncheon for members of the executive committee of the region.

Morals Case Adjourned

Preliminary hearing into charges of attempted rape and indecent assault against Daniel Stanley Fletcher, 20, of HMCS Naden, was adjourned until Sept. 29, Wednesday at Saanich.

Fletcher pleaded not guilty to the charges. A 17-year-old girl testified she was forced to drink some wine and was stripped in the rear of a car, late in August.

Arts Council To Be Studied

Formation of a Greater Victoria Arts Council, designed to co-ordinate local artistic endeavors, will be considered at a meeting in the Art Gallery at 8 p.m. Monday.

Canadian Film Praised By Leading U.S. Critics

NEW YORK (CP)—The Luck of Ginger Coffey, a major feature film produced in Canada largely by Canadians, was given its U.S. premiere here Monday and reaped generally complimentary comment from the city's six newspaper critics.

A Roth-Kerschner Production filmed in association with Crawley Films Limited of Ottawa, with F. R. Crawley as executive producer, the film is an adaptation by Brian Moore from his book of the same title.

Moore, an Irishman who settled in Montreal before moving to New York, fashioned what most of the critics concluded is an honest narrative of an Irish immigrant and his wife living in Montreal with their teen-age daughter.

Much of the success of the film was attributed to its stars, British actors Robert Shaw, who plays Ginger, and Mary Ure, who plays his wife.

Because of them, wrote Judith Crist in the Herald Tribune, Tuesday, the film provides "a rare and subtle portrait of two people involved in a deep-rooted marital relationship."

Except for Shaw, Miss Ure and Liam Redmond, all members of the cast are Canadian actors. Among those in line for praise were Libby McClintock, who played the Coffeys' daughter, Tom Kneebone, Powys Thomas and Tom Harvey.

PRESIDENT'S TEA

The President's Tea of the Victoria Curling Club, Ladies Division is being held on Sunday, Sept. 27 at 3 p.m. in the Club Lounge.

Dual Use Opposed

Pacific Trollers' Association has asked the federal fisheries department to place restrictions on commercial fishing gear to eliminate dual gillnet-trollers such as this fishing fleet of Juan de Fuca Strait gillnetters tied up at Sooke. Because of cuts in allowable netting time hundreds of gillnetters installed trolling poles and bona fide trollers claim they are threat to salmon conservation efforts. — (Alec Merriman.)

The Abbotsford home of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Peardon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Ganzeveld's home in Vernon.

Home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Halvorsan, Prince George.

Today over 6,000 B.C. families enjoy the comforts of modern electric heating. These families live in all types of houses, in all kinds of climate, from Victoria to Prince George. And this winter most – including those who live in the homes shown here – will be paying less for their heating than in previous seasons. Why? B.C. Hydro's new all-electric rates have cut the cost of electric heating as much as 20%. Now you can heat a home electrically for little or no more cost than with other automatic systems. What do you get in return? Quiet, carefree operation – room-by-room temperature control – and the cleanest and most modern automatic heating available today.

If you're planning to build or modernize your home, ask B.C. Hydro for a free heating survey. You may be surprised how little electric heating costs these days.

New Home on Burnside

SPCA and Tenants Move

Apart from the anticipated chaos, the transfer of animals from the SPCA Shelter at 111 Wilson to the new $53,000 quarters at Burnside and Napier went off without serious hitches this week.

The moving job was made simpler by the fact that many cats and dogs were provided with homes before Monday.

Officials, instead of moving 26 cats and 40 dogs, which they had last Thursday, found homes for all but six cats and 25 dogs.

Mrs. McCormick, of the SPCA office staff and wife of kennelman Don McCormick, said that impounded dogs were moved Monday and dogs for adoption early Tuesday.

The cats went Tuesday.

If the dogs were enjoying their modern new luxury home with heated floors covered with heat and scratch-proof paint, the cats weren't so lucky, for a time.

MANY CLAIMED

"With the heat off and no water, the cats looked like real orphans," Mrs. McCormick said.

The turtle, brought in to the SPCA when a motorist found him wandering in the road, has been moved. So have the orange canaries.

Many animals were claimed after a Colonist story about the strays last Friday. That day there were 39 inquiries about lost pets and 15 in one hour the next day.

But the turtle and the canaries remained unadopted and unclaimed.

BUILDING TRANSFERRED

Officials feared problems in moving the suite and office building from Wilson to Burnside, but jacking up the building was completed and the building hauled to its new location successfully Tuesday.

The building will remain as a suite for the kennelman and the office will become the board room.

Police, Soldiers Hunt Kidnappers Of Three Children

POITIERS, France (Reuters) —Some 200 police and a large detachment of troops Wednesday launched systematic search of the countryside near here for three children kidnapped on their way home from school Monday.

In Paris, Interior Minister Roger Frey ordered police in the Poitiers area and surrounding districts to search all uninhabited buildings where the children—two boys and a girl—could have been hidden.

Paris police were mobilized to make a similar search in the capital.

The children, Patrick Guillon, 5, his six - year - old sister Christine, and Joel Biet, also 5, disappeared on their way home from school at Marnay near here.

Mrs. Guillon Tuesday night made a radio appeal for the return of her children, saying she was not rich but was prepared to sell her farm to get back her children.

Police said detectives spent most of Tuesday questioning the aunt but no charges had been made.

A note left in one of the children's school bags was marked with a skull and crossbones. It warned the families not to contact police or "we shall have no pity for your children."

Severed Feet Could Be School Prank

BLANDFORD, England (AP) —A 17-year-old schoolboy with both feet cut off by a train was found bound and gagged on a roadside near this Dorset town Wednesday. Taken to hospital, he was reported in "fairly satisfactory" condition.

Police said it looked as if Hargreaves had been tied to the railway track and hit by a train Tuesday night. The feet, just above the ankle, were found alongside the track.

"I cannot say," a school official told reporters, "if there is to be an investigation among the pupils to see if this was some sort of schoolboy prank that misfired."

The Daily Colonist.

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1964

Port Renfrew

King Coho Lead Changing Fast

The King Fisherman Contest coho lead changed hands twice Wednesday with big coho taken at Port Renfrew by Colonist subscribers.

Maurice Tremblay of Port Renfrew, weighmaster for the Port Renfrew Salmon Club, caught a 20:15-pounder Wednesday night to take the lead, and as a Colonist subscriber he stands to win both the King Fisherman trophy and the three-horsepower outboard motor donated by T. Eaton Co. for the subscriber with biggest coho.

"But, there will probably be a bigger one in the next few days. There are lots of big ones out there," said Mr. Tremblay.

He took the lead from Lloyd Thompson, who landed a 20:12-pound coho in Port Renfrew waters Wednesday morning. (See earlier story, Page 24.)

Mr. Tremblay now leads two divisions of the Port Renfrew derby . . . the coho with his Wednesday fish and the spring salmon division with a 38:4-pounder he caught Sept. 7.

He caught his coho on a favorite Cowichan Spinner No. 4, which has caught him 12 fish this year and 15 last year.

"But it is the only one that works for me," he said. "I have made up lots of them, but this is the only one that gets fish. I change them around a little."

'Mum' Was Word

A youth answering the description of a Brannan Lake fugitive called out "Mum," then fled when he was discovered in the bathroom of a Victoria home Wednesday.

The woman occupant of the home told police she was lying down when she heard a sound in the bathroom.

When she opened the door a small youth cried out "Mum," then fled out the front door.

Police figured the youth would have had to be small to make his way through the 10-by-20-inch bathroom window.

One Meeting to Go

Luxton Derails Municipal Plan

By GARY OAKES

The Langford-Colwood Special, charging towards municipal incorporation, was derailed at Luxton Wednesday night.

More than 100 residents of Happy Valley, Glen Lake and Luxton voted 80 to 27 to reject any further steps towards incorporation.

It was the second of three meetings scheduled by the six-member Langford-Colwood Incorporation Study Committee, and left the combined total of votes at 116 to 64 against incorporation.

If approved the vote would give the committee authority to launch a petition calling for the government to hold a referendum. Both the petition and the referendum require a 60 per cent majority.

But the area residents who packed Luxton Hall dimmed hopes of incorporation. Final decision on the controversial issue is up to the third and last meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. next Wednesday in Colwood Hall.

'Two Out of Three'

Committee member John Williams, who is also chairman of the Sooke School Board and a strong promoter of incorporation, expressed disappointment at the results of the Luxton meeting.

But he maintained that if the Colwood meeting voted for the petition, "we should carry on regardless of the combined vote total. Two out of three should be enough."

He warned it is up to those attending next week's meeting to vote for incorporation, "otherwise it's finished."

Committee member Bill Reader said it is "unfortunate they turned it down. They'll regret it in the future."

Mr. Williams charged that the meetings were packed with organized opposition and said people "are not prepared to accept our information. They have made up their minds before the meeting even starts."

But he still claimed the majority of area residents favored incorporation.

Moved to Escape

Many people complained that they had moved to the area to escape regulations and taxation but now the same things are being forced on them.

Realtor Stuart Hamilton of 2772 Sooke Road, who moved to the area three years ago from Montreal, said he is definitely against incorporation "at this time."

"I can see it in my business all the time," he said. "People come here looking for property with a rural atmosphere so they can escape all the regulations."

He moved that the committee be disbanded Sept. 30 if the total vote from the three meetings was against incorporation, but couldn't find a seconder.

Rev. W. J. O'Brien, parish priest for the area who has lived there for 17 years, told the Colonist he strongly favors incorporation but suspected it would be defeated because of a lack of support from those who favor it.

A contrasting view was offered by C. H. Ridley of 3148 Metchosin Road who has lived in the area more than 50 years.

"I hardly think the area will go for incorporation," he maintained. "We're not ready for it yet. We need more people and more development. Perhaps in several years."

Boy Released After Checkup

Twelve-year-old David Fitzpatrick, of 1370 Oliver, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital by Oak Bay police after collapsing on the gymnasium floor of Oak Bay United Church at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday.

He was released after being examined.

If Fares Rise

'Many Won't Finish School'

By IAN STREET

B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation charged Wednesday that the proposed increase in student bus fares will have a harmful effect on school attendance.

John Stanton, education chairman of the 36,000-member provincial organization, told the Public Utilities Commission that B.C. Hydro's fare application, if granted, will "prevent many young people from completing their education."

"Numerous families today are living so close to the brink, economically speaking, that addition of even 25 or 30 cents a day for bus fare will actually prevent continued attendance at school," he said.

SUBSIDY URGED

Mr. Stanton said the federation suggested that the $174,000 which Hydro hopes to gain by raising student fares should be contributed in the form of a subsidy by the municipalities.

The money could come out of increased payments to municipalities resulting from any adult fare increase which the PUC grants to Hydro on its Greater Victoria and Lower Mainland transit service.

Lawyer R. R. Dodd, appearing for Hydro objected to what he termed "a fundamental error" in the federation's brief which claimed that student fares were to be raised to the same level as adult fares.

LOWER FARES

At present students over 12 but below university level are permitted to ride buses at children's fares—five cents here and seven cents in Vancouver—between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. on school days.

Mr. Dodd said Hydro's application called for raising of all children's fares to 10 cents and establishment of a new "intermediate" student fare at 15 cents.

This new student fare would apply to all students below university level at all times throughout the year.

'ANGEL' NEEDED

Dr. H. F. Angus, chairman of the PUC, said a "mathematical possibility" exists that the commission will propose some form of reapportionment of fare increases in order to give Hydro the additional revenues it requires.

He indicated that this could lead to retaining present student fares. Chances of this happening would be substantially increased if "some angel"—obviously the municipalities—offered a subsidy.

Hydro officials said they could see little objection to a subsidy so long as Hydro received the additional revenues it sought.

Human Fly Needed

The call has gone out for a combination steeple-jack and human fly to post the United Appeal total each day on the progress indicator on the Bentall Building at Douglas and Fort.

You go up two floors, the usual way, then go out through a fan trucking to an area leading to a ledge which faces on Douglas. You creep along this ledge and around two pillar columns before reaching the sign.

You work a lever at the back of the sign which indicates the new total of United Appeal collections.

Airmen Discuss Space Program

The U.S. space program, intercontinental ballistic missiles and the strategic air command will be discussed at the Victoria Rotary Club's noon meeting today at the Empress Hotel by five U.S. Air Force officers from Spokane, Wash.

PUC Transit Talks Moving to Vancouver

Public Utilities Commission wound up three days of hearings in Victoria Wednesday on B.C. Hydro's application to double its bus fares, then adjourned until Nov. 9 when the hearings will resume in Vancouver.

It's unlikely, officials said yesterday, that any further hearings will be held in Victoria.

Hydro's case in support of its application is now complete, with the exception of the results of a survey now in progress which will update 1960 findings upon which projected transit revenues are based, lawyer R. R. Dodd told the Commission.

The information being gathered throughout September on Lower Mainland routes will be processed by Oct. 31, said Mr. Dodd.

He invited the municipalities, who are opposing Hydro's fare bid, to send their own transit experts along to check on methods used to compile results.

The Hydro lawyer said it will probably take only one day to present the new information to the PUC when hearings resume.

Mr. Dodd said he doesn't expect the up-to-date survey findings to alter Hydro's case or cause any further delay in proceedings.

PUC chairman Dr. H. F. Angus said the Vancouver hearings are expected to last about two weeks, but the complicated nature of the Hydro application for fare increases would probably take at least until next Jan. 31 to resolve.

The municipalities have hired a firm of eastern U.S. transit consultants to advise them on the counter-proposal to be presented when hearings resume.

It's a Long Way to University

By TED GASKELL

Some 1,500 Greater Victoria youngsters are now settling down to the sort of routine they can expect to follow for the next 12 or 15 years of their lives—the routine of school.

Of course kindergarten, where they started this month, is a long way from university, but still the first step has been taken.

Greater Victoria has 15 kindergarten classes at as many schools with a maximum of 120 youngsters attending quarter-time, that is, half a day a week every other week.

Last year there were 12 kindergartens operating, but Shelbourne, overcrowded, was dropped, and four were added this year at Willows, Monterey, Craigflower and McKenzie Avenue.

Kindergartens last year had 1,350 pupils.

Trustees, planning new schools, always include one extra room as a kindergarten but, says assistant superintendent Joseph Chell, the population growth has been such that the room usually ends by being used as a regular classroom.

"We hope ultimately to have enough rooms to have kindergarten pupils on a half-time basis. At present Victoria is the only district among those offering kindergarten to be on quarter-time."

Kindergarten is actually a pre-primary school, says Mr. Chell, and he expects that before long it will be renamed "preschool."

Youngsters don't learn to read or write in kindergarten, but they do get a chance to adjust to a new way of life, to socialize, hear stories, learn to recognize their names when written, and to count.

The extroverts are settled down a bit and the introverts brought out, said Mr. Chell.

This year, McKenzie Avenue, with a new unit, found room in the old school for a kindergarten; Willows' new addition provided accommodation for the youngsters; a new room was added at Craigflower, and Monterey, which had three portable annexes, retained one for kindergarten.

Chevrolet

Impala Sport Coupe
A General Motors Value

One look at Chevrolet and—presto—last year's crop of cars seems like something that happened a long time ago. It's longer, lower, wider—with the kind of interior comforts that'll have many an expensive car wondering why it didn't think of them first. Over three inches more shoulder room in all closed models, more legroom up front and more footroom too. Curved side windows, rich new fabrics and an instrument panel that's a conversation piece all by itself. In fact, just about everything's new right down to the road. And even that'll seem newer because this year Chevrolet's Jet-smooth ride is smoother than ever. A new Full Coil suspension system, front and rear, coupled with a Wide-Stance design that improves handling and stability. Just take a drive at your dealer's. It'll all become unforgettable.

Chevelle

Malibu Super Sport Coupe

New style, new ride—and plenty of V8 stuff. Here are all the things that have made Chevelle Canada's popular new-sized car—plus some new surprises! From its new V-shaped grille on back, Chevelle is beautifully proportioned between the regular Chevrolet and Chevy II. You'll enjoy the silky way it skims over the choppiest roads, thanks to softer coil springs and other suspension system refinements. All told, five different power plants are now available: from a quieter Six to a V8 that comes on 300 horses strong. And there's a new choice of thirteen models, including a brand-new low-priced 300 Convertible. Some people might have expected us to stand pat after introducing a car this successful last year. It's worth a trip to your dealer's just to see how wrong they were.

Corsa Sport Coupe

There's never been a Corvair—or any other car—like it. It's racier, roomier, sweeter-going—with a higher powered range of engines for '65.

The entire line—topped by the new Corsa Sport Coupe and Convertible—now has a totally new Body by Fisher, styled with fresh, sophisticated lines that say "Sport" with a capital "S." The longer, wider design gives all Corvair closed models a thin-line hardtop roof.

To go with the racier look, there's a new range of rear-engine power with up to 180 hp available in the Corsa series and up to 140 hp in the Monza and 500 series. Also a flatter-riding sports-car type suspension system, bigger self-adjusting brakes, more responsive steering—all solidly buttressed by a new wider road stance for '65.

Chevy II

Chevy II Nova 4-Door Sedan
A General Motors Value

It may very well be the expensive-est looking thrift car you've ever laid eyes on. But thrifty it is. The big difference this year being that Chevy II's marvelous mechanical efficiency now comes decked out in a debonair new look.

And to keep things right in stride under the hood, there's a new range of four engines, no less. There's a gas-nursing 4 available in the lowest-priced sedans, and a smooth 6 or spunky V8 available throughout the line. And then, specially designed to turn any Chevy II Sedan, Sport Coupe or bucket-seated Super Sport Coupe into an entirely new breed of cat, there's a new V8 available that turns out 250 hp. Of course, you still get those famous Chevy II maintenance reducers—self-adjusting brakes, long-lived exhaust system, battery-saving Delcotron generator. Sound like saving money was the last thing we had in mind? It was—right up until the very moment we put the price sticker on the window.

Victorian Says: Visited U.K., Asia

It's a Wonderful World!

By DON GAIN

It's a great, wide, wonderful world, according to Philip Chandler, 23, of 620 Bryden Court, who has just returned home after spending the greater part of this year at sea.

Before he returned he had visited the U.K. and Europe as well as ports in the Mediterranean, the Persian Gulf and Japan.

HOT AND DRY

"It covers everything with sand and dust," he said, "and the temperature goes up to about 119. It was that hot when I was in Khorramshahr and Bandar Shapur, inland from the Persian Gulf."

He'll remember Leixoes (pronounced Lay-Shawn), the port of Oporto, Portugal. "It's right on the Atlantic. The breakers roll in toward colorful fishing boats on the beach and picturesque villas against forested hills."

CAN'T FORGET

He can't forget Marseilles.

"I liked to walk along the waterfront," he said. "You can look up at the shrine of Notre Dame de la Garde above the harbor. Everywhere were flower stalls, pigeons, gendarmes. In the narrow cobbled streets with their wrought-iron balconies I half expected to see Joan of Arc or Louis XIV."

The former Esquimalt High School student found Pompeii like Coney Island.

"It was jammed with people and they all seemed to have transistor raios. Somehow it spoiled it."

PISA DIFFERENT

Pisa was a different story.

"It's wasn't so commercialized. I was impressed by the beautiful marble buildings in the Square of Miracles—the cathedral and the leaning tower."

"It was in the cathedral," he said, "that Galileo proved his low of the pendulum and in the leaning tower his law of falling bodies."

DUNKIRK REBUILT

The old wooden feudal castle of Nagoya, built about 1612 and destroyed in incendiary raids in the Second World War, was completely rebuilt about 1959 in concrete.

USED AS MUSEUM

"The exterior is identical," Philip said, "but the interior, used as a museum, now has elevators and is like a modern department store."

He crossed the equator four times, was duly initiated the first time during last Christmas week.

He found most people friendly toward Canadians, liked East London and Durban in South Africa especially.

"They are a lot like Victoria," he said.

He came back from Japan on the Norwegian ship Lloyd Bakke and now he's looking for a job.

He formerly worked for King Bros., ship agents. A shipping buff from away back, he liked the job that took him aboard foreign freighters at Ogden Point.

But his wanderlust finally got the better of him last December.

Did he cure it?

City Hall Move Delayed

The big job of moving into the new city hall has been delayed seven days until the weekend of Oct. 23 to 26.

But this does not mean there will be any extension of time for contractors in the Centennial Square civic complex.

Members of the centennial committee, who authorized the delay Tuesday, want that made clear.

Moving in on the weekend of Oct. 16-19 would be cutting things too closely, city manager Dennis Young thought.

Delay will cut down on the time between moving day and official opening, but that can not be helped. Official opening plans have to be cleared with Mayor R. B. Wilson, who is out of town, before any announcement can be made.

Alcoa Convicted

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A federal judge found the Aluminum Company of America guilty Tuesday of violating a U.S. anti-trust law and ordered it to divest itself of its ownership in a St. Louis firm. U.S. District Judge James H. Meredith ruled Alcoa's avowed purpose in acquiring Cupples Products Corporation in 1960 was to get 40 per cent of the aluminum curtain wall business.

Advertising Pays Off

Inquiries on Increase At Visitors' Bureau

Changes in tourist promotion advertising by the B.C. government travel bureau appear to have paid off, judging from the increased number of inquiries at the Victoria Visitors' Bureau.

Michael Heppell, of the Victoria Visitors Bureau, said there were 6,000 more inquiries from visitors between Jan. 1 and Aug. 31 this year than last year in that period when the bureau was called on to provide information for 72,000 potential visitors.

Many of the replies went to the Prairies, where government advertising was aimed.

He added that twice as much advertising material was sent out to travel agencies across the continent. Last year 1,800 parcels of advertising material weighing less than 15 pounds were sent out. This year the figure was 3,577.

By the end of this month figures will be available from transportation companies and the bureau will be able to compare the number of visitors this year with other years.

The bureau is also awaiting information from hotel and motel operators in order to compile figures showing the length of stay of visitors.

So far nothing has developed on a plan, announced this May, to make available books of tickets to district tourist attractions so that Victoria area residents might become acquainted with tourist attractions in the area.

Look North, Bonner Says

He said Tuesday that Prince George is becoming the economic hub of the province and for that reason Premier Bennett proposed recently that the Yukon and a part of the Northwest Territories amalgamate with B.C.

Victoria Student Named To National Executive

By JUDITH BAINES

University of Victoria student Paul Williamson has been named western regional representative on the board of directors of the Canadian Union of Students.

Mr. Williamson was nominated for the executive post in May during the C.U.S. western regional conference, and was elected unanimously by western delegates at the national C.U.S. congress held earlier this month at York University.

He has just returned to Victoria to resume his studies in English and history after serving a year as an executive assistant in C.U.S. headquarters in Ottawa.

His new position will involve two trips to Ottawa during the year to attend executive meetings of the student organization.

He plans to make brief visits to universities in the four western provinces en route.

Clyne: End Cumbersome Expropriation

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The Cline report, finally made public Wednesday, recommends that B.C. abandon its present cumbersome and expensive system of expropriation by arbitration and allow the courts to set compensation.

The royal commission report is the result of three years study by J. V. Clyne, former Supreme Court justice who left the bench to become chairman of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co.

"In the public interest and to achieve uniformity and elimination of injustices," said Mr. Clyne, "I have come to the conclusion that it is desirable, subject to possible minor exceptions, to repeal all existing expropriation legislation in British Columbia."

SINGLE STATUTE

In its place, the commissioner added, there should be enacted a single statute governing expropriation.

Mr. Clyne said the existing system "usually involving arbitration, appears expensive, cumbersome and slow.

"For these reasons I have suggested that compensation should be determined by the courts."

THREE POINTS

The report recommended:

- The crown must enjoy a paramount right to expropriate land for public use. Thus when expropriation is undertaken by the crown there need not be provision for a public hearing.
- Municipal expropriation should take effect only after a public hearing similar to those now held on rezoning applications with a consideration of all submissions from interested parties.
- Power of expropriation granted to private corporations should be embodied in a special statute establishing the corporation, but should be exercised in compliance with the proposed Expropriation Act.

Mr. Clyne recommended that in cases of expropriation (assuming a willing seller and willing buyer) compensation paid should be based on market value.

SUMMARY PROCEDURE

Questions of disputed compensation, said Mr. Clyne, should be determined by summary procedure in the Supreme Court of B.C. or in the county courts.

He considered the dismissed all alternative methods, including retention of the present system of arbitration, single arbitrators, panels of arbitrators, and a permanent tribunal for expropriations.

He found "only the courts can assure the determination of compensation disputes by persons who are impartial, trained in the law, and who enjoy full public confidence."

'UNJUST AWARDS'

* * *

Clyne

Mr. Clyne said the concept of "value to the owner" as the measure of compensation in expropriation cases has resulted "in many inappropriate and unjust awards."

The "mass of statutory enactments" has also made the establishment of proper rules and procedures in each case still more difficult, the report said.

There are grounds for landowners' complaints that "by great and unlimited powers" takers can too easily deprive them of their land.

TITLE TRANSFER

Mr. Clyne said "very often" the filing of a document at the land registry office or the publication of a notice in the B.C. Gazette is enough to transfer title, forcing the owner to pursue a compensation award if he feels the amount offered is inadequate.

The report added: "The minister of highways, under the Highways Act, may in his absolute discretion enter and take possession of land, or take gravel, timber, stone, or other material without notice to or consent of the owner."

Expropriation of land, said Mr. Clyne, raises the important question of civil rights.

The constitutional rights of an American landowner entitles him to fair compensation and due process of law if his land is expropriated.

"His Canadian counterpart has no such written protection of his civil rights," said Mr. Clyne.

Since under the British North America Act the legislative assembly decides what the landowner's civil rights are, the report recommended that B.C. "for greater certainty" enact an express right to compensation for land taken or injuriously affected by any expropriating body.

In answer to specific questions posed by the government when the royal commission was established in 1961, Mr. Clyne reported:

- There appears to be no justification for imposing artificial limits on the liability of the crown to pay compensation; nor does it appear desirable to do so.
- The statutory right for injurious affection should be continued and clarified.
- Expropriation cases should be heard by the court subject to the existing right of parties to submit their dispute to arbitration pursuant to the Arbitration Act.
- Persons engaged in the business of appraising lands in B.C. should satisfy minimum requirements. It doesn't follow, however, that these minimum requirements should be prescribed by statute.

The government appointed Mr. Clyne to study B.C. expropriation laws and procedures after the crown was required to pay far more than market value for land acquired on the Deas Throughway.

U.K. Campaign Opens

Sir Alec Likened To Medieval Knight Of Chaucer's Tales

By EDWIN ROTH

Colonist European Correspondent

LONDON — With the welcome shadow of Barry Goldwater riding on his bandwagon, British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home is leading his Conservative Party in a dramatic H-bomb election battle. It is also one of the most wide-open campaigns Britain has ever known.

As we drive for nine hours through the lovely English county of Kent, all the way from London to medieval Dover Castle, he proclaims at every whistle-stop meeting: "This is a very dangerous world. Our independent nuclear weapons are our only possible defence. Mr. Harold Wilson and the Labor party want to throw away our nuclear weapons." Then he asks: "Do you want the destiny of our country in the hands of the American president?"

Although he does not mention Goldwater's name, the meaning is clear. And Tory "canvassers" talking quietly to ordinary voters throughout Britain mention Goldwater all the time.

Party Color Dark Blue

Dark blue is the party color of the Conservatives. Even Nikita Khrushchev is colored dark blue in the official Conservative election manifesto, where he smiles at (an equally blue) British Foreign Secretary Richard Butler as if to recommend him to the British voters. Plain dark blue is Sir Alec Douglas-Home's tie—as dark blue as the posters everywhere along his route through Kent, inscribed in white letters "Kent Welcomes Sir Alec." Just "Sir Alec" and nothing else—because the ordinary voters should forget that Alexander Frederick Douglas-Home is the 14th Earl of Home, and a millionaire landowner.

In this election battle, he must prove that despite his ancient nobility and despite his millions he has more in common with ordinary voters than the brilliant, intelligent Labor leader Harold Wilson, son of a chemist. Wilson was delighted when Douglas-Home called him "the 14th Mr. Wilson."

But many Englishmen, and even more Englishwomen, love an amiable earl, and Sir Alec is very amiable. His charming smile and his genial handshakes will bring him many votes. In the past months he has become a superb campaigner. For many Englishmen — and for even more Englishwomen — a handshake with the 14th Mr. Wilson is far less remarkable than a handshake with the 14th Earl of Home disguising himself as a commoner.

Strategy Outlined

On a farm wagon in the small town of Sittingbourne near Canterbury, the Tory candidate Mrs. Elsie Olsen, wife of a Norwegian doctor, introduces Douglas-Home by likening him to the medieval knights of Chaucer's Canterbury Tales.

"He, too, loveth chivalry, truth, honor, freedom, and courtesy," she says. "But he is a modern man, without psuedo-scientific jargon." (Would anyone liken Lyndon B. Johnson or Barry Goldwater to a Chaucer knight?)

Already at his first meeting of this whistle-stop tour, Sir Alec shows how he will fight the whole campaign. "The Labor party says you are a soft, flabby, rotten lot," he cries. "They're not saying that about me or the government — they are saying it about YOU. Do YOU think you are soft, flabby and rotten?"

"No," yell most people at the meeting. Neither the Labor party nor any prominent Laborite has called the British people soft, flabby and rotten. But Sir Alec knows that every denial by the Labor party would only strengthen the impression that Wilson or other Labor leaders did.

Wilson's declared policy of abandoning the so-called independent British nuclear deterrent was his worst political mistake. But he had the problem of uniting his party for the election campaign by a compromise with the left wing—and this is the compromise. His nuclear policy was announced before Goldwater became the Republican presidential candidate in San Francisco.

Defence Fears Cited

If Wilson came to power—says Douglas-Home everywhere—Britain would "for the first time in our history" have no independent defence, and Britain's entire destiny would be in the hands of the president of the United States. (Not many people who hear Douglas-Home say Britain would be defenceless "for the first time in history" remember that Douglas-Home was the parliamentary private secretary of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and is the last man still prominent in public life who saw Chamberlain and Hitler sign the Munich Agreement.)

"If Mr. Wilson came to power, our country would have no influence in the world," says Douglas-Home. "Not only would the British government lose its place in the highest councils of the world and would no longer be consulted when the great decisions are taken—but the British government would no longer control Britain's own destiny."

Dramatically Douglas-Home claims that only the British government caused the nuclear test ban treaty of 1963 to be signed.

"I believe that the British government should continue to be a power for peace," he cries. "It will be needed more than ever. As Mr. Wilson wants that for the first time in our history another country should decide our destiny while we are completely defenceless, every voter — whatever his political and economic views may be — must say whether or not Britain's destiny should be decided only by America.

Emphasis On Queen

"I believe that it should be decided only by the Queen's prime minister, by the Queen's government, and by the Queen's parliament." Every emphasis of "The Queen" brings rapturous applause from his supporters.

As the slow, clumsy and naive Labor party machine still does not know how to campaign, the young men heckling Douglas-Home in Kent are ineffective. The Labor party could have sent some clever, informed people to challenge Douglas-Home according to old British election tradition. But until now, his hecklers have had no knowledge of politics, economics, foreign affairs, and modern history—so that Douglas-Home can deal with them very easily.

To one young interrupter protesting against the Tory nuclear policy, Douglas-Home calls out: "If you really want your country's destiny decided only by America, get up and say so." Embarrassed silence of the interrupter—and everyone sees the shadow of Barry Goldwater.

NES to Hire All Bricklayers

All union bricklayers for jobs in Greater Victoria will now be hired through the National Employment Service, according to a directive sent to their bricklaying contractors by the Victoria Building Industries Exchange.

The decision followed discussions over a two-week period by the NES with the local representative of the International Union of Bricklayers and Masons, Local No. 2, and the Builders Exchange.

We know you may not dash out and buy a '65 Oldsmobile after reading this ad. But how about dashing out and looking at one? They're at your dealer's, now.

Let's face it, the pictures on this page don't do Oldsmobile justice. But they do show you that this '65 Oldsmobile is new. What you can't tell from the pictures is the vast amount of detailed differences this year. New styling. New Delta 88 models. New colors. New emblems. And, more than meets your eye, new response and power from new Super Rocket engines. New Turbo Hydra-Matic Drive. New chassis, new frame, new suspensions, new wider tread, new ride. New instrument panel. New this. New that. New the other thing. Honestly. The new Olds is about the newest car of the year. And the nicest. And yet it's still not as expensive a car as you most likely think. Of course, we don't expect you to take our word for it, not before you've looked into a new Olds at your dealer's. But we'd sure like you to do that, very soon.

Polish Graphics Brooding

By INA UHTHOFF

This will be the first time that a complete showing of Polish graphics has been possible at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

Organized by the Western Association of Art Museums, it has been circulated by the Western Canada Art Circuit.

Polish graphics attained a greater boldness, and enrichment of form and expression after the war. They were the creative efforts of men who were previously painters and though their expression is far removed from natural representation, it is not always abstract. Much experimenting has been done with the object.

Linoleum and wood have been the chosen media but there are also monotypes and color lithographs included in this distinguished collection.

* * *

It seems incredible that the exquisite detail and finesse of cutting could have been obtained with a medium as humble as linoleum in the prints by Josef Gielnar, To My Fellow Creatures, and Autumn in Burowiec.

* * *

By contrast to the delicacy of this work, there is the free and lively handling of the woodcuts by Stanislaw Wytowicz and Stefan Suberlak, the monotypes and monoprints by Leon Sliwinski and color lithographs by Jan Tarasin and Lucjan Mianowski.

But, what is really important is what the artist has to say; whether it be in linoleum, wood, metal or stone.

* * *

There is a deeply brooding expression in this Polish work which makes it command attention and reward study. It has casual experience and draws one back again and again to try to find wherein the difference lies from the current fashions in so many branches of art.

For one thing, technique is at all times superb in the Polish work. It has authority and a strongly national presentation appears in much of the subject matter.

Liberals Let Recount Stand

REGINA (UPI)—The Saskatchewan Liberal Party has waived the opportunity to appeal a judicial recount that changed the original result of voting in the Hanley constituency in the April 22 provincial election.

The recount gave the seat to CCF - New Democratic Party candidate Robert Walker by two votes over Liberal Herb Pinder, the province's industry minister.

Courtroom Parade

Further Remand Given Two Accused

Rodney Leason, 1300 Gladstone, and Gary McWhirter of Sooke, charged with attempted murder, were further remanded another week in city magistrate's court Wednesday.

The men were arrested after a badly-beaten man staggered from thick brush and collapsed on a porch at 4481 Prospect Lake Road Sept. 10.

Frank F. H. Neel, no fixed address, was refused a reduction of the $1,000 bail surety, by Magistrate William Ostler when he was remanded for a week in city court Wednesday.

Neel has been in custody since Saturday when he appeared on a charge of possession of narcotics—morphine pills — and a charge of uttering a forged document, to obtain drugs.

Neel said Wednesday he wanted to be tried by a magistrate without a jury. He pleaded not guilty to the possession charge and guilty to the second offence.

When he asked for a reduction of the bail, Magistrate Ostler said: "I can't do that, you've pleaded guilty to one of the charges."

* * *

Joseph A. Kolodychuk, of HMCS Naden, was fined $100 and had his licence suspended when he pleaded guilty to dangerous driving.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett said Kolodychuk was chased by police at speeds between 45 and 50 miles an hour along Douglas Street. He weaved from lane to lane, finally screeching to a halt at a stop light.

A breathalizer test showed a .135 per cent reading.

* * *

For a breach of recognizance, William Brian Hobb, no fixed address, was sentenced to eight months' imprisonment.

Magistrate Ostler heard that Robb, convicted of a breaking and entering and theft offence in January, was released on a suspended sentence in his own recognizance and placed on probation.

Since then, said Mr. Birkett, Robb had violated the conditions of the recognizance by not reporting regularly to the probation officer, failing to notify of a change of address, leaving the Island with permission—and being convicted of stealing a transistor radio in Vancouver Aug. 10.

Said Magistrate Ostler: "It was clear at the time that granting probation was taking a risk."

Shareholders of Goldfields Mining Corporation Ltd. and Temagami Mining Company are to be asked to agree to a merger proposal on the basis of three shares of Goldfields to one share of Temagami.

the new OLDS F-85 is here!

[we call it the pocket-book sized Olds]

The style is new. There's a new die-cast grille, making the front more massive, more impressive. And there's a new flair to the rear deck. But that's not all that's new. There's a new ride. Quieter and smoother. And that's saying something. New corrosion protection. Starting with galvanized rocker panels, a corrosion soft spot in many cars. New interiors. Plushier, more inviting. New almost everything.

Except its price which is again pocket-book pleasing.

F-85 is still an easy car to own. Nice car to own, too. Why don't you talk to the people selling the new 1965 Oldsmobiles? They'll be glad to see you driving one of their new F-85's, Give them a call.

Prosecutor Asked 'What Happens to Impaired Driving Suspects?'

By IAN ARROL

The police stopped my car. They asked if I had been drinking. I told them I had had two or possibly three beers about an hour ago.

"What happens now?" I asked.

The policemen were not there to answer, for I was telling a story to Peter Birkett, the prosecutor of Victoria magistrate's court, in his office in the police building on Fisgard.

* * *

The purpose of the visit was to find out about the routines and due processes of law for a curious reporter on behalf of a curious public.

I wanted to find out what happens to a person arrested for impaired driving and why one person committing a certain traffic offence can pay at city police cashier's desk out of court and another committing the same offence has to appear in court. I also wondered why, if a person pleads not guilty, his case is often not heard that day but is set for sometime in the future—resulting in at least two half-days away from his employment.

* * *

Back to the first problem. If I wished to be consistent in my "only had a couple, possibly three" story, I could hardly refuse a polite invitation to come to the police station for a breathalyzer test.

Besides, I'm sure, it would appeal to the gambler's instinct in me.

Then, too, I'd probably feel, directly proportionate to the amount I had drunk, that I knew what I was doing and would welcome a chance to prove it.

* * *

On the other hand, if I were to stumble out of my car, pick myself up from the pavement, thrust my face up close to one of the policemen and dispense alcohol fumes and invective, I might be arrested on the spot and packed off in a police wagon.

* * *

"What would happen to my car?" I asked the prosecutor.

"The car would be properly parked, locked and the keys taken. Or another person in the car might drive it to your residence—if he were properly licensed and able," answered Mr. Birkett.

"And at the police station, am I required to take the breathalyzer test?" I asked.

"No."

"A doctor might then be called to conduct a sobriety examination," he added.

"Do I have to co-operate with his examination?"

"No."

But my appearance, breath and actions might in any event justify a charge being laid.

"Would I then have to stay overnight in jail?" I asked.

* * *

I was told this might be the case "if you were in pretty bad shape."

But, generally, a person can be released on bail, and this doesn't necessarily mean locating a friend with the money. Nor are you allowed only one phone call—this is apparently a myth, too.

"The magistrate is called and he sets bail, or it is set upon his direction. If the arrested person seems a reasonably responsible citizen, this might be a $250 bond on his own recognizance," said Mr. Birkett.

* * *

Birkett

* * *

In effect, "own recognizance" means you don't have to pay the actual money, just obligate yourself to be liable for the sum should you not appear in court when scheduled.

The trouble is, you are responsible for filling out the form yourself and in your condition you might need the help of a lawyer or friend.

"The phone can be used reasonably—in calls to such people as lawyer, doctor or family," said the prosecutor.

* * *

Your official visit with Mr. Birkett in court may be very short if you plead guilty.

In a plea of not guilty to any charge, even exceeding the speed limit or making an unlawful U-turn, a return visit is necessary if you have not let the prosecutor know sufficiently ahead of time that you plan to so plead.

Time must be allowed for arrangements to have police and any other witnesses appear.

* * *

In a traffic case which does not involve such violations as impaired driving, drunken driving or dangerous driving, provision has been made by the magistrate for paying fines out of court for those who wish to plead guilty.

"If there weren't provisions for paying fines, instead of going to court first, the court would be filled with hundreds of people every day," said Mr. Birkett.

Most parking tickets are paid this way, as are tickets for such offences as going through a red light or exceeding the speed limit.

However, you must appear in court if a traffic violation results in an accident.

* * *

And you must appear in court if you have had two or more traffic convictions against you under the Motor Vehicles Act or the Criminal Code within the last three years.

For a simple parking ticket, the rate is $1 if paid within 48 hours, $2.50 if after.

"This fine may be paid at the temporary city hall, 528 Bastion Street," to quote from the ticket waiting on my windshield after my interview with the prosecutor.

To Pay for Minor Offences

Where Bad Drivers Meet

What does a traffic violation cost—for those permitted to pay fines out of court at the temporary city hall, 528 Bastion Street.

The current schedule is $10 for: failing to dim headlights, failing to signal, making an illegal U-turn, going the wrong way on a one-way street.

Driving over a fire hose is a $10 offence, as is allowing a driver's licence to expire within the last six months, backing into an intersection or over a crosswalk, failing to notify the superintendent of a change in address, or having a faulty horn.

* * *

Having dirty licence plates is also a $10 offence, as is leaving a vehicle unattended, that is, leaving the motor running or just the key in the ignition of a parked vehicle.

Going through a red light or exceeding the speed limit is $15. However, if you go more than 45 miles an hour in a 30-mile-an-hour zone, you must appear in court.

Pedestrian offences, including jay-walking, are $2.50. Bicycle offences are $5.

* * *

Don't, however, use these figures in argument against police or court officials. The magistrate can exercise discretion within the limits of the Motor Vehicles Act and local elected authorities can effect changes in current minimum rates.

For instance, the fine for parking in a no-stop area or parking within 15 feet of a fire hydrant was recently brought up to $5.

King Fisherman

San Juan Coho Takes Over as Leader

A 20:12-pound coho reeled in from San Juan Bay waters Wednesday morning by Lloyd Thompson of Port Renfrew has taken the King Fisherman Contest coho lead.

Mr. Thompson is a Colonist subscriber and is now in line to win a handsome King Fisherman trophy and the three-horsepower Viking outboard motor to be given by the T. Eaton Co. for the subscriber with the biggest coho.

He takes the lead from Mervyn Gibson's 20-pounder caught at Beechey Head Sept. 10, but with plenty of big coho being recorded from scattered Island waters, the lead is by no means secure.

PICTURE, PLEASE

Contest officials remind all weigh-in stations that coho weighing more than 20 pounds must be photographed and verified as a coho by a competent authority before they can be accepted as prize-winning fish.

Mr. Thompson caught his fish on a Gibbs half and half T-spoon off the San Juan bar, close to the Port Renfrew Beach Camp.

Last year he lost his clinker boat in a storm and hadn't been doing too much fishing this year. Wednesday he decided to give it a whirl and rented a boat from Elliott's boat rentals.

The big coho gave him quite a tussle, reported Frank Baker, who was fishing alongside of him.

Unusual Birthday Present

Fishing Pleasant Pastime for 21st

* * *

Tony, Gary and catch

TOOK BROTHER

"We left Gilbert's boat house at 4 p.m. (on a recent Sunday) and headed out for Bamberton, where Mr. Gilbert said the fish were biting best," said Antony.

"On the way over, Mr. Gilbert set up the lines and put on his own patented plugs.

"We slowed down to trolling speed and in a matter of minutes we had landed a six-pound coho. It was Gary who brought it in," he said.

"The sky was overcast but the water was fairly calm. In the three hours which followed, we caught eight jack spring.

"We learned a lot about fishing in those few hours with Jim Gilbert and I was thrilled about having won the opportunity in the hidden-weight draw," said Tony Johnson.

NON-SWIMMERS

Drug Trade Denied By Chinese

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Chinese delegate clashed with an Iranian speaker in the World Youth Forum Tuesday over charges that China is engaging in illicit opium trading.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the Chinese protested twice when the Iranian called on the forum to denounce those taking part in drug trafficking.

Quebec Cultural Split Embarrasses Jaycees

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Pearson was filled in Wednesday on a French-English split in the Junior Chamber of Commerce that could blow up at Oklahoma City and cause Canada international embarrassment.

W. J. A. Rowe of Calgary, national president of the Jaycees of Canada reported to Pearson on the splitting of the Quebec arm away from the national organization, and charged to reporters afterwards that the Quebec government is supporting the split.

Rowe said the 5,000-member Quebec-based federation of Junior Chambers of Commerce of French Canada will seek recognition before the international congress of the world Jaycees at Oklahoma City Oct. 18.

"This will cause Canada an immense amount of embarrassment," said Rowe.

Blonde Model Fled in Nude

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI)—Shapely blonde model Anke Rau, 19, told a court Tuesday that she sprinted from a hotel room in the nude to escape the advances of a society photographer who had lured her there on false pretences.

Miss Rau said photographer Wilfried Krueger told her he could get her in the movies if she would let him take pictures of her in the nude. But it was plain he had other ideas, she said.

She said she first refused to undress, so Krueger beat her.

"When I cried and yelled for help he let me go. He said I was not the type he wanted, anyway."

She said she did undress, but then ran out of the hotel room. She covered herself with a towel she got in a restroom and then asked the desk clerk for help.

Krueger and three other men are charged with rape and luring girls to parties under false pretences. Thirty-five girls are among the 47 witnesses expected to testify.

Celebrates 98th Birthday

Mrs. E. Pennington of Caroline Macklem Home was hostess at a tea party at the Home on the occasion of her 98th birthday. Mrs. E. Fisher and Mrs. F. M. E. Porter, also guests at the Home, presided at the tea table, which was centred with bouquet of pink gladiolus. Among the guests were Canon and Mrs. S. J. Wickens, Canon and Mrs. F. Pike, Mrs. G. W. Gellett, the residents and Board of Governors of Caroline Macklem Home.

The engagement is announced of Elaine Georgina (Gina), daughter of Mrs. Martha Hiscock of Victoria and the late Mr. Ross Hiscock, to Mr. Donald Ernest Brown, only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Brown of Winnipeg. The wedding will take place Saturday, October 10 at 8 p.m. in Harrow United Church, Winnipeg.—(Campbell Studio)

Mason-Porter

Bride Married In Nylon Lace

Baskets of white gladiolus and pink dahlias decorated Grace English Lutheran Church for the double-ring ceremony uniting in marriage Theresa Gail Porter and Mr. Peter Frederick Mason.

Rev. J. E. Bergbusch officiated at the wedding for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Porter, 1665 North Dairy Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mason, 328 Beckley Street.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was lovely in a slipper-length gown of white nylon lace over taffeta fashioned with scalloped neckline and lily-point sleeves. Back of the bouffant skirt was highlighted with nylon net ruffles edged in lace and extending from the waistline into a floor-length train. Her chapel-length veil misted from a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of red Happiness roses.

Bell-skirted gowns of peau de soie with lace jackets en tone were worn by the bride's three attendants. Matron of honor Mrs. D. Milljour of Duncan was in turquoise blue, brides-matron Mrs. N. Fletcher and bridesmaid Miss Judy Cunningham were in shocking pink. They wore wedding ring headpieces of peau de soie and tulle to match their gowns and carried bouquets of white carnations and tulle en tone.

Mr. Douglas Marshall was best man. Ushering guests to pews marked with white satin bows centred with blue scabiosa were Mr. Ronald Porter, bride's brother, and Mr. Brian Marklinger, groom's cousin.

Mr. Eric Porter proposed the toast to his niece at a reception in Holyrood House. A three-tiered white wedding cake, decorated with pink roses, centred the bride's table. Dancing followed the reception.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip up-Island and the mainland, the bride wore a three-piece double-knit suit of cranberry red and black. She wore a white hat and black accessories and white carnation corsage.

Three-year-old Steven helps Nicky-Ann, also three years, to start the rocking horse during play time at the British Columbia Protestant Orphans' Home. Steven and Nicky-Ann, along with all the other children at the Home, are looking forward to welcoming Victorians at the annual fall pound party and donation tea to be held at the Home, 2691 Cook Street, on Thursday, Oct. 1, from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., under the sponsorship of the ladies' committee. The children will add color to the afternoon with a variety of songs.—(Jim Ryan)

Rosary Entwined In Bridal Bouquet

CHEMAINUS — St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Ladysmith was the setting for a pretty wedding when Father Albury conducted nuptial mass for a double-ring ceremony that united in marriage, Judith Lynne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sowerby, Chemainus and Robert Nenry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry De Clark, Ladysmith.

The main altar was flanked with bouquets of mixed summer blossoms, the wedding music was rendered by Miss Alice Popovich, and the soloist, Miss Glenda Battie, sang Ave Maria and On This Day, O Beautiful Mother.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was radiant in a floor-length gown of white sheer organza over taffeta, styled with fitted bodice, featuring embroidery and applique at the neckline and lily point sleeves. The bouffant skirt was slightly en train, her chapel length veil of tulle was held with a cluster of tiny white rosebuds. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink rosebuds and stephanotis, her rosary was entwined in the flowers and her only jewels were her mother's pearl necklace.

Miss Lorna Cliffe; and Miss Judith Harris were bridesmaids and Miss Marion Sowerby, sister of the bride, was a junior bridesmaid. Their frocks were of blue brocade with fitted bodice and bell-shaped skirts, and headpieces were bows of the dress material. Senior attendants carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums with touches of blue, while the junior bridesmaid carried a colonial bouquet of the same flowers.

A reception followed at Manana Lodge.

Centre of attraction on the bride's table was a three-tiered wedding cake, embedded in blue tulle, and flanked with tall blue tapers in crystal holders. Toast to the bride was given by her uncle, James Sowerby, Penticton, and acting as Master of Ceremonies was Stuart Battie.

For the wedding trip the bride donned a teal blue double-knit suit, alligator shoes and handbag and white orchid corsage. On their return the new Mr. and Mrs. De Clark will reside in Ladysmith.

Japanese Dish Is Interesting

Japanese Sukiyaki has become the most popular of the Japanese dishes offered on this continent. It is easy to prepare and does not necessarily require special equipment. Good Sukiyaki can be made in an electric fry pan. However, recipes for Sukiyaki are plentiful but another Japanese dish which is well worthy of consideration is Tempura, which is a version of the "mixed fry" of which almost every nation has one.

TEMPURA

(Six servings.)

Eighteen medium shrimp, uncooked; 2 flounder fillets; 6 scallops; 1 medium carrot; 12 long string beans; 1 sweet potato; 4 cups vegetable oil, or preferably 3 cups of vegetable oil and 1 cup sesame seed oil; Tempura batter; Tempura sauce.

Wash and peel the shrimp leaving the tail segment intact. Split the peeled shrimp down the backs and rinse under cold water to remove the intestinal tract and any sand. Using a sharp knife make three shallow cuts on the underside of each shrimp, this permits straightening the shrimp lengthwise.

Cut the flounder into small sections measuring two inches by three inches.

Cut the beans into three-inch lengths.

Peel the sweet potato and cut into ⅛-inch slices and then into quarters.

Heat the oil in a deep fry pan or an electric skillet to 375 degrees. This temperature must be maintained.

Dip the shrimp into the batter and fry until golden brown. Drain well and keep warm. Continue with the remaining seafood and vegetables.

TEMPURA BATTER

Three egg yolks; 2 cups cold water; 2⅓ cups sifted flour.

Combine the egg yolks with the water and mix well. Gradually add the flour, stirring from the bottom of the bowl. Do not overstir; this is the secret of a light batter. Flour should remain floating on top of the batter.

TEMPURA SAUCE

One cup water; ⅓ cup soy sauce; ⅓ cup saki (Japanese wine) mixed with 1 teaspoon sugar; 2 cups powdered sugar.

Mix the water, soy sauce and saki and add ginger to taste or serve the sauce in individual bowls and allow guests to add ginger to their own taste.

The Italians have a wonderful "mixed fry" recipe called "Fritto Misto." As you can well imagine, the Italians use cheese in addition to seafood, fish and vegetables.

The method of cooking is the same as for Tempura, the major difference being in the batter.

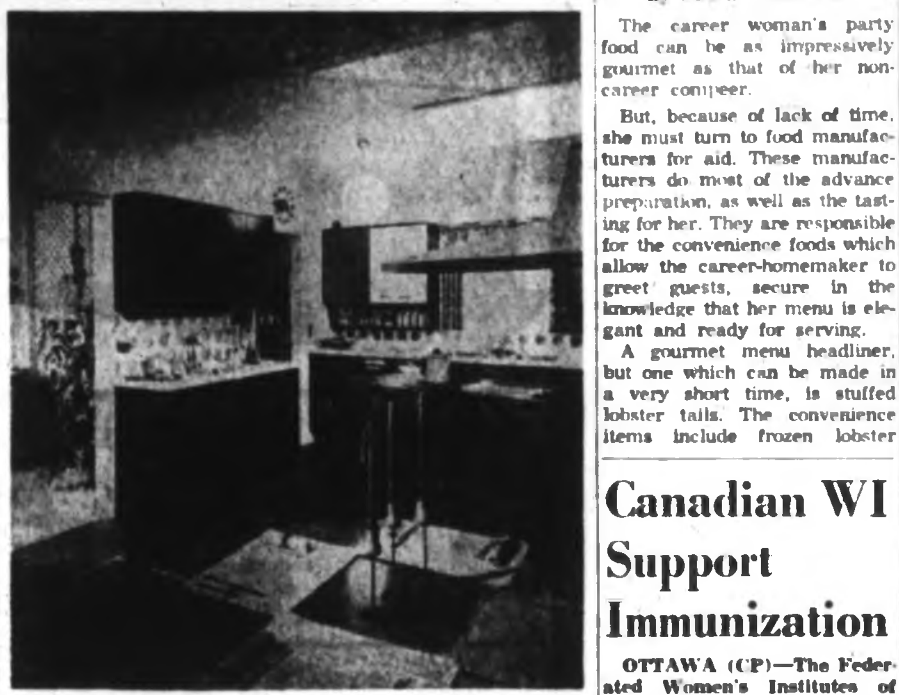
FRITTO MISTO BATTER

Two cups sifted flour; 1½ teaspoons salt; ¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper; 4 eggs separated; 1 can or bottle of beer (12 ounces); ¼ cup melted butter.

Sift together the flour, salt, and pepper. Beat the egg yolks until light. Add the beer and mix into the dry ingredients, stirring only until well blended. Stir in the butter. Let stand at room temperature for one and a half hours. Beat the egg whites until stiff and then fold into the batter. Dip the pieces of fish, seafood, and vegetable into the flour and then into the batter. Cheese does not need to be dusted with flour. It should be cut into one-inch squares and then dipped in batter. Use Gruyere or Fontina cheese.

The Fritto Misto vary considerably. For example oysters and lobsters and crabmeat can be used. Squid is excellent, of course, and onion rings, broccoli, eggplant and cauliflower help to give variety. By and large the Fritto Misto is a good party dish—you can even operate it as a do-it-yourself deal and let your guests choose their own favorite morsels.

Bon appetit!



This colorful family kitchen is a centre of activity that's fun to be in, and easy to work in. Sunny yellow on the walls blends with the warm wood tones of the cabinets. As a relief from solid wood cabinetry, cabinet doors flanking the window are painted in harmonizing olive, white, and yellow. The ventilating hood is brushed with the same soft olive. An efficient cooking and serving peninsula separates the kitchen from the eating area in the adjoining family room. It makes cooking and serving easy. Clean-up after meals stays simple, too. Soiled dishes can be transferred to the dishwasher by sink without wasted steps. Linens used at the eating area store in roomy cabinets in the family room.—(Better Homes and Gardens)

Stuffed lobster, an easy-to-make gourmet dish.

Stuffed Lobster Tails For Menu Headliner

By SUSAN DELIGHT

The career woman's party food can be as impressively gourmet as that of her non-career compeer.

But, because of lack of time, she must turn to food manufacturers for aid. These manufacturers do most of the advance preparation, as well as the tasting for her. They are responsible for the convenience foods which allow the career-homemaker to greet guests, secure in the knowledge that her menu is elegant and ready for serving.

A gourmet menu headliner, but one which can be made in a very short time, is stuffed lobster tails. The convenience items include frozen lobster tails, an envelope of crab spices, creamy mushroom sauce mix, parsley flakes, grated lemon peel, onion powder and mayonnaise.

STUFFED LOBSTER TAILS

Four frozen lobster tails, 7 to 8 ozs. each; 1 envelope crab seasonings; 1 envelope creamy mushroom sauce mix; 1 cup milk; 2 tbsps. Parmesan cheese; 1 tsp. parsley flakes; ⅛ tsp. grated lemon peel; ¼ tsp. onion powder; ⅓ cup mayonnaise; 1 tbsp. butter, melted; 2 tbsps. fine dry bread crumbs; paprika.

To cook lobster tails, plunge washed tails into boiling water to cover. Drop one envelope of crab boil spice into the water. Add one tablespoon salt for each quart of water used. Bring to a boil; lower heat; simmer uncovered three to five minutes. Drain; cool and chill. With scissors cut away thin undershell. Insert fingers between shell and meat; pull out lobster meat in one piece (save shells). Cut meat into bite-size pieces. Combine in a saucepan the mushroom sauce mix, milk, one tablespoon of the Parmesan cheese, parsley flakes, lemon peel, and onion powder.

Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Stir in mayonnaise; add lobster meat. Spoon mixture into the four shells. Combine melted butter, bread crumbs, and the remaining tablespoon of cheese. Spoon over top of stuffed shells, sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a 350-degree oven 15 to 20 minutes. Garnish platter with lemon wedges. Makes four servings.

Canadian WI Support Immunization

OTTAWA (CP)—The Federated Women's Institutes of Canada have urged mothers across the country to have their children immunized against such diseases as smallpox and polio.

In a statement issued in connection with National Immunization Week, Sept. 20-26, the federation's health convener, Mrs. Arthur Mackenzie of Piapot, Sask., said:

"Immunization costs only a few cents and takes but a few moments of our time. So why take a chance on the lives of our children?"

Vancouver Wedding

Judith Ethel Ratcliffe, daughter of Lieut. Cmdr. and Mrs. J. A. Ratcliffe of Victoria, became the bride of Mr. Gordon William Aulenback, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Aulenback of Dartmouth, N.S., at a quiet wedding ceremony in Vancouver.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a three-piece ensemble in black and white. She wore white accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses and white stephanotis.

Mr. William Banks of Dartmouth was best man.

CPO S. A. Ratcliffe of Victoria proposed the toast to his niece at a reception following the wedding. Mrs. H. A. Liphardt of Vancouver and Mrs. S. A. Ratcliffe, bride's aunts, assisted in serving at the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Aulenback are now making their home in Vancouver.

At Their Own Peril

Housewives Becoming Kitchen Chemists

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—According to an alarming word now being passed around in the medical world, housewives are becoming kitchen chemists — at their own peril.

The word to doctors is, don't be fooled by what appears to be "acute gastritis," this being medical jargon for inflamed stomach. There will be a good chance madam has inhaled one of her own "kitchen cocktails."

According to a psychological authority given to analyzing the phenomena of every-day life, housewives are being encouraged by television commercials to think magically about the hard work of keeping a house clean.

This authority cited commercials likening one cleaning fluid to a benevolent explosion which blows a hostess from the kitchen into the amiable presence of her guests in the living room as soon as she has applied it to the dirty dishes.

There are the commercials which depict another cleanser as an armored knight galloping about on a horse making things clean merely by pointing his lance. And those which assert its cleanser cleans as a wind storm might but with no effort by the housewife. Her hair isn't even mussed.

Also the commercials for a cleansing liquid which suggest there is a muscular-, bald-headed, ever-so-nice jinni in every bottle, of the Aladdin-and-his-magic-lamp kind, who on command scrubs the whole house clean.

"Magical thinking is irresistable to most human beings," said the psychological authority who didn't wish his name to be associated with what he considered trivia.

But it is not trivia because housewives in large though unknown numbers have taken to trying to multiply the magic cleansers by mixing two or more together.

The first formal recognition of this phenomenon is that of the New England Journal of Medicine. It published a warning by Dr. Harris C. Faigel, an authority on poisonings, addressed to the profession. He said it was increasing the work of the poison centres in the health departments of large cities.

Individually the cleansers are mixtures of harmless ingredients. But when cleansers are mixed together, an ingredient of one may react upon an ingredient of another and produce either chlorine or ammonia gas in large amounts.

Coffee Fete For SPCA

Women's Auxiliary to the SPCA will hold a coffee party on Thursday, Sept. 24, at Hudson's Bay Company in the Douglas Room from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

In addition there will be gifts, home cooking and superfluity stalls and lunch will be available.

The engagement is announced of Miss Patricia Sandra Mills, daughter of Mrs. Mills, 1915 Fernwood Road, and the late Mr. S. W. Mills, to Const. Stanley Arthur Hall, son of Mrs. Hall, 352 Kerr Street, and the late Mr. A. D. Hall. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Oct. 17, at 7 p.m. in First United Church with Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiating.—(Jus-Rite)

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to say a word to that young woman who was terrified at the prospect of having a child because she could not stand the pain.

Before I was married I was terrified—and I know why. My mother and my aunt used to compare agonies in my presence when I was a child. It was as if they were engaged in a contest to see who had suffered more.

A physician whom I will call Dr. G. D. changed my life. I married at the age of 32 and had my first child at 33—with no anaesthetic and no pain. Dr. G. D. taught me abdominal breathing and started me on a course of exercises which enabled me to give natural birth. (I had four children in seven years.)

The women who suffer are the ones who are frightened. Most of the fright comes from having heard horrible tales from older women, who were also frightened.

I hope you will print this letter and let millions of people know that childbirth should be the most rewarding and satisfying experience in a woman's life.—VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

Dear Voice: Dozens of women wrote in praise of natural childbirth. Your letter was one of the best and I hope it will help other women escape the bondage of fear.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Is it normal for people who have been married 16 years to run out of conversation? My husband never was a live wire, but at least he was alive.

I saw this coming five years ago and tried to interest him in dancing lessons, bowling, cards and new friends. He told me to please leave him alone, that he was satisfied with things as they were.

We have three active children, two teen-agers and a boy seven. They are beginning to notice their father is a stick-in-the-mud. My husband's job is strenuous and demanding and he needs his rest, but there should be more to life than work and television.

I'm afraid I'm turning into a nagger, Ann, but what can I do—accept things as they are and count my blessings?—OUT OF THINGS TO SAY

Dear Things: If three active children don't keep you sufficiently busy and stimulated, get involved in club work, politics and your church. And please get off your husband's back, Lady. You can't force new interests on people who don't want them.

If you knew how many husbands suddenly become too darned lively after 40, you'd be happy to see Old Stick-In-The-Mud sitting in front of the TV set night after night. He may not be a jamboree, but at least he's home where he belongs.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Who are the "experts" to whom you refer? Recently when someone asked about a free second cup of coffee in a restaurant you said you counseled with your "coffee expert" to determine how much it costs to pour a cup of coffee.

A few days later in response to a letter from a Catholic you referred to your "expert on Canon Law." The letter about a woman who was buried in expensive jewelry brought forth another such reply—this time it was your "expert" on Illinois burial laws.

No matter what the problem you always have an "expert." Are these experts for real?—CURIOUS OF T.C., MICH.

Dear Curious of T.C., Mich.: They'd BETTER be for real or I'm in trouble.

I consult with authorities in a variety of fields to provide my readers with the best answer possible. When I say I have consulted with "an expert" you can be sure I did indeed check with someone specializing in that particular field.

Couple Exchange Rings

Rev. W. Mudge heard marriage vows of Marjorie Carol Ann Jordan and Daniel Lewis Gordon at a double-ring ceremony in Our Lady of the Assumption Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. John Jordan, Hartland Road, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Gordon, Clarke Road, Brentwood Bay.

The bride wore a street-length sheath of white organza with matching overskirt. A large white rose held her short veil, and she carried a prayer book marked with gladiolus and roses. Her accessories were white.

A small family reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and later the newlyweds left on a wedding trip up-Island. For travelling the bride wore an aqua coat over a white sheath dress, with white accessories.

Future address for the couple will be 666 Goyette Road, Victoria.

Governments Approve Visits to East Berlin

BONN (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and his West German cabinet approved Wednesday an accord with the Communists to let West Berliners cross the wall for visits to East Berlin.

Details of the agreement were not immediately announced. The spokesman, Karl-Guenther von Hase, said there was a meeting of the negotiators Wednesday in East Berlin to make the final draft.

De Gaulle Worries His Guards

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — President de Gaulle mingled freely with street crowds Wednesday and sang The Marseillaise from an open balcony in apparent disregard of a reported plot against his life.

While security agents pressed a search for a French terrorist believed to have marked de Gaulle for death, the president stepped into a street crowd of well-wishers for five minutes of handshaking.

ENGULFED

He delighted the Colombians but shocked his personal guard. Security men pushed and shoved to get a protective cordon around de Gaulle as pedestrians engulfed him. The site was a workers' district at the southern end of the city.

Here on the second leg of a 26-day, 10-nation tour of South America aimed at increasing French influence, the 73-year-old de Gaulle set a brisk pace in his 40-hour stay.

He was up early for a round of activities that included a visit to the French-aided National Apprenticeship Institute, the Louis Pasteur French School, a national monument to Simon Bolivar, the South American liberator, an hour's private talk with President Guillermo Leon Valencia and various ritual wreath-layings and receptions.

Robarts Urges New Talks

TORONTO (CP) — Premier John Robarts, after a mass demonstration by labor outside the Ontario legislature building, promised Wednesday to try to get negotiations restarted in the 10-week strike of printers at Toronto's three daily newspapers.

After pickets had circled the building for three hours, Mr. Robarts met a delegation from the striking International Typographical Union (CLC) and told it he will ask Ontario's chief conciliation officer to make a new attempt to get the disputants together.

R. J. McCormack, president of ITU Local 91, later called the meeting satisfactory. He said the premier expressed the hope both sides would re-examine their positions and also told the union men he would investigate their claim that the papers are using strike-breakers imported from the United States.

The printers have been on strike since July 9, when they walked out in a contract dispute centred on the use of automation in type-setting but which has since spread to other issues. The papers have continued to publish.

Colwood Corner Growth

Druggist Gambling on Dream

By GARY OAKES

They'll take the first step towards realization of the dream in mid-November when construction of a new drug store for the corner begins.

And they hope the construction will mark the start of new growth at Colwood Corner which won't stop until the area is serving the almost 15,000 people in Colwood, Langford, Metchosin, Belmont Park, Glen Lake, Happy Valley, East Sooke, Sooke and perhaps even View Royal.

'WEST VANCOUVER'

Mr. Spurling, who has operated Colwood Pharmacy since 1951, foresees the entire region developing into the "West Vancouver of Victoria" as a heavily-populated community adjacent to the city.

He is president of Canland Development Ltd., the company which will build the new drug store which, with 6,500 square feet of floor space, is expected to be the largest store in B.C.

Jim Swanson and Ken Roer, both pharmacists in the drug store, are directors in the new development firm. The Royal Trust Co. is also taking part.

The Chemainus-born Mr. Spurling graduated from UBC's first graduating class in pharmacy in 1949 and came to Victoria where he served as a relief pharmacist before joining the permanent staff of a city drug store.

"There was nothing here then but a bank and a grocery store," he says. "Everyone thought I was crazy."

But the 38-year-old father of three conveyed enough sanity to convince Colwood Development Co. to build a two-storey drug store and office building at the corner of Sooke Road and Goldstream Avenue.

Since then he has remodelled the drug store eight times and today the tight little community boasts two banks, a liquor store, 17 stores in a shopping centre, five service stations, doctors and dentists and other smaller stores. And the population has risen from about 3,000 to more than 14,000 for the entire region.

Today housing developments are constantly springing up throughout the area and future growth seems assured.

Mr. Spurling and his associates want to be in on the future growth.

Their new store will also be a two-storey structure, adjacent to the old building and facing Sooke Road, across from the shopping plaza.

SELF-CONTAINED

It will have a staff of three full-time pharmacists and about eight clerks and will be a self-contained unit, capable of supplying anything in the pharmaceutical line.

They plan to rent the second storey as professional offices.

For distinction, architect John di Castri has designed the building with steps instead of street-level walk-in and has worked out interior ceiling of different levels for effect.

PERMANENT ASSET

In addition, the front of the roof comes to a V-shape, both for design and to shield merchandise from glare.

"We're planning a building which will be a permanent asset to the community," says Mr. Spurling. "We are an independent and local company and will offer personal service for the local people of the community."

Mr. Spurling's development firm has more property available which it hopes to develop in the future.

The dreamers are gambling $200,000 but they feel confident that the growth of the area will make it pay off.

Danish Socialists Seek New Allies

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Socialist Premier Jens Otto Krag's coalition government resigned today after losing its one-vote parliamentary majority in Denmark's general election Tuesday. Krag began looking around for allies to join him in a new government.

Krag, 50, said he would advise the king to ask him to form a new government.

Traditionally, the king follows the advice of the largest group in parliament. The Social Democrats have twice as many seats as the second-place Moderate Liberals, a conservative party.

Milk Strike Spreading

PARIS (UPI) — The French milk strike spread from Paris to the eastern and northern sections of the country Wednesday. Dairymen in Toulouse, in the southwest, struck Tuesday.

The strike began in the Paris area last Friday in an effort to force the government to boost wholesale milk prices.

3,000 Arrested In Iraqi Plot

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iraqi authorities have arrested about 3,000 Baathists following a plot to assassinate Iraqi President Abdul Salam Aref and take over the country in a coup Sept. 4, Beirut newspapers said Wednesday.

PRESENTING Cadillac FOR 1965

SO NEW! SO RIGHT! SO OBVIOUSLY CADILLAC!

The 1965 Cadillac is the most dramatically new Cadillac in sixteen years; new from chassis to rooftop and new from start to stop. Commons Told

No Canadian Aid For Viet Nam Sought by U.S.

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Commons was assured Wednesday that visiting U.S. special envoy Henry Cabot Lodge has not asked Canada to contribute military assistance in Viet Nam.

Mr. Lodge, former ambassador to Viet Nam, is in Ottawa at the request of President Johnson to explain to the Canadian government the U.S. position in the Far Eastern trouble spot.

Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons that Mr. Lodge brought him and External Affairs Minister Martin up to date on the situation "as the United States government sees it and we were very interested in this information."

Mr. Lodge, who sat in the Commons gallery during the questioning, had no comment for newsmen as he met briefly with Pearson in his office earlier in the day and later followed Martin to his for another round of talks.

PRESS CONFERENCE

Mr. Lodge, however, will give a press conference today in the U.S. embassy across the street from the Parliament Buildings.

Pearson was asked by New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas whether Mr. Lodge had asked for further Canadian commitments. Mr. Douglas also asked for assurances that Canada would not contribute further to the Viet Nam situation than it already does as a member of the International Truce Supervisory Commission.

'NO QUESTION'

Pearson said "No commitments were asked for."

Martin added that there "is no question of a military commitment nor has any military assistance been suggested either by Mr. Lodge or anyone else from any other country."

Martin said that Canada this year is contributing about $700,000 in educational and certain medical and hospital care projects.

COMING OF AGE

With Sally Hamilton

Ernie was born in Britain. There, nearly everyone is a gardener.

Ernie was well past 50 when he came to Canada following the Second World War. He and his wife brought with them their love of gardening. They were thrilled to have nearly a half-acre of land of their own around the old house they bought.

Today Ernie is retired from his job as cabinet-maker. He has built a small greenhouse at the back of his garage. In it he has a second-hand space heater which makes it possible for him to work out there the year round. He raises his own seedlings and plants them outdoors the minute danger of frost is past.

* * *

I wish you could see his cabbages and tomatoes! I wish you could share a meal, as I did, at his table. Of newly-dug potatoes, tiny butter beans, new carrots and tossed salad. These things were served with roast lamb and mint (this last from the garden, naturally).

Most of us have neither the half-acre nor the urge to garden on a large scale. But the fascination of watching anything grow, even a pot of parsley in the kitchen window, is worth the bit of initiative it requires. Indeed, if you've never grown plants on your own, there's a thrill in store for you, and fall is an excellent time to make a start.

* * *

One way is to root cuttings from your own or from a friend's plants. Perhaps you've tried the well-known method of placing cuttings in water so that only their bases are submerged, with the tips and leaves above water. This does work with some plants, but not all. Even when the roots get started in water, you are by no means home free. Getting those roots to take hold in soil is another thing again.

Get two ordinary earthenware flower pots, one large and one small. A good size for the large pot is five inches in diameter and, for the smaller one, 2½ inches. Plug the drainage hole of the small pot to make it water-tight. You might use cement, sealing wax or even a piece of chewing gum.

* * *

Leave the drainage hole of the larger pot open. Over it place a few bits of broken crocks or coarse gravel. Then fill it with soil. For this, you might use four parts medium-fine sand and one part peat moss, well moistened. Or, in a seed store, you can buy vermiculite.

Scrub the smaller pot inside and out with a coarse brush but use no soap or other cleanser on it. Insert this pot to its rim in the centre of the larger pot.

Now take your cuttings and place them in the soil to a depth of about one inch. They should be close to the rim of the inner pot. Follow this with a thorough watering of the soil to settle it. Fill the inner pot with water. Then, place a small goldfish bowl or a wide-necked preserving jar over the cuttings to confine the air and to prevent wilting. This is your tiny greenhouse.

* * *

From then on the only water you use goes into the small pot. Keep it filled to the rim. This means removing the glass covering, which gives the growing plants the needed change of air.

Place the pots on a window sill but shade them with paper when the sun shines on them or they will get too hot. As long as the little pot is full of water, the soil will never be too dry nor too wet. This is your success secret.

* * *

It's easy to know if the cuttings are rooting. Wait two or three weeks, then remove the inner pot. To do this, twist it carefully back and forth; then lift it out. If roots show, you can then pot the cuttings in single pots with the soil still clinging to them. If no roots can be seen, replace the pot and leave it for two or three weeks longer.

This double-pot arrangement works with endless kinds of plants. Try raising petunias from cuttings in the fall, after they are all through outdoors. It's delightful to see cutting-raised petunias flowering in a sunny window during the winter. Begonias are easy to raise this way, also geraniums and many foliage plants.

* * *

Would you like Sally to tell you how to grow house plants from seeds? Also where to get information on the planting and care of such decorative plants as cyclamen, African violets, chrysanthemums, hyacinths and others? If so, send 10c and a stamped, addressed envelope to Sally Hamilton in care of this paper.

August Births Drop in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — More marriages but fewer births and deaths were registered in Canada in August compared to a year ago.

Familiar Shop Closes Door

"The lease was to be up at the end of this month" announced manager Edwin Munday, who has been selling shoes in the city for 50 years.

Despite being near retirement age, Mr. Munday has announced he will continue shoe service at the Old Country Shoe Store, 635 Johnson Street, which he and his brother own.

Mary King To Retire At Year's End

Miss Mary King, provincial superintendent of child welfare, will retire Dec. 31 after 21 years' service with the department.

Miss King, for the last four years superintendent, goes on early retirement leave before joining the International Social Service of Britain as consultant on a project involving adoption of children of mixed racial origin.

Her successor has yet to be named.

Phony Bills Mount Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 110 counterfeit $20 bills have been discovered in British Columbia and Washington State since Aug. 15, RCMP reported Tuesday.

It delivers its message in 60 seconds.

In the next day or so, you may learn something new about the taste of rye whisky.

The message takes one minute.

And no more than one taste of a whisky called Time. A gentle whisky. The taste is light, warm, smooth.

You will find you have never known a whisky with a taste like this.

You will find yourself comparing it with the whisky you usually buy. And you may find yourself changing your mind about whiskies.

The whisky in the hourglass bottle does that. The message comes through. Not loud. But clear. 60 seconds. Time enough.

White Heather Returning

Scotland's White Heather entertainers will be back in Victoria Oct. 8 for one show at the Royal Theatre.

Accordionist Arthur Spink, who appeared with the troupe here last year, will be back again; so will singing star Kenneth McKellar, who has just toured Australia and New Zealand.

NEWCOMERS

Newcomers to Victoria are comedian Aly Wilson, soprano Rose Goldie, Jimmy Warren, the show's master of ceremonies, and pianist Dennis Woolford, who toured with McKellar.

The show is sponsored by the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society.

Girls' Drill Corps Needs New Members

An organization that has given Victoria good publicity the length of the Pacific Coast and through to the Prairies is looking for new members.

Victoria Girls Drill Corps is beginning its year's activities, and has room for recruits prepared to take full part in corps activities—weekly drill, parades and other public appearances, helping other organizations in worthwhile projects.

GOOD HEALTH

Applicants must be between 16 and 24, between five feet three inches and five feet eight tall with weight in proportion. They must be Canadian citizens or British subjects of good character and in good health.

To begin with, applicants will have no status in the corps, but will receive initial training in the drill. Given a favorable report, each will then be required to pass a test and when she does will become a regular corps member.

Girls may retain membership in the corps as long as they remain single and prove assets to the unit.

Art Show Set Monday

A showing of summer work by members will be featured at the first fall meeting of the Oak Bay Art Club, at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the municipal hall.

A selection of slides will also be shown.

During the coming season there will be demonstrations by a number of guest artists.

Arts Ball to Feature Theatrical Display

Theatrical displays from Stratford, Ont., the Seattle Centre and the Allied Arts Centre in Calgary will be featured at the Theatre Arts Ball on Friday.

Victoria area groups will also be represented with displays from St. Matthias, the University of Victoria, Sidney's Peninsula Players and the Gilbert and Sullivan Society.

Featured will be a model of Centennial Square, highlighting the McPherson Playhouse with a pictorial display showing events prior to its opening—as the Pantages Theatre—in 1914, its history to the present day and plans for its re-opening in February.

SKETCH CLUB

Entertainment for the ball will be provided by a new Vancouver group, The Sketch Club, a quartet which includes Judy Sinclair, niece of Victoria actress Ramona McBean.

Others in the group are Tom Shorthouse, Louise Glennie and David Hughes.

OWN MATERIAL

The members write all their own material and music, and in addition there will be contributions from Eric Nicol and David Brock.

All are professionals and have either appeared on radio and television or have written for broadcast shows.

Now! The 1965 Fairlane... New World of Excitement

This exciting '65 Fairlane is the thrifty family car with competition spirit. The new Fairlane offers the sports car kind of fun a young family enjoys. Fairlane has excitement in style with its clean, crisp, sophisticated look. It has the luxury and style of a big car interior and the proud confidence of the big car ride.

Fairlane for '65 is the handsomest, boldest Fairlane yet, brimming with modern touches engineered for your comfort and convenience. Its larger trunk takes your luggage upright. Its new 14" low profile tires give you better get-away, better going, better stopping. (You'll save on tread wear and fuel too!) A new shock absorber system provides a softer and more controlled ride.

Fairlane for '65 comes with a full range of power teams. A new 200 cubic inch Six with seven main bearings gives more smooth power without increasing fuel consumption. And for added performance, choose one of the three optional V-8s from the 289 cu. in. two-barrel to the High Performance V-8 . . . the engine that has taken the sports car world by storm. Fairlane offers a choice of three transmissions —3-speed manual (fully synchronized with V-8s), 4-speed fully synchronized manual and dual range Cruise-O-Matic. All V-8s have the new Ford-designed alternator that charges your battery easier and better.

The fabulous fast selling Fairlane is even better for 1965 . . . great new look, smoother ride and plenty of zip and zoom. You get all this at Fairlane's low price plus excellent operating economy. Fairlane offers so much and costs so little because it's beautifully engineered for Total Performance. The '65 Fairlane offers a New World of Excitement.

Certain features mentioned or illustrated are optional at extra cost.

Geraniums Prosper

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Geraniums seem to have done exceptionally well this year, and I cannot recall any season in which the plants have grown so sturdily and bloomed so profusely. This is rather surprising, for they certainly haven't had much in the way of sunny, hot, dry weather, which is supposed to be a requisite for this South African native.

* * *

I suspect the reason for the strong growth and lush bloom is because we are getting better plants nowadays. It is a known fact that many of our older strains of geraniums are infected with a virus that lowers their vitality and affects their ability to bloom without showing any obvious symptoms, and several big commercial growers have directed their attention to the problem of turning out virus-free plants, using techniques developed in England for ridding chrysanthemum stocks of certain viruses. For the first time in many years, truly healthy geranium plants are appearing on the market.

Whatever the reason, geraniums in formal beds, in planters and window boxes, in hanging baskets and urns, have never looked more colorful. The problem now is how to bring these plants safely through the winter, for buying new plants every spring is an expensive business.

To use an Irish turn of speech, the best way to save your plants is to scrap them. Take cuttings from your old plants, then pull up the old ones and give them the old heave-ho. Grow the cuttings on through the winter to make new plants for setting out next spring. Actually, such vigorous young plants are far superior to over-wintered parent plants, which are almost invariably lanky and poorly formed.

The best slips are of young but well-ripened shoots — firm, short-jointed growths detached from the parent stems but at a pinch you can use almost any portion of the plant except very soft, flabby shoots with long bare intervals between the leaves. Make your cut immediately below a leaf joint, three to five inches from the tip. Strip off all the leaves except the top ones. Moisten the cut end, dip in Rootone or Seradix rooting powder, shake off any excess dust, and insert around the edge of a clay flower pot filled with equal parts peat moss and vermiculite.

* * *

You can get anywhere from three to seven slips in a flower pot, depending on its size, so this method doesn't take up a great deal of room. Keep the rooting mixture just barely moist, never soggy wet, for geranium slips are prone to rot diseases.

Keep your pots of slips at ordinary room temperature and in a good light but out of direct sunshine until roots have formed, as indicated by signs of new growth at the tips. Then move them to a sunny window of a VERY cool room or to an unheated but frost-free coldframe, watering sparingly. This combination of bright sun, cool air and dryish roots will slow down growth and make for a stocky, short-jointed plant vastly better for bedding purposes than skinny, tall specimens pampered in warmth.

* * *

Where no greenhouse or frame is available, the limitation of this method is the shortage of sunny windowsill space in the average home. Because of this, I am often asked how geraniums can be stored in the basement in a dormant condition, like dahlia or canna roots. This is possible with the parent plants if a very cool and humid storage place is available—a place where potatoes will keep all winter without sprouting or freezing—although, as I said, the performance of these older plants is nothing like as good as vigorous young slips.

I must make it very clear that there is no method, to my knowledge, whereby unrooted geranium slips can be stored safely through the winter. They MUST be rooted and kept growing, even though growth can be slowed down to a snail's pace.

STAN DELAPLANE Thinks Back

Policemen Need a Few Kind Words

Well, well, I see a photo of a lost tot in the journals the other day. The moppet is eating an ice cream cone. He is wearing the cap of the kindly policeman. The headline reads:

LOST TOT —
EATS CONE

I had thought in these more sophisticated days that lost children had passed out of journalism. They were all the thing in my day.

Many a child, now grown and sturdy, got his cone ration on my pitiful expense account.

* * *

It is all the rage these days to fling bottles at policemen. Civil rights workers are carried to the wagon by cops who handle them like a basket of eggs.

It is brutal work being a policeman all right.

* * *

Policemen need a good word said about them. And I have been thinking of a number of good words.

I credit policemen with all I know about obstetrics.

All children I had anything to do with in the golden journalist days were delivered by kindly police sergeants in speeding taxis. The headline read:

POLICE SERGEANT,
FATHER OF FIVE,
DELIVERS BOUNCING
BABY IN TAXI

I think truly the image has not been kept up. Not enough children are being born in the back of taxis. And not enough kids are getting lost. So they can sit in the police station eating ice cream cones.

* * *

I notice firemen, too, get rocked pretty regularly in these affairs. Firemen are called out to help the police by squirting water at people who throw rocks.

The people who throw rocks then rock the firemen.

Firemen rescue cats. Or at least they did when I was getting names and addresses and the old left-to-right for the photographers.

For unknown reasons, cats shinny up telephone poles. Once up there, they haven't any idea how to get down. The firemen are called. They put up a ladder and haul the animal down.

* * *

This was prime news in those lazy, hazy days of journalistic enterprise. And I have rushed madly to the scene many a time to see the fireman drag the beast off the pole. The headline reads:

FIREMAN RESCUES
CAT UP THE POLE

These heart-warming stories got a lot of warm type. We were encouraged to roll with the purple prose. And consequently, policemen and firemen were heroes. As simple as that.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Steve Boyd Stays Abroad

NEW YORK (NANA) — Won't you come home, Steve Boyd? The answer is a round no. Too many pictures abroad. Steve, the handsome adaptable Irishman, is now starring as Genghis Khan in Yugoslavia. Following which he goes to India to play Clive of India. Then to Ireland to be Cromwell. So when is he ever going to see his charming home complete with swimming pool in the valley? The answer here is obviously a square never. No wonder, the last time I saw him in London, prior to Ghengis and all that Yugoslavian jazz, he told me: "I'm putting my house on the market and I'll get a small apartment somewhere in Beverly Hills."

* * *

Terence Young, in passing, has written the script for Clive of India and will direct . . . If you want to get a good look at Jane Asher, the young actress preferred by Beatle Paul McCartney, you will find her in the Vincent Price horror film, Masque of the Red Death. But please kids, don't boo her. She's quite nice.

* * *

Now I've heard everything. Someone was saying that the reason Greta Garbo will not return, ever, to making movies is because she is allergic to greasepaint. I've never met an actress or actor who was . . . and how's this for wanting to be with it? Julie Andrews is playing Baroness Maria von Trapp in Sound of Music. But, Maria, who is no longer in her old flush of youth, wanted to do something in her life story. She landed a job as an extra.

Just because Viveca Lindfors is in Hollywood for a role in Sylvia, it doesn't mean the dark-haired Swedish actress intends to stay. As soon as she completes her role, she returns to New York where she is set to star in Portofino, P.T.A. . . . While ex-Queen Soraya has been making like an actress in Athens, in The Secret, her dearest boy friend, Max Schell, has been in Munich putting finishing touches to a play he is writing. For himself. Not for Soraya. Max is not a man to mix business with pleasure.

* * *

Jane Fonda draws the handsome Mickey Callan as her co-star in Columbia's Ballad of Cat Ballou. Mickey welcomes the work to get his mind off his marriage problems . . . attention! Glenn Ford will be promoted to full commander in the U.S. naval reserve. Glenn never misses his training, no matter how many attractive ladies salute him.

* * *

Kathryn Grayson, who has managed to avoid matrimony since her long-ago divorce from Johnny Johnston, seems to have found a man to fill the void which most single women have in their lives. She was spotted humming a soft song to Hank Hendler, West Coast businessman in a Gotham supper club. Good men to hum songs to are hard to find.

* * *

And I don't know how long this has been cooking, but Lana Turner's most recent flame is a Mexican restaurant owner titled, Armando Rossi . . . The Royal Shakespeare Company, which has been accused of putting on dirty plays in London, has a new show for the West End next month, with the non-dirty name of Eh? Of course, some people can read something into anything.

Man Should Be More Fully Human!

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Man must become more fully human.

We speak of making machinery more efficient, of building things that are functional, of studying society more scientifically, of making politics more "progressive"—these are the "functional," "scientific," and "progressive"—these are the hallmarks of our 20th Century vocabulary.

* * *

But the individual human being always will be the individual human being. You may seek to improve or to change society, but if you have not been concerned with the individual lives which make up society, you have neglected the heart of the matter. You may scientifically endeavor to prolong human life, but again you are faced with the same challenge: Will the life you have succeeded in prolonging become more fully human?

For this reason, we must add still another dimension to our 20th Century catalogue of concerns. We must certainly continue to seek efficiency, functionalism, and the application of the scientific method in order to make life progressive; yet all these efforts must be measured against the unsolved human equation. It is unsolved because we pay too little attention to it. It remains a riddle because we have not as yet sought to find the answers with the determination we have used in tunneling mountains, bridging oceans, and spanning continents.

* * *

As the Second World War was coming to an end, a series of cartoons illumining the problem appeared in a magazine.

* * *

The real point of this series was made in the concluding cartoon. This was a picture of a man surrounded by a variety of modern gadgets, yet looking very unhappy. Obviously, he should have been filled with the joy of life with such new power available to him. The caption read, "But what are you going to do about him, after the war?"

Our human needs go far beyond our fantastic gadgets and the technical advances of material progress. Our real need, in spite of these things, is to become more fully human.

Religion has been defined as man's search for God. Some have even spoken of God's quest for man. We put it still another way: The highest goal of religion should be man's search for himself; man seeking to find the meaning of the divine plan for his life.

And in this search you can be guided by three principles:

Recognize how much you must depend upon others, that you may become yourself more dependable;

Seek to find the meaning of your own individuality, that you may truly become free and independent;

Then, you may earn God's most precious gift — you will know the meaning of being fully human.

Now! The 1965 Ford... New World of Elegance

Certain features mentioned or illustrated are optional at extra cost.

This solid, silent '65 Ford is the most delightfully new Ford in years! New ride. New toughness.

Outside and in, the 1965 Ford is a New World of Elegance with hundreds of innovations that add up to big comfort and convenience.

Like the double-sided reversible key (it fits the lock either way up). Like the suspended accelerator pedal that adjusts to the angle of your foot. And like its low profile tires (the car handles better, brakes better, clings better on any road). And like the new Ford-designed alternator that charges your battery easier and better.

Six-cylinder car buyers will be thrilled with Ford's all-new 150-hp six-cylinder engine which delivers 22 per cent more power per pound with new smoothness and durability. Even with this great new performance the Ford Big Six delivers excellent gasoline economy.

Choose from five superb Ford engines (the Big Six, or four powerful V-8s) and get better performance and economy from every one. Three transmission choices include a three-speed automatic and a three-speed fully-synchronized manual shift.

Ford's new convenience includes more space in a deeper 'low-lift' trunk for easiest loading ever. Station wagons have out-of-sight lockable storage plus louvered rear corner pillars designed to direct the airstream to help keep the back window clear.

The convertible rear window is glass, eliminating the scratching, discolouring and wrinkling of the plastic windows used in the past.

The Big Ford delivers all this style, performance and convenience because it's the perfect blend of engineering and elegance! You'll find it the smoothest, most superbly silent of the big cars . . . the result of new body and frame engineering . . . and a completely re-designed suspension system.

Step into the silent comfort of the Big Ford for 1965. A New World of Elegance awaits you at your Ford Dealers now!

'Amsterman (1), Knockemblue dead heat

* * * * * *

Quinella Payoffs Sandown Feature

Yesterday's racing at Sandown Park produced a dead heat for first place which set up a double Exacto payoff but what is getting to be a continuing feature at the Sidney Track are the quinella returns.

Things got off to a rousing start, but only for a few, when the first race produced the largest return of the three-day-old meeting which Mark Down and Magic Eve combining for a $187.70 quinella payoff.

It was the second big one-two in two racing days, following Monday's Miss Ky Lea-Snuff Lady return of $104.80.

– But, wait, there's more. Although the usually - supported Keats Island finished behind only Sir Max in the eighth yesterday, the quinella payoff was a healthy $52.70. On opening day, the quinellas returned $62.10 and $49.60 and the average return for the six pools so far has been almost $80.

OLD FAVORITE

Taking to the soft strip and showing some of his old-time lick, he jumped out front on the break and it took some hard-riding by Jim Broomfield, who steered Knockemblue through on the rail, to get so close in the last stride that the camera couldn't separate the pair.

Result was perfect for the few that had failed to bet the pair both ways. The Amsterman-Knockemblue ticket was worth $47.50 and it was $43 the other way around.

NICE RIDE

Despite the 12-length win by Tenselon in the third race, the most impressive win yesterday was turned in by Judo Holt in the fifth race. And victory was also quite a tribute to Broomfield.

Jeaneeliz went for the lead from the break and when she tightened up the leaders at the clubhouse turn, it seemed for a second that Judo Holt might go down against the rail.

But Broomfield kept his mount straight and in good position, gained steadily on the front-runner, went to the front in the stretch by enough to beat out the charging Sir Kit.

LOSES WHIP

Sir Kit was sixth entering the stretch and made his run hand-ridden by jockey George Miller, who had lost his whip along the route.

Copper King won the featured three-year-old race under a good ride by Bob Cormack, staying on the pace as the 40-1 Nevercot made a bold attempt to steal it and moving up in the stretch along with War Summit, who got through on the rail to get a photo verdict over Nevercot for the place share of the purse.

BREAKAGE: Unlike last year, when Gun-an-Noot, Holt's Boy, Kilocycles, Pil's Friday, Dona B, Gae Levin, Wakonda, Mr. Ling, Hyrnfaxe and Princess Samoa all found themselves with new owners during the meet, there hasn't been a claim to date . . . a popular change this year has entries for Wednesday and Friday programs available on Mondays and Wednesdays. One gets an extra 24 hours to get confused . . . mutuel handle yesterday was $79,859, barely down from last year's $80,134 . . . handle for the first three days is down about seven per cent, from $268,510 to $249,023 . . . one reason certainly has to be the few favorites making it to the winner's circle. Only four have managed it in the first 24 races, and one had to share the honor . . . Good Stick, another who usually goes well at Sandown, joined Amsterman yesterday in a complete form reversal . . . apprentice Fred Finley was shut out yesterday. Getting only four mounts, he came close only on Akimfast in the second race . . . George Miller improved as the card progressed, finishing fourth, third, second and first in four rides . . . horses starting from the inside four post positions have won all but four of the 16 sprint races to date with Nos. 7 and 8 both blanked. This could change a bit, particularly from the chute, if and when there is a fast track.

Oshawa Captures Minto Cup Series

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Oshawa Green Gaels won their second straight Canadian junior lacrosse championship Wednesday night, scoring seven goals in the third quarter on the way to a 16-13 victory over New Westminster Salmonbellies.

Oshawa took the best-of-seven Minto Cup series 4-1.

The Easterners, trailing 7-5 at halftime, came back with a stunning attack and held New Westminster to only two goals in the tell-tale third quarter. The clubs split eight goals in the final quarter.

Officials of both teams were critical of referee Earl McDonald's handling of the game. McDonald, who sat out the third and fourth contests, had also been criticized for his work in the first two games.

John Davis, Oshawa captain, scored three goals and assisted five times. Gaylord Powless, named most valuable player of the series, scored three goals and added two assists. Brian Thompson, Larry Ireland, Don Stinson and Ken Thompson each scored twice and Doug Favell and Bill Young cleaned up Oshawa scoring with single goals.

SCORES FOUR GOALS

Ken Henry led New Westminster scoring with four goals, his best performance of the series. Defenceman John Shmyr scored three, Mac Tyler two, and Ian Bull, Bob Rezansoff, Bill Robinson and Wayne Bellwood singles.

New Westminster goaltender Ken Ridd made 32 saves, 10 more than Merv Marshall of Oshawa.

Gimple Game Hero

Vancouver Ties Mann Cup

WHITBY, Ont. (CP)—A goal by Gord Gimple with 12 seconds left in the game gave Vancouver Carlings a 13-12 victory over Brooklin Merchants before 1,600 fans here Wednesday night. The win tied the best-of-seven series for the Mann Cup and Canadian senior lacrosse title at three games each with the seventh game here Friday.

Vancouver, slowly gaining momentum after a slow start in the series, has rallied after trailing three games to one.

Brooklin held a 3-1 lead after the first period and led 5-4 after two. Vancouver took an 8-7 lead in the third period. The final period saw the lead change three times.

Vancouver went two ahead only to have Brooklin score three straight goals to go ahead 10-9. Vancouver then scored three straight and led 12-10 with 30 seconds remaining. Brooklin scored twice in eight seconds to tie the score but Gimple raced behind the Brooklin defence to take Fred Usselman's long pass and score the winner.

Alex Carey paced the win with three goals. Gimple and Bill Chisholm had two each for Vancouver, with Bill Barbour, Sid Warick, John Cervi, Ron Hemmerling, Peter Black and Usselman getting one each. Bob Babcock had four assists.

ALLAN SCORES TWO

Bob Allan, the outstanding player in the series to date for Brooklin, had two goals and four assists. Larry Ferguson, Cy Coombes and Glen Lotton scored twice each while Gerry Burrows, Grant Heffernan, Ron Roy and Paul Henderson had one apiece.

"That's the kind of a game that should have been played before 15,000 fans," Vancouver coach Alex MacKay said after the game. "We've been trying to put this game into the big arenas. The kind of show we had tonight would fill them.

"We've had a terrific team effort," MacKay added. "Also Norm Nestman had played solidly in all games in goal.

"We always seem to have someone coming up with the big game. In the last game it was Usselman. Tonight it was Carey and Babcock."

Usselman scored five goals in the fifth game Monday night but Brooklin checked him closely Wednesday night.

WEARS GLASSES

Nestman, who wears glasses in goal, faced a 46-shot barrage but continued his steady play. He saved the win with a dazzling stop on Roy in the dwindling seconds of the game when Allan sent Roy in the clear with a long pass.

Tribe's Paul Says No To Oakland

CLEVELAND (AP) — President Gabe Paul of Cleveland Indians rejected an offer Wednesday from an Oakland, Calif., group offering to buy the club for a reported $6,500,000 and move the franchise to Oakland.

The offer was made in a telegram to Paul, who owns 20 per cent interest in the American League baseball team.

In addition to the Oakland offer, two Cleveland groups reportedly have made substantial proposals to buy the Indians and keep the team here.

Yankees Four Ahead

There is still a bit of a pennant race to be decided before major league baseball can clear the decks for the world series but, all of a sudden, it's in the National League.

Things aren't yet panicky for the Philadelphia Phillies but they have the tougher schedule the rest of the way and yesterday they got themselves in a position where only a few slips could be fatal.

Meanwhile, New York Yankees yesterday practically clinched their fifth consecutive American League pennant, which would be their 14th in the last 16 year and their 29th since they won their first in 1921.

Cincinnati Reds, who have as an added incentive a seriously-ill manager in Fred Hutchinson, cropped the Philadelphia lead to three and a half games yesterday by completing a three-game sweep, 6-4, on the pitching of rookies Bill McCool and Sam Ellis and the hitting of veteran Vada Pinson.

Starter McCool, 20, and reliever Ellis, 23, held the Phillies to seven hits while Pinson hit two home runs, the second one coming with two runners aboard in a four-run eighth inning which brought the Reds from behind.

NINE LEFT

Phillies have nine games left, playing Milwaukee Braves four times at home, the Reds twice in Cincinnati and the Cardinals three times in St. Louis. The Reds, in addition to the two games with the Phillies, play three at home against Pittsburgh and five at New York against the tail-end Mets.

Still with a chance, the Cardinals missed an opportunity yesterday when they took a 2-1 defeat from the Mets as Roger Craig made his own bad luck with a seventh-inning throwing error which sent in the tie-breaking run.

GIANT STEP

Defeat left the Cards in a third-place tie with San Francisco Giants, who moved up a game as Juan Marichal beat Houston Colts, 4-1, for his 20th win. And Pittsburgh officially eliminated the Braves from pennant contention by winning, 7-4.

Pitching when it's needed, better hitting than they had in their dog days and their usual smart fielding have the Yankees looking all but unbeatable.

ANOTHER SWEEP

They ran their win streak to nine games, and their late charge to 11 out of 12 and 17 out of 20, yesterday with a second consecutive double-header sweep over the Cleveland Indians, 4-3 and 6-4.

Righthander Pedro Ramos, obtained as pennant insurance from the Indians a short while back, finished both games. The first went 11 innings and was decided by Elston Howard's 15th home run.

ORIOLES LOSE

Result left the Yankees ahead by four games, five on the losing side, when Baltimore Orioles took a 10-3 trouncing from Detroit Tigers. As matters stand, the Yankees stand assured of no worse than a tie if they go 5-5 in their remaining 10 games.

Showing signs of strain, the Orioles made three errors and had two passed balls.

Orioles knocked starter Phil Regan out in a two-run first inning but John Seale, just up from Syracuse, stopped them with one additional run for four innings.

'We Need a Gordie Howe' Says Boston Bruins Coach

* * *

Schmidt

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Coach Milt Schmidt had some things to say on super stars when Boston Bruins broke training camp here Wednesday and headed west for a five-game exhibition series opening in Victoria tonight. Game time is 8 p.m.

Last-place finishers in the National Hockey League for the last four years, the Bruins left a string of five exhibition losses behind them in the East.

Commented Schmidt before leaving:

"We don't have any super stars but if we had just one player like (Gordie) Howe or, (Bobby) Hull we'd finish first or second I assure you. That's just how much difference they make to a hockey team."

Bruins haven't placed a player on the first all-star team of the NHL since Fleming Mackell was selected 11 years ago.

"But I don't think our lack of all stars has been a big factor in our last-place finishes," said Schmidt.

"All the good clubs today had two or three or four good juniors come up at the same time . . . We haven't had any number of good juniors come up at the same time . . .and this makes a tremendous difference."

Kelly, Moore Juggled Out of Toronto Tour

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Red Kelly and Dickie Moore will not be with Toronto Maple Leafs when the National Hockey League team opens a 10-game Western exhibition in Winnipeg today against New York Rangers, manager - coach Punch Imlach announced Wednesday.

The two players will miss the entire Western tour as a result of player juggling and line changes by Imlach.

Kelly and Moore will remain here to work with Leafs' minor league teams. Providing he gets medical approval to play a regular game, Moore may be sent to California for exhibitions there.

Earlier opinion was that Kelly, who will represent the Canadian government at the Olympic Games, would accompany the team on the Western trip and depart for Tokyo from Vancouver. However neither Imlach nor Kelly would elaborate on the current plans.

Kelly has not yet signed a contract for the 1964-65 season, but confirmed that he would be back in Canada for the Leafs' opening league game.

Regina Girl Shocks Top Briton

SANDWICH, England (CP)—Joanne Goulet of Regina pulled off one of the biggest upsets of the British women's amateur golf championships Wednesday, defeating Mrs. Marley Spearman, British Curtis Cup player, 3 and 2.

The victory sent Miss Goulet, into the quarter-finals Thursday. She is the only surviving Canadian in the tournament.

Joining Miss Goulet in the round of eight were another giant-killer, Catherine Lacoste of France, two British women and four members of the United States team that defeated Britain in the 1964 Curtis Cup matches.

Defending champion Brigitte Varangot of France was eliminated in the fourth round today, losing to Nancy Roth, one of the U.S. Curtis Cup players, 2 and 1.

Miss Roth will be Miss Goulet's opponent in the quarter-finals.

The 19-year-old Miss Lacoste, whose rout of U.S. champion Barbara McIntire electrified the gallery Tuesday, defeated Elizabeth Chadwich of England 2 and 1 in the fourth round.

Following Mrs. Spearman's loss to Miss Goulet, the only British Curtis Cup player left in the running was Bridget Jackson of England, who defeated Scotland's Catherine Barclay 4 and 3.

Another English girl, Ann Campton, survived the fourth round with a 2 and 1 victory over Jill Thornhill, also of England.

Besides Miss Roth, the U.S. players reaching the quarter-finals were Phyllis Ann Preuss, Barbara Fay White and Carol Sorenson.

Miss Preuss got there by beating a fellow American, Sally Carroll, 4 and 3 in the fourth round. Miss White defeated Ita Burke of Ireland 3 and 1 and Miss Sorenson eliminated a British Curtis Cup player, Ruth Porter of England, 2 and 1.

Only two other Canadians were in the tournament. Betty Cole of Toronto lost 2 and 1 to Miss Sorenson in the third round and Gail Harvey of Toronto was eliminated Tuesday in the first round.

Sound Tactics Needed for Better Viewing

By CHARLES McDOWELL JR.

Millions of North American males are now committed to a gruelling series of weekends watching football games on television. Their dedication to the sport is an inspiration to true believers in our way of life.

Contrary to the opinion held in some circles, watching football games on television — the collegians on Saturday and the professionals on Sunday—is not a casual pastime. It requires perseverance, a lively mind and a good sense of tactics.

In keeping with our annual custom, we present below a tactical lexicon of television football watching, revised and expanded for the faster, trickier game of 1964.

Option Play — The decision whether to perform constructive chores around the house or watch the game. This is not a difficult decision, of course, but it may require a certain amount of deception.

Reverse—The appearance on the scene of a wife advocating cleaning the attic or working in the yard.

Red-dogging—The aggressive harassment of the game-watcher by a wife advocating brutish chores, errands or social visitation. (Many advanced thinkers believe that red-dogging constitutes something akin to unsportsmanlike conduct and should be ruled out of the game.)

Stunting Defence—The avoidance of intrusive chores by a plea of illness (bad cold, etc.) or injury (calluses, etc.).

Corner Man — A man who avoids red-dogging by going to the tavern on the corner to watch the game.

Illegal Procedure—A neighborhood cleanup project, picnic, or even an ill-timed cookout, for example.

Chinese Bandits—Small children, often well coached, who intrude upon the game asking to see their favorite program, or to go for a ride in the car, or to be taken to see the four-alarm fire in the next block.

Tooby Inherits Player Shortage
Four First-Stringers Missing

Howard Tooby has been handed the job of coaching the Victoria Haida Chiefs, but along with the job goes a king-sized headache, in that 80 per cent of the club's first string may not be back for the coming season.

Manager Ken King announced yesterday that the 36-year-old Tooby has agreed to take over the coaching post handled last year by King and Elmer Curtis. At the same time, King announced that the Chiefs may lose Barry Sadler, Bill Wilson, Daryl Lorimer and Norris Martin, all members of the Chiefs' first string last year.

Sadler is currently in Vancouver and is not expected to be back in Victoria for some time. Wilson is touring Europe and King has no idea when he will be back. Lorimer has returned to the University of Victoria and Norris Martin has decided to complete his studies at UBC.

Toby is by no means a new face in the Victoria basketball picture. He started playing in Victoria as a midget, moved up through the ranks, and has spent the last 16 years coaching.

Four senior "A" teams have shared his services over a period of eight years. During his playing years he performed with six provincial championship teams.

In his coaching career Tooby has piloted seven teams to B.C. crowns and spent another year coaching the Senior "A" Victoria Orphans.

Last season he and Busher Jackson coached the Victoria Chinooks to a first-placae finish in their first season in the fast moving junior inter-city circuit.

Tooby is noted for drilling fast moving clubs and he is a strong believer in basketball fundamentals. But first he wants to see what talent is available. Practices are held Tuesday and Wednesdays at Central Junior High School at 8 p.m.

Chiefs will see their first action in early November and will play most of their home games at Central Junior High School on Wednesday evenings.

A new entry in the Inter-City circuit this year will be the Vancouver CYO. Alberni Athletics, Vancouver Grocers, New Westminster Bakers and probably Vancouver Nocturns will also be back for another year.

Balding 64

SEATTLE (AP) — Lanky Al Balding of Toronto, playing the course as if he had designed it, toured Broadmoore's 6,328 yards in 64 Wednesday to take the opening round lead in the 72-hole Greater Seattle Open Golf Tournament.

Fifty-three golfers—a third of the field—were under par 70 on the course for which the competitive record is 61.

That was posted in 1937 by challenger Gary Diven of Seattle, who led the amateurs Wednesday with a 72.

Five players were clustered in second place, one stroke behind Balding. Seven were tied at 66. One stroke farther back were eight others, among them such prominent pros as Chi Chi Rodriguez, Dow Finsterwald and Mason Rudolph.

Durocher New Cardinal Boss?

Keane Walking Plank

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Johnny Keane will be given his walking papers within the next two weeks by the St. Louis Cardinals and Leo Durocher most likely will succeed him, it has been learned on excellent authority.

The decision to fire Keane was reached some time ago by Cardinal president Gussie Busch, who conferred with Durocher the last time the Dodgers were in St. Louis three weeks ago.

Ironically, Durocher's chief competition for the Cardinals' managerial job is coming from the man he now is serving under as coach, Walt Alston, who, like Keane, also will be let out as soon as the season is over.

Branch Rickey, a special consultant with the Cardinals and a man who probably knows Durocher better than anyone else in baseball, naturally is pushing him for the post.

SOME THOUGHT

Busch, however, also is giving some consideration to Alston, who has guided the Dodgers to four National League pennants and two world championships during his 11 years as manager.

"The choice narrows down to those two men and right now Durocher is the leading candidate," said UPI's source.

Durocher's last managerial job was with the New York Giants in 1955 and earlier this month he told me he would like very much to manage again next year.

'I'D TAKE IT'

"If the proposition was right, I'd take it," he said.

"I'm grateful to Buzzy Bavasi and Walter O'Malley for giving me a job when I needed one and my association with the Los Angeles club couldn't have been better," he added, "but I'll admit I'd like another crack at managing."

Should the 58-year-old Durocher get the job it will be something in the nature of a homecoming.

'LIKE SON'

Rickey obtained Leo for the Cardinals from the Reds in 1933 and Durocher played shortstop in St. Louis for five seasons before moving on to Brooklyn where he later served under Rickey again as manager.

"Hell's fire, Leo is like a son to me," Rickey has said many times in the past.

UNDER ALSTON

Durocher has been a coach with the Dodgers since 1961, always working under Alston.

The 52-year-old Keane spent 29 years in the minors, mostly managing Cardinal farm clubs, before finally making it to the majors.

He was a coach with the Cardinals from 1959 through July 6, 1961 when he replaced Solly Hemus as St. Louis manager. Keane took over the club from Hemus when it was in sixth place and boosted it a notch to fifth.

DROP THREE

The Cards dropped to sixth in 1962 but electrified the baseball world a year ago by winning 19 out of 20 and nearly overtaking the first-place Dodgers. They then dropped three straight to the Dodgers and finished second to them by six games.

Right now the Cardinals are in third place, five games out.

Brown Jug Race Today

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Vicar Hanover and Combat Time, a pair of speedy sidewheelers, are favored to battle it out today for top money in the Little Brown Jug.

But the 19th annual classic for three-year-old pacers, scheduled over the Delaware Country Fairgrounds half-mile oval, is regarded as the most wide-open of recent years since highly-regarded Race Time was scratched due to a virus infection.

Kidd

For Canada's Track Team

Low Rating Best News Yet

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Fred Foot is one happy fellow.

For six years he has been building up track proteges Bruce Kidd and Bill Crothers to the point where they can look at the world's best in the 800-metre and distance events without scurrying for cover. That's something Canadian athletes haven't been able to do for years.

Now, just about every track and field expert around the world has written off Crothers and Kidd as medal winners in the Tokyo Olympics next month.

"This is great, just great," said Foot, the Toronto East York coach. "Now I can go to Tokyo and sit in the stands and just wait and see. Nobody really wants to go there as a favorite in any event and I'm happy that our guys are going to Tokyo minus the pressure that favorites have to bear.

"We'll go along with all the experts. On the times Bill and Bruce have had this year, I really can't blame them."

WON SIX-MILE

Foot pointed out, however, that experts have been known to be dead wrong.

A classic example was in the 1962 British Empire Games at Perth. Kidd, then a 19-year-old, was picked to finish outside the first six in the six miles.

He won it and then less than 48 hours later attempted the double in the three miles. Waiting for him was that old cutie, 29-year-old Murray Halbert of New Zealand, the 5,000-metre Olympic champion in 1960. Halberg had scratched from the six miles and was fresh and eager to take on the Canadian youngster.

BIG MOVE

Kidd, acclaimed by world experts in 1960 as a runner who had the potential to become the greatest distance man the world has known, had Halberg worried for a' while. The veteran New Zealander stayed right with him until about 300 yards to go and the made his big move.

Kidd, bothered by sore feet, just didn't have it and finished third behind Halberg and Australia's Ron Clarke.

That was the rubber match between the University of Toronto political science student and Halberg. In June 1962, at Compton, Calif., Kidd won the 5,000 metres in 13:43.4. Three weeks later, at Walnut, Calif., Halberg beat Kidd over the three-mile distance.

WON'T TRY DOUBLE

He was the cutie that time, too. Twenty-four hours earlier, Kidd had won the six miles while Halberg sat in the stands.

"I won't double up like this again," Kidd said. "You can't win the six- and three-mile races on successive days."

He went against his better judgment at Perth. Next month, though, it is likely he'll run the 10,000 metres, skip the 5,000 three days later and then take a crack at the marathon. Halberg also is expected to go into the 10,000 metres and skip the 5,000.

RATED FOURTH

Crothers is given a fourth-place rating at Tokyo. "Well," says Foot, "Bill was listed first in the world last year and 14th this year. That's going on race times. But his record is pretty good against the favorites."

Top ranking has been given to Jerry Siebert of the U.S. with team-mate Morgan Groth picked for the second-place silver and Jamaica's George Kerr for the third-place bronze.

Crothers, a Markham, Ont., pharmacist, was beaten by Siebert two years ago. "Bill certainly has improved since then," says Foot. Twice he has tangled with Groth and Kerr and has 1-1 records.

Basket Boys Go Away Mad

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's hopes for a basketball entry in the Olympics in Tokyo left here Sunday by air for Yokohama, but not without leaving behind a large gripe about their treatment.

The Toronto team is paying its own way to the pre-Olympics qualifying tournament—at a cost of about $650 for each of the 13 team members and manager Doug Heaslip. The Canadian Olympic Association has promised to pay all expenses if the team qualifies for the Games proper.

Ruby Richman, a lawyer who is playing coach of the team, said Canada's basketball chances are being hurt because the team didn't have enough money to play exhibition games beforehand.

He blamed the team's lack of COA backing on "some conflict in the past between the COA and the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association, plus the fact that Canada didn't do well in 1960 in basketball at the Olympics." Richman didn't explain what the past conflict involved.

Nicklaus Moves Up

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, this year's only PGA four-tournament winner, came $3,000 closer to matching Arnold Palmer's seasonal total of $110,743.37 when he won the Portland Open last Sunday.

Nicklaus earned $5,800, which boosted his winnings to $107,717.83 for the year.

Bill Casper replaced Tony Lema in the third spot when he took $1,800 in the Portland tourney. This brought his season's winnings to $73,219.74. Lema, in fourth place, has $72,555.37.

Lloyd Turner Man of Memories

Corral Fixture Out to Pasture

By ED TREFIAK

The leathery, genial six-footer, who retires Oct. 1 after 40 years at the helm of Calgary's hockey life and manager of its rinks is as much a fixture of the Corral, the city's arena, as is his collection of 2,000 pictures that line its concourse.

Calgarians don't begrudge him his retirement after a career that won him a place in 1957 in the Hockey Hall of Fame as a "builder," but many seem to feel an era will end when he steps down to a consultant capacity at the Corral.

The most splashy showing of the city's esteem is a 2,500-plate testimonial dinner planned for the Corral Friday Sept. 25, at which Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, heads the list of speakers.

Big Trip

The following evening Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins will meet in a Lloyd Turner night exhibition, during which Turner will receive round-trip tickets to the 1965 world hockey championships in Finland.

Other, less-public tributes have fallen Turner's way. Perhaps one of the most thoughtful was from the 39th Calgary Boy Scout Troop, which has savored Turner hospitality on more than one occasion.

The boys presented Turner with a carving of three horses' heads, one of pine to symbolize the land, one of mahogany to portray the deep meaning of Turner's career, and one of walnut to symbolize his strength of character.

"He has done so much for so many people that we just didn't want to let it go unnoticed," said scout official Norm Collin.

Lasting Tribute

"The painting will hang in the Stampede Corral, a lasting tribute to the work that Mr. Turner has done throughout the years," he said.

It will be a meaningful addition to the collection of paintings, photos and magazine pictures Turner has framed, glazed and arranged on the walls during his career.

The collection ranges from commissioned oil landscapes to photos of royalty, entertainers and sports greats. Yellowed photographs of bygone hockey teams line part of a wall, along with pictures of all members of the Hockey Hall of Fame.

Turner made all the frames.

"It would have been too expensive to have all these frames made," he said, "so I bought a carpenter saw and mitre box and did it myself."

The collection was turned over in 1960 to the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Board as a gift to the people of Calgary.

Turner was born in Elmvale, Ont., and spent his youth in Sault Ste. Marie, where he played baseball and hockey. In 1907 he moved to Calgary to play in the old Western Canada Baseball League, and two years later became manager of the Sherman rink, a roller-skating rink which he had flooded for hockey, until it burned down in 1915.

Pulled Goalie

The Victoria Arena, a horse show building, was opened to hockey shortly after and Turner became manager. He also managed the Tiger Hockey Club that played in the 1924 Stanley Cup series against Montreal Canadiens.

From 1925 to 1929 following the death of his wife Hazel, Turner managed the arena and hockey club of Minneapolis Millers in Minneapolis. It was then he became hockey's first coach to pull a goalie during a game.

"We were playing St. Paul on their oversized rink and getting nowhere," he said. "They were leading 1-0.

"I thought the goalie was serving no use, so I pulled him out and put in another forward—that was early in the game. We managed to tie the score, and later won 2-1."

On Carpet

St. Paul protested the game, and Turner was called on the carpet.

"It was seven-man hockey in those days, and I told them the rules didn't say you had to have six men and a goalie; they just said seven men.

"The protest was thrown out. Then within weeks Art Ross (coach of Boston Bruins) did it in Boston."

From Minneapolis Turner went to Seattle where he managed the Seattle Metropolitans. In 1932 he was back in Calgary.

"Calgary was a great hockey town in those days," he said. "And it was the greatest hockey there was, Allan Cup hockey."

Cat in Drawer

In 1945-46 with Turner as manager and Jack Arbour as coach, Stampeders won the cup, and the city, noted for its victory celebrations, went wild.

The game began late following a blessed event. One of the many cats that lived in the arena gave birth in the knee pads of Calgary goalie Russ Betells, now a Calgary businessman, and action had to be delayed until the litter could be transferred to a sock-lined box.

"We had cats around our rinks from 1918 on," said Turner. "I have no particular liking for cats, and I don't know where they came from, but they were just kittens so I felt I had to feed them.

"I had holes cut in the doors so they could get in and out. They would come into my office and climb inside the back of the desk and go to sleep in the drawers.

The cats were left behind in the move to the 6,600-seat Corral in 1950, but Turner's picture collection, already substantial, went along.

And there they, and Turner, will stay.

"I'm going to stay in Calgary no matter when I retire," he said. "This is the only place for me and I guess I'll always be around the grounds somewhere."

"FOREST"
CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1½" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 6-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building.

TV TALK

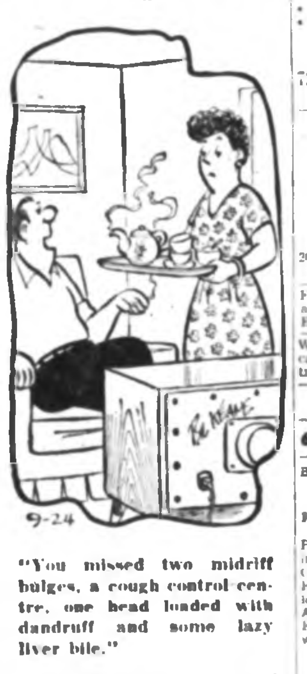
By BRUCE LOWTHER

I'm not sure whether to be happy or sad that Steve Allen and the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. have decided that his five-nights-a-week late-night show will end as of Oct. 23.

Allen blames the "heavy burden" of other commitments, especially the job of replacing Garry Moore on the forgettable CBS panel thing I've Got a Secret. Moore, breathless TV gossip fans will recall, quit in a snit when CBS cancelled his popular weekly variety show.

Crux of the trouble was that Allen would have had to fly to New York from Hollywood once a week for Secret and still clown around for 90 minutes five times a week in Hollywood. Nobody can keep up that pace.

It's sad to see the multi-talented Allen off the air, and I consider him gone because Secret is less than nothing. But I'm happy to see the end of his latest show. Before Channels 6 and 7 dropped it, there seemed to be ample evidence writer-musician-comedian Allen was spreading himself too thin.



"You missed two midriff bulges, a cough control centre, one head loaded with dandruff and some lazy liver bile."

Thursday's Highlights

New series—Daniel Boone, starring Fess (Davy Crockett) Parker, with sidekicks Albert Salmi and Ed Ames, Channel 5 at 7:30 p.m.; the Munsters, another funny horror, including Yvonne De Carlo and Fred Gwynne, Channel 7 at 7:30; Baileys of Balboa, a comedy with Paul (Bilko) Ford and Sterling Holloway, Channels 7 and 8 at 9:30; The Rogues, again, Channel 2 at 10.

7:00 a.m.—A two-hour Today special may replace Telescope: Ray Bolger's World of the Dance—5.

4:30 p.m.—Vacation Time visits Moby Doll—2, 6.

9:00—The Defenders returns with Tom Poston in a two-part comedy. Again on Channel 7 at 10—2, 6.

Thursday's Movies

11:30—From This Day Forward (1946 romance, part two), Joan Fontaine—12.

1:00 p.m.—South of Suez (1940 mystery)—6, 8.

2:00—Five of a Kind (1938 comedy), the Dionnes—11.

5:00—Affairs of Martha (1942 comedy)—8.

ESQUIMALT HEIGHTS
Only seldom do these fine homes in the UPLANDS of Esquimalt become available. This one is an exceptionally attractive SPLIT-LEVEL built for a naval commander just 4 years ago, which has been maintained with traditional SHIPSHAPE neatness and care. A transfer to an overseas posting is the only reason for selling. A full-size family home of 1,350 sq. ft. plus a large recreation room, it contains all the features one could desire, including 3 bedrooms, 1½ bathrooms, spacious kitchen with twin sinks and fan. The sundeck overlooks a beautiful setting of green lawns, shrubs and flowers. Just five minutes from the naval base and Dockyards, it offers ideal accommodation for the young executive or officer in the services.
PRICE $21,900 Terms
For full details call EV 4-8126 or EV 5-0795, ask for Mr. Greene.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Cashing aces isn't always simple. Sometimes it takes a bit of detective work before you can deduce which ace partner is yearning to cash. Cover the West and South cards and see whether you would have found the right action to topple the slam contract.

Vul: Both

NORTH
♠ K Q J 9
♡ K 10 7 6 3
♢ K Q 7

WEST
♡ 9 2
♢ J 10 9 6 5

EAST
♠ 10 6 4 2
♡ Q 5 4
♢ 8 3
♣ 10 9 7 6

SOUTH (D)
♠ 8 7
♡ A J 8
♢ A 4 2
♣ A K Q 3 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
2 N.T.	Pass	6 N.T.	All Pass

Opening lead: Diamond jack

South was a slapdash bidder, but a good cardplayer — the type who make experts feel slightly nervous, wondering whether he's pulling a fast one. His two no trump rebid was unsound with no spade guard, but quite likely the partnership would have gone to slam just the same if South had made the proper bid of three hearts.

West had a safe lead against six no trump. Declarer won, guessed wrong on the hearts, and East's queen took the second round. What would you do in his position? East placed South with the spade ace for his two no trump rebid, and readily led back a club, looking for the hole in declarer's bucket. Now the slam was easily made; South throwing his spades on dummy's long hearts.

In such a situation, a defender should take nothing for granted. Admittedly, it seemed likely that South had the spade ace—but so what? Count declarer's trick. West's opening lead made it clear that South could not have more than three diamond tricks to add to his four-heart winners. If declarer had the spade ace, that would make 11 tricks in all. The club return from East could never be vital, but the spade return could be—and was.

Rude Indifference Today's Special

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP)—Rudeness or indifference, notably among people who are supposed to be serving the public, are two features of the Moscow scene that impress the recently arrived foreigner.

There are inevitable exceptions, of course, but chances are you'll hear a surprisingly emphatic "nyet" when being told something you asked for is not available in a store.

BELLIGERENT

And the belligerent attitude of waitresses and waiters in restaurants can dampen much of the pleasure of eating out.

In some eating places—fortunately not all—you are left with the impression that the help considers it an imposition for you to expect service.

In one major hotel, for example, they wave you away from certain tables, supposedly reserved, without making any attempt to find you another place to sit.

In such cases, you're likely to wander about, bouncing from one table to another, and end up walking out embarrassed and bewildered, even though it appears there is seating space available.

SERVICE SLOW

If you do get a seat, you may wait as long as half an hour before being served, unless you force the issue by chasing down the maitre d'hotel and demanding attention.

The more leisurely approach to dining in the Soviet Union as compared with Canada may go part way toward explaining why it takes so long to get served. But deliberate disrespect or apathy are also factors.

PLEASANT CONTRAST

The exceptions — restaurants with excellent service and stores where the staff goes out of its way to oblige customers —are all the more pleasant because of the contrast.

But discourtesy and indifference are widespread enough to have occupied the attention of Premier Khrushchev, particularly as they affect the working population.

He told the Supreme Soviet July 13 "a great role in reorganizing the living conditions of Soviet people along Communist lines belongs to public catering." It was necessary to expand the network of canteens, cafes, snack bars and home service kitchens.

SHOW CONCERN

"However, the main thing is to show concern that the working people receive tasty food, that they get rapid and efficient service."

Selection and education of workers in trade should be improved, he said, adding that "scoundrels and swindlers" had taken advantage of past weaknesses in this area.

Not long ago, Pravda complained about the "mask of complete indifference and phlegmaticism" on the faces of female assistants in a food-shop in Komsomosky Prospect.

'DECISIVE STRUGGLE'

After criticizing the slow-moving girls with their look "always aimed over the heads of customers" and their "purposeful silence in reply to quiet and polite questions," the newspaper declared:

'We Won't Shoot'

U.S. to Bombard Japanese Troops With Leaflets

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japan is asking the United States to bombard two suspected wartime Japanese soldiers in the jungles of Guam—with leaflets.

The men, one of whom recently fired a shot at a man who spotted him, are believed to have stayed in hiding for 19 years, certain that they would be killed if they were caught.

Now a three-man Japanese party, including Bunzo Minakawa, 43, who spent 16 years in the jungle himself, is starting a search for the pair.

NAMES SOUGHT

An American helicopter will drop 6,000 leaflets, telling the men how Japan has changed—and particularly telling them that the Americans will not kill "war prisoners."

The leaflets also call on the suspected stragglers to give their names so that their families can be brought to Guam for a reunion with them.

The search is expected to last two or three months. Local police and soldiers will accompany the searchers.

Police will lend a jeep and a loudspeaker - equipped boat to help scatter other copies of the leaflets.

LEAVE MAGAZINES

The search party will broadcast tape recordings of pre-war Japanese popular songs. But a plan to leave Japanese canned food has been dropped. It was felt the cans would only scare the stragglers away.

The existence of the men was revealed, according to the Japanese newspaper Asahi Shimbun, when Jose George saw one of them raiding piles of garbage. George was quoted as saying the second soldier fired a shot at him with a rifle.

An Asahi correspondent said the men must have realized many years ago that Japan had lost the war, but remained hidden in the jungle because the Japanese had been taught for centuries that prisoners are always killed.

LBJ Stays at Desk

American Election Campaign 'Mostly Shadow-Boxing'

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—American politicians have pretty well confined themselves to shadow-boxing in the early stages of the campaign for the Nov. 3 U.S. presidential election.

President Lyndon Johnson, at the top by virtue of office, has been cultivating an Olympian detachment in the search for votes. He speaks of "peace, prosperity and progress," of unity and of a great society.

Arizona senator Barry Goldwater as the Republican challenger is more restrained so far than he has been in the past but he's hitting the president hard when and where he can.

PUNGENT LANGUAGE

Senator Hubert Humphrey, Democratic vice - presidential nominee from Minnesota, is the man who has been on Goldwater's tail from the start. His assailant, meanwhile, is his Republican counterpart, Congressman William E. Miller of New York.

And Miller has been attacked by senior Democratic congressional leaders in language remarkably pungent for so early in a campaign.

This pattern has been planned in large part. It may shift as the election day nears. Certainly the president will become more active.

However, the president's grand design now, observers agree, is to stick at his desk faithfully, personally direct all the strategy as a master politician and strike a picture of a man who barely is aware that an election is looming.

As he told a recent press conference:

"We are not going to plan our activities for the next few weeks based on any traditions or any practices of presidents who have preceded us. Our first obligation is to do this job that we are doing here today and I will be doing it all day today and all day tomorrow, right in this house."

Johnson has two main objectives. One is to strike a contrast with the Democratic picture of Senator Goldwater as wild and trigger-happy. This is aimed at dissident Republicans unable to stomach the Goldwater-Miller ticket.

POWERFUL TOOL

The other is to make the greatest use of the powerful tool represented by the office of the presidency. Examples lie in the frequency with which Johnson tends to make announcements and summon impromptu press conferences, without needing to make a speech.

He is also raising the vice-presidential candidate's duties to a new level, observers suggest, partly from his own often-frustrating experiences as No. 2 man to the late president Kennedy. In Senator Humphrey he has a tireless, campaign-loving politician who can cut up Senator Goldwater much more effectively than the president can, or wants to.

Not that the president is expected to let the whole campaign go by without getting into it more actively; but at this stage, it is being suggested on the basis of polls and other evidence, the only man who can beat the president is Johnson himself.

Senator Goldwater has said he chose Congressman Miller as his vice-presidential candidate because he could get under Johnson's skin and Miller has started out on that tack.

But much of his early firing has been directed at Humphrey as a Liberal radical, a man who if not soft on communism is at least a little tender towards that ideology.

RADICAL RECORD

He called the Humphrey record one of the most radical in Congress and linked him with a small left-leaning organization called Americans for Democratic Action, which Miller described as "unquestionably the most influential organization in our nation's capital attempting to subvert and transform our government into a foreign socialistic totalitarianism."

Democratic Senator J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee and noted as a mild - mannered internationalist, made an unusually-strong retort even for Senate debate.

He said Miller's statement was "one of the most vicious, false and malicious documents in American political history." It confirmed that Miller had been picked as "hatchet man, not because he is well known or a man of stature but because he is capable of the most foul-mouthed vituperation and unrestrained misrepresentation of any man in public life."

Dead-End Jobs For Drop-Outs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For anyone thinking of dropping out of school, Michael Anfossi has dug some interesting statistics out of bureau of statistics reports.

For example, he says, each year in high school adds an additional $238 to potential annual income. And matriculation is worth an extra $466 a year.

Mr. Anfossi is manager of the National Employment Service youth centre in Montreal and his office is making every effort to get young people who come looking for a job to go back to school instead.

* * *

Statistics and common sense are his ammunition.

"Many leave their studies at an early age because they are attracted by the prospect of independence and the things that $30 or $40 a week can buy," he says.

"But many of them learn too late that while this amount of money may be just fine at 16 or 17, it doesn't get them very far when they have to support a family."

* * *

Mr. Anfossi says many young people fail to realize that education at an increasingly higher level is being demanded in all but "dead-end" jobs.

The youth centre deals with applicants 16 to 21 without significant working experience. It gives aptitude tests to determine interests and abilities. And if an applicant is determined to go to work, the centre will try to find a suitable job.

But other areas are explored, such as the possibility of enrolling in a government-sponsored vocational training course.

And in trying to convince teen-agers they should take another crack at school, Mr. Anfossi likes to knock down stories about the "self-made man."

"Probably the same man will tell you that things would have been a little easier if he had remained in school."

Priceless Amati Violin

Survived Two Wars

Martial Music-Maker

MOSCOW (AP)—For 43 years Alexei Medushenko has made sweet sounds on his old violin. But now the sounds have died—the state has Alexei's violin.

The story of Alexei and his fiddle goes back to 1921 when civil war gripped the fledgling Soviet state.

* * *

Alexei, then 24, was fighting for the Reds. His comrades knew him as a maker of music, and they called him Muzikant—the musician.

One day Alexei, for his courage in battle, was presented with a violin by his squadron commander.

After the war Alexei went back to his village, Rozanovka, with his violin, and through the years he played it often.

He went to war against the Nazis and took his violin in a bag. And when that war was over he went back to his village again, with his violin. He made sweet music and grew old and taught his grandson to play.

The story of Alexei and his music spread and one day a newspaperman came to see him. Alexei showed the reporter his old violin.

Something about it took the reporter's eye—the date 1615 and some words in Latin.

Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, heard about the strange violin and instigated more inquiries. Some officials trooped down to see Alexei and his violin. They read the inscription:

"Nicolo Amati, Cremona, 1615."

* * *

That old violin Alexei had been playing for 43 years, which he had taken to two wars, on which he had taught his grandson to play, was worth its weight in gold—made by Amati, the teacher of Stradivari himself.

The ending of the story was told by Izvestia: Alexei, it said, had "with pleasure" presented his priceless violin to the state collection.

Bullion, Gems

Vast Wealth Litters Ocean Floor

In the year 1715, 10 galleons of King Philip V of Spain were splintered by hurricanes and lost in the reefs off what is now Cape Kennedy.

The galleons, part of the Royal Flota de la Planta (armed treasure fleet), had been laden with New World plunder worth about $1,200,000. The great loss is said to have ruined merchants in Seville, Cadiz, Vera Cruz and Cartagena and soured the digestion of King Philip V.

The National Geographical Society has announced in Washington that a Florida treasure team has recovered the bulk of the loss following a four-year search. Discoveries of this kind, though rare (this was the largest American find since 1687), tend to renew similar dreams in other men to seek gold.

And with some reason. The recent find represented the merest fraction of the vast quantities of bullion and precious stones known to be lying round the ocean beds—to say nothing of the more mythological treasure of pirates and wartime looters supposed to be buried on dry land.

Treasure Diver's Guide

Four years ago a catalogue of sunken vessels (The Treasure Diver's Guide. Doubleday.) was published, in which the author, John S. Potter, listed thousands of wrecks of proved existence, and whose approximate position was known.

At least 1,500 of them, on 480 different sites, had gold or loot on board, and even at a conservative estimate (based on bills of lading, etc.) the total value must far exceed $280,000,000.

It has been estimated that between 1500 and 1820, the Spaniards made some 17,000 eastward crossings from the New World carrying nearly $11,200,000,000. Even at a normal rate of shipping disasters, unhelped by pirates, the loss must have been considerable.

One of the quests that occurs with great regularity is the search for the buried gold of Sir Henry Morgan, the pirate who procured a royal pardon and the lieutenant-governorship of Jamaica from Charles II for $2,800,000.

Woman Knows Site

Morgan is said to have concealed an estimated fortune of $280,000,000.

The one person who is believed to know the site is Miss Anna Mitchell-Hedges, Canadian-born and adopted daughter of the late author and explorer, Frederick Mitchell-Hedges. She and her father went to the islands off Honduras in 1934 and found three of Morgan's buried chests. They managed to smuggle some of the contents from the country but were forced to leave the bulk of the treasure behind.

Miss Mitchell-Hedges has left her home in England for America. It is believed she may be making another attempt to retrieve the twice-lost gold.

Elsewhere the hunt for gold is almost equally intense. In Britain, where most of the treasure is contained in sunken galleons from the Spanish Armada, searches go on in Tobermory Bay (a hopeless task according to Mr. Potter), off the coast of Anglesey, off Flamborough and Beachy Head.

Solomon's Treasure

Cogoza in south Italy is being scoured for treasure from the temple of King Solomon stolen by Alaric. And throughout Western Europe reports of buried Nazi treasure are common, including reports of money dumped in Lake Toplitz which led to an abortive search last year; Rommel's loot, said to be off Corsica, and Mussolini's jewels in Lake Como.

Fortunes are occasionally recovered. All but $112,000 of the Philipine government money saved from Japanese hands in the war and dumped by Americans off Corregidor, has been salvaged.

The Ss. Egypt, which sank off Brittany in 1922 with $2,951,200 in bullion was salvaged in 1935. And the great majority of the $11,200,000 which sank with the RMS Niagara in 1940 off New Zealand was raised in 1942.

But even with modern diving techniques, underwater television cameras, and sophisticated detection apparatus (all being used even by amateurs these days), only a tiny proportion of sunken treasure is likely to be recovered.

Most wrecks are in such deep water, or so thickly silted over, that it would more often than not cost $100,000 to salvage $50,000.

EXPANDING TO CANADA

Palm Springs Health Spa International of Indianapolis has decided to increase its Canadian expansion plans from $2,000,000 to $4,500,000 and to set up a main regional office in Vancouver which will control all Canadian operations as well as those in California, Oregon, Washington, Hawaii, Alaska and Australia.

The company, which has a spa in Victoria and five others in Vancouver, is presently constructing four more—two in Toronto, and one each in Calgary and Edmonton.

Odds Catch Up to Veteran Policemen

Famous Rio Manhunters Die by Gunfire

By LOUIS R. STEIN

RIO DE JANEIRO — The odds are catching up with Rio's veteran manhunters. Within one week the city's two most famous policemen died by gunfire.

* * *

First detective Milton Le Cocq was slain by a jailbreaker and wanted killer known to headline readers as Horseface (Cara de Cavalo). Then Perpetuo de Freitas Silva fell dead when a 45-calibre bullet from the gun of fellow detective Jorge Galante Gomes shattered his heart.

Le Cocq died because he gave Horseface a chance to shoot first. After a dramatic auto chase through the streets of Rio, Le Cocq pulled abreast of the car in which Horseface was riding.

"Pull over! You're under arrest," shouted Le Cocq.

* * *

De Freitas was the victim of a peacemaker while searching for Le Cocq's slayer. During the hunt in the hilltop Esqueleto favela, De Freitas and rookie policeman Bames fell into a heated argument.

A third policeman took hold of De Freitas' arm to pull him away. At that moment Gomes yanked his 45-calibre revolver and fired. De Freitas, whose lightning draw was the terror of favela thugs, died with his gun still in his belt.

De Freitas and Le Cocq, both old-time cops who scorned modern methods, were feared and respected by underworld killers. Their records include hundreds of arrests of favela badmen. Both confessed they could not recall how many times they had shot it out with killers who resisted arrest.

* * *

To track down a suspect he would drop the word, then sit back and spin yarns in his favorite bar in the Mangueira Favela until news of his quarry's whereabouts came back over the grapevine.

* * *

De Freitas encouraged the underworld legend that he was immune to bullets. The unfortunately spurious tale gained credence after one Silvino Celestino vowed to "get" De Freitas and imprudently went looking for him.

* * *

De Freitas leaned wide and fired once. His bullet took Celestino between the eyes. Though it seemed impossible, De Freitas was unscathed. The tale that he was untouchable began to circulate. Countless other gunfighters tended to confirm it.

De Freitas was also known as a man of his word. Many gunmen who feared they would die "resisting arrest" if they surrendered to anyone else, sent word to De Freitas that they were ready to give up. All reached jail unharmed.

* * *

The list of desperate characters captured or killed by De Freitas shows that Chicago gangsters of the 30s were not unique in the use of descriptive nicknames. A spot check shows that he triumphed over Scarface Joe (Ze Navalhada), The Shadow (Sombra), Baby John (Joao Crianca), Limpy (Passo Erado), Rusty (Ferrugem), Little Black Joe (Ze Pretinho) and Lippy (Bate Papo).

De Freitas was a big, powerful man, part Indian. But Le Cocq, though tall, was thin to the point of emaciation. His sunken cheeks and deep-set eyes were accentuated by a luxuriant mustache. He always wore a black beret which was often the target of gunmen's bullets.

Rio's "bloody press," which specializes in crime reporting, called him the leader of a police "death squad" said to go manhunting with orders to shoot to kill. Le Cocq vehemently denied the persistent story although he did not deny responsibility for the death of a dozen killers.

As Le Cocq and De Freitas were laid to rest at funerals attended by over 5,000 persons each, Horseface continued to elude a city-wide manhunt in the hilltop favelas inhabited by a million persons.

* * *

Numbers game operators were also reported looking for Horseface, who is an interloping lone wolf murderer, armed robber and dope peddler. Though their operations are illegal, those who control the numbers game consider themselves businessmen, rather than criminals. They are said to have given orders for elimination of Horseface because his presence disrupts their affairs.

Caught in the vise of the dual manhunt, Horseface is expected to shortly end on the autopsy table of the Instituto de Medicina Legal—where postmortems are performed on all victims of violent death.

SPECIAL 2-DOOR COUPE

SKYLARK CONVERTIBLE

This is the new Buick Special. Nimble and thrifty as it's always been. With its own brand of lively V6 performance. Not to mention gas economy that's most gratifying. It carries 6 in typical Buick comfort. Plus loads of gear in the station wagon versions. And there's a full range of models to choose from—24 in all. For 1965, we've put in a new grille, new smoother suspension, new noise insulation. One thing we haven't changed—its thrifty price. Plus one other thing—the extra care we've always taken in putting Buicks together. When better automobiles are built, Buick will build them: a promise we made yesterday, we're keeping today.

This is the new Buick Skylark. One of the trim thrifty ones. The answer for people who demand the luxury of a big car in a slightly smaller size. And what an answer! For Buick Skylark is styled to appeal to your sense of the opulent. It is the most luxuriously appointed of all the Buick Special models . . . available in 8 different models for 1965. Inside there's a sumptuous combination of cloth and leather-grained vinyl. Courtesy lights. Deep-pile carpet. And outside, Skylark not only looks the new size of elegance but has its own distinguished way of showing it. It glows—wall to wall! Skylark comes with full-width taillights!

Seething Changes

Navajo Nation 102,000 Strong By Far Largest

By NEIL MORGAN

WINDROW ROCK, Arizona — We swooped down from the sky above Navajo-land in a great white bird with wheels, but no Indians scattered in panic. Our plane was just one of several coming in with visitors to the Navajo Tribal Fair. Navajo Unicom calmly radioed instructions to land on Runway 27 and said there was a nine-mile-an-hour crosswind.

The red rock cliffs of this bleak high desert were beneath us. The scooped-out rock which gives the Navajo capital its name stood sentinel just as it had when I last saw it four years ago, and as it must have 4,000 years ago.

But there is seething change among the Navajos, 102,000 strong now, and by far the largest of Indian nations. The 74-man tribal council is racked with dissension. The Navajos, long lethargic and oppressed, are in awkward transition like any young nation.

The brightest young men are straining to move the tribe into 20th Century America; the old tribal guard, who own the sheep and the earth, will not be moved.

Progressive, Scrappy

A year-and-a-half ago, a 46-year-old Democrat named Raymond Nakai upset seventyish Paul Jones, a senior statesman among the Navajos, to become tribal chairman. Nakai is progressive and scrappy; but he cannot muster a majority vote in his tribal council, and Navajo advances are stymied by political infighting.

"I was not supposed to have been elected," Nakai said, flashing the humor which flames up so often in the dark Navajo eyes. "Now there are many people sitting on me to keep me from getting off the ground."

The current power struggle within the Navajo tribal council—men with names like Hubert Laughter, William Yellowhair, Curley John, and Martiano Apachito—is over Nakai's push to get the Navajos out of their hogans and into houses.

Soon, 250 low-cost houses will be built and rented under tribal management. Nakai is asking for 500 to 1,000 more. With 1,000 houses, he would about double the number of Indian houses now on the vast reservation which covers almost the northeast quarter of Arizona and spills over into Utah and New Mexico.

By most guesses, Navajos own more pickup trucks than houses; the pickup is the Navajo Cadillac, but the virtues of deserting hogan for house are not so apparent to the Navajos as the merits of the engine and wheel.

Constitution Needed

"To move ahead," Nakai said, "we urgently need a constitution to outline the division of Navajo powers. Our government was set up originally by the Bureau of Indian Affairs. It is part tribal in nature, and part of it follows the American government. It is time we governed ourselves like other Americans."

Nakai led us on to the Navajo Tribal Fair, an annual four-day festival at Window Rock which draws almost half of the Navajos from all over the vast reservation. Many come and camp among the blue and yellow daisies of surrounding hillsides. The older Navajos wear their finest: satin blouses and shirts and turquoise and silver necklaces, the women bulky in multiple overskirts.

On the way we passed a modern brick structure, the First Navajo National Bank, with drive-in tellers. There are five branches of the bank. The tribe owns one-third of its stock, and deposits exceed $20,000,000. The Navajo tribe is prospering from natural gas and uranium royalties, but the funds are expended only for tribal development projects, and there is little sign of individual prosperity.

The most poignant exhibit at the fair was not inside the arts and crafts building, where breathtaking beautiful Navajo rugs hung on the walls and Navajo turquoise and silver work sparkled in the cases.

White Visitors Only

It was the bare $1,500 prefabricated house elected by a Denver firm at the request of Chairman Nakai, who hoped that Navajos would step inside and have a look around and speak up in behalf of his program to move them from hogan to house. But in the hour while I watched, the only visitors were white families from off the reservation.

More Navajos were interested in the exhibits of the Arizona Power Co. and the Four Corners Pipe Line Co. At both booths, men with Polaroid cameras sat snapping pictures of Navajos.

That was one of many ironies. A woman carrying a baby on the traditional cradle board under netting was studying a voting machine, such as most Navajo polling places have installed.

And not far from the nearly deserted prefab house, Navajos paused in obvious puzzlement at an Office of Civil Defence exhibit, urging the Indians to build underground shelters to guard against nuclear attack.

If the OCD had its way, I suppose, the Navajo would bypass the era of the conventional house and move from hogan to hole.

Crash 'a Mystery'

The driver of a car who died in a head-on crash on "Suicide Hill" on the Malahat Aug. 9 caused the crash "for reasons unknown," a coroner's jury ruled Wednesday night.

The jury ruled the car driven by George Allister McKay, 43, of Chemainus, crossed into the oncoming lane and caused a head-on collision with a car driven by Mrs. Stephen Carter, 659 Kelly.

Police testimony Wednesday night disclosed there was no evidence of alcohol involving either driver. Cause of death was a ruptured heart.

Shrum Report

Soviet Experiment Held Indecisive

The Russian experiment in political science, economy and socialization of the past 50 years has proved neither a success nor a failure, Dr. Gordon Shrum told Victoria Jaycees Wednesday night.

Dr. Shrum last spring spent two weeks in Russia as the only B.C. man in a party of people representing $30,000,000,000 of Canadian industry.

He showed slides which he had been permitted to take freely everywhere except in atomic energy plants.

He found people much like those in other parts of the world including Canada — but in the May Day parade there were more marchers than spectators.

Among the many things that impressed the co-chairman of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority were:

- Few churches are used for worship. Most are used as museums but the rest are rapidly falling into decay.
- Even the shoe shine boys aren't private enterprise. They work for government shoe stores.
- The 80-mile-an-hour trains and the fact that one can travel on the Moscow underground for 60 miles—56 stations—for five cents.

Metchosin Ratepayers Say:

Keep Mess Away!

A ratepayers association formed in Metchosin Wednesday will seek to keep car wreckers and junkyards off main roads of the district.

It will also recommend that garbage be dumped only at a sanitary land fill location on Millstream Road.

Chairman of the meeting was John Page, Metchosin member of the advisory planning commission. He was assisted by Kenneth Rainey, Metchosin representative on the mini-metro joint services study board.

KNOWS LITTLE

Mr. Rainey reported that although he has attended mini-metro meetings he knows very little about what is going to happen.

"I haven't learned anything yet," he said. "They don't tell you much."

He did say a sewage survey of the area would be made but he didn't know what it would cost.

FUTURE MEETING

"They say the population in this whole area out here will be 80,000 in 10 years," he said.

Discussed at the meeting were mink and mushroom farms, piggeries, auto wreckers, junkyards, trailer parks and intensive farming.

Mr. Page said he would ask Alan Littler, district horticulturist, to speak to a future meeting on agricultural land use.

"Metchosin is one of the prettiest districts on Vancouver Island," Mr. Page said. "This is our heritage. It would be a pity to have it become another Langford. If we know what the people here want we can present it to the Capital Region Planning Board."

He said the area would have a serious sewage problem if widespread subdivision were permitted.

"We want to be fair to different types of development and we want to be fair to the people who live here, too," he said.

Apologetic Rapist Hunted by Expert

An RCMP fingerprints expert was called into Esquimalt Wednesday to help in the case of the apologetic rapist.

INVESTIGATING

Esquimalt police, who reported the case for the first time yesterday, said they were still investigating.

Several suspects were picked up and questioned Tuesday but all were released afterwards.

The man was reported by the victim to have climbed into the girl's home — she was sleeping alone — through an open bathroom window.

He knelt by her bed and awakened her by shaking her shoulder. Then he stuck a knife against her throat and warned her not to cry out.

The girl waited several minutes and then phoned the police who arrived on the scene two minutes later. But the man had disappeared.

Vandals Cut Last Hope

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — Vandals have ended the Cowichan Fish and Game Association's last hope for an inexpensive completion of its long-south Cowichan River footpath.

Sometime in the past few days, the vandals used power saws and other equipment to smash a logging bridge at Skutz Falls, 12 miles west of here, which was damaged by arsonists two years ago.

ONLY CROSSING

The bridge was the only crossing point over the Cowichan River for the path to link Duncan and Lake Cowichan.

Association president Arnie Williams says what would have been a matter of a few hundred dollars has become a matter of several thousands, and "it is completely out of the question" for the association to do the work.

CABLE BRIDGE?

He said a cable bridge could be built but government help musts be given. The 75-foot log stringers left after the rest of the bridge was burned now are resting in the river 80 feet below, some with clearly-seen power saw cuts.

The association had cleared five miles of the 25-foot path and had been promised lumber and other materials to restore the stringers.

Typhoon Floods Stadium

Wilda the Wildest

TOKYO (UPI)—Wilda, the most powerful Pacific typhoon of the season, swept across Japan's Amani-Sohima Island with destructive winds today and smashed into the main southernmost island of Khyushu.

Weather officials said heavy rains and high winds would continue in Tokyo through Friday. Flooding was reported in the lower levels of the stadium built for next month's Olympic Games.

Winds as high as 100 miles an hour tore off roofs, smashed windows and uprooted trees on Amani-Sohima. Electricity was knocked out in Naze, the island's main town.

Apples Face Threat

HALIFAX (CP) — Hurricane Gladys is expected to strike southern Nova Scotia early today and move through the province with winds up to 70 miles an hour.

The weather office here said late Wednesday the storm was heading for Nova Scotia and was expected to reach Yarmouth, on the province's southwestern tip, at dawn.

FEAR FOR CROP

Farmers in the 100-mile-long Annapolis Valley fruit belt were hoping a last-minute change in the hurricane's course would keep it away from their apples, now nearly ripe and hanging heavily on the trees. One fruit processing firm estimated 95 per cent of the valley's 2,500,000-bushel crop is still on the trees.

Meanwhile, coastal communities in Nova Scotia were preparing for the hurricane.

There was no calm before the storm Wednesday night. Winds were moderate in southern Nova Scotia and there were periods of heavy rain.

BOSTON (UPI)—Treacherous Hurricane Gladys churned up six to 10-foot ocean swells off the fog-shrouded New England coastline Wednesday night but veered sharply out to sea when nudged by a cold upper air mass.

Lodge Visits Commons, Hears Viet Nam Rapped

OTTAWA (CP)—U.S. special envoy Henry Cabot Lodge sat in a Commons gallery Wednesday and heard the South Viet Nam government described as corrupt.

The fomer ambassador to Saigon had just spent more than two hours briefing Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin on the American position in South Viet Nam.

"CORRUPT"

During the Commons question period, which Mr. Lodge watched from the Speaker's Gallery, H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) said he hopes administration of Canada's foreign aid to South Viet Nam is not left to the "corrupt" government of that country.

Mr. Martin said Mr. Herridge's "loose language" was not based on careful reflection. The funds were handled by Canada's external aid office.

MPs APPLAUD

Earlier, T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, asked what Canadian commitments, if any, had been sought by Mr. Lodge. (See Page 31.)

This gave Mr. Pearson an opportunity to note Mr. Lodge's presence in the gallery and the Commons applauded.

Ignore Queen's Visit French Canada Urged

MONTREAL (UPI) — Quebec's most influential private association Wednesday called on French-Canadians to ignore next month's royal visit to Quebec City.

The 75,000-member St. Jean Baptiste Society recommended that groups and individuals within the province "show no gestures for or against" the Oct. 10-11 visit by Queen Elizabeth and her husband Prince Philip. (See Page 9.)

NO VIOLENCE

"Especially, abstain from all violence in showing your disapproval," the society added in an "open letter" statement to French-Canadians.

The society's statement, issued with approval of its general council and 17 regional bodies, was the latest contribution to a continuing verbal battle over the Queen's visit.

Unlike many previous offerings from French-Canadian sources, it made no suggestion that the visit be cancelled and demanded specifically that French-Canadians refrain from violence during the monarch's stay. Several sources within the province and across the remainder of English-speaking Canada have suggested the visit be dropped because of fear that threats of violence by Quebec separatist-terrorist groups might be carried out.

Another Reprieve

Georges Marcotte, 32, convicted killer of St. Laurent, Que., policeman, has been granted third stay of execution to enable him to make new appeal to Supreme Court of Canada. Two earlier appeals failed.

Changing Winds Ease Fire Threat

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—Fire that routed hundreds from their homes and destroyed or damaged 18 houses in a "night of terror" changed direction Wednesday, easing the threat to this coastal city and the fashionable suburb of Montecito.

But there was no hope for control or immediate containment of the fire which burned in a northeasterly direction in a hilly watershed area vital to Santa Barbara, a city of 60,000, and adjacent communities.

Commonwealth To Oust U.K.?

NAIROBI (AP) — African member states might expel Britain from the Commonwealth if she continued to supply South Africa with arms, said Kenya Health Minister Dr. Njoroge Mungai. He told Parliament that though South Africa had been expelled from the Commonwealth, other states persisted in treating her "as if she were a civilized country."

Protest Ended

MADRID (UPI) — Police Wednesday night broke up a budding demonstration of about 300 Spaniards outside the U.S. embassy. They were protesting the sinking of the Spanish freighter Sierra Aranzuzu off the Cuban coast Sept. 6.

MINI-METRO: NOT SO FAST!

By A. H. MURPHY
Colonist City Hall Reporter

BURNABY — Endorsement of the mini-metro principle by 500-odd delegates to the Union of B.C. Municipalities in convention here was delayed, if not blocked, Wednesday by the motion of Victoria Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow.

The endorsement recommendation which approved in principle "the concept of joint services boards to deal with certain regional problems" was sponsored by the executive of UBCM, and proposed from the chair after delegates were addressed on the subject by Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell.

"We're going too fast here," said Ald. Edgelow. "There are a lot of things about this scheme that we need to know more about.

TOO LATE

"Once a plan such as this is enacted into legislation it's too late. Let's slow up and give this more study."

By Staff Reporter

BURNABY — Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell admitted Wednesday to delegates from 123 members of the Union of B.C. Municipalities that the timing of the provincial government's curtailment of winter works benefits might have been something less than fair.

In a question period during a speech which did not touch on the thorny question he granted "some value" to the complaint of a Victoria alderman that the decision to cut back had put municipalities in a tight spot.

The action of the government in restricting its share of winter works benefits only to those who have been receiving welfare for at least three months

Fluoridation Issue Kept Out of UBCM

BURNABY — Ald Garnet Reynolds of Port Alberni spearheaded a successful attack against introduction of the fluoridation issue at the convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities here Wednesday.

The resolution, which asked amendment of the Municipal Act to permit fluoridation of water on a three-fifths vote of council, was described by the alderman as an affront to democratic traditions.

"It's a matter of a few choosing for the many," he said, "and that's no good."

"Why do we keep fumbling around with this issue year after year?" asked another delegate. 'It's not a matter for the UBCM. Health is a provincial matter. Forget it.

Delegates forgot it.

How Kelowna Cut Decay

* * *

Dramatic Drop Followed Fluoridation

KELOWNA (CP) — For a cost of 10 cents a person, parents in Kelowna are saving money on repairs to their children's teeth, two dental experts say.

* * *

Figures released this week by Dr. Alan Gray, regional dental consultant for the Okanagan health unit, showed children in Kelowna have fewer dental problems that the sister communities of Vernon and Penticton.

The reason, said Dr. Gray, is fluoridation.

"We decided to compare decay rates of grade one children born and brought up in Kelowna with those of similar children from Vernon and Penticton, where there is only a small trace of fluoride in the water," he said.

* * *

Kelowna began its fluoridation plan in September, 1956.

Dr. Gray said the survey included 101 Kelowna youngsters, 90 from Vernon and 98 from Penticton.

The results were that slightly more than 30 per cent of the Kelowna children were free of tooth decay. Only 10 per cent of those in Vernon could make the claim, while 10.2 per cent of the Penticton children were cavity-free.

* * *

"These figures tell the story of improved dental health in Kelowna," Dr. Gray said.

"What they leave out is the saving in misery and suffering from toothaches, the better growth and development of faces and jaws, and the actual saving in money taking place in Kelowna."

* * *

He said the cost of fluoridation works out to about 10 cents per capita per year.

Kelowna is one of 10 British Columbia communities with fluoridated water supplies.

Boy Returns to Comox Dies in Road Accident

COMOX (Special) — A 15-year-old boy who moved to Vancouver from Courtenay a week ago and returned to this area Wednesday to visit friends was killed when struck by a car in Comox last night.

* * *

The victim was David McGee, one of six children of Mrs. May McGee, a former employee in the Courtenay office of the Nanaimo Free Press, who moved her family to Vancouver last week.

Siovhan MacKenzie of Comox, a teen-age friend of the victim, said she and young McGee were facing the traffic while walking on Anderton Road.

She said David made the visit at this time because he was just about to begin a job at a Vancouver restaurant.

Police identified the driver as Rodney John Gallagher of Courtenay. Mrs. Gallagher was a passenger in the car. It was not known if they were injured.

Tahsis Goes North

Only 18 Move With Mill

By MARGARET TREBETT

PORT ALBERNI—Eighteen of the more than 70 employees affected by the forthcoming move of the Tahsis Co. sawmill to Tahsis will probably go up-coast and stay with the company, says manager Howard Smith.

Jobs were offered to the staff when the management announced in July it would close the often-controversial sawmill and move it to other operations at Nootka Sound, where production is being stepped up 25 per cent.

Mr. Smith said about 18, including mill foreman Jim Olsen, have indicated they will make the trip. About 10 of the 18 are heads of families.

SWITCH PULLED

Production is carrying on as usual in the sawmill with only a week to go before a switch is pulled and the plant is closed.

Besides a big shingle production, the mill turns out between 65,000 and 70,000 feet board measure of lumber each shift.

The controversy has resulted from frequent complaints about fallout from the beehive burner, the last remaining in local industry.

NO CONNECTION

But the management pointed out in July this had nothing to do with the move.

The fallout will be a problem no longer as the plant has been sold to wrecker George Borden.

His contract includes cleaning of the waterfront site, which was held under lease from the city of Port Alberni and the CPR. It also includes removal of the machinery for resale.

POSSIBLE MARINA

Mr. Smith said no official word has been received on whether the company will be re-leasing the property, but interes has been expressed by civic leaders in development of the site as a marina.

The mill's quarter-century history has been highlighted by several major safety awards.

ORGANIZATIONS

These came from such organizations as the National Safety Council, B.C. Lumber Manufacturers' Association, B.C. Safety Council and Workmen's Compensation Board.

Among the most-prized awards was one from the Forest Products Safety Conference for the lowest accident rate in its category in the five-year period 1959 to 1963.

Scouts' Leader Returning

PORT ALBERNI — This city's "Mr. Scouting" will be a special guest when the First Arrowsmith troop celebrates the 40th anniversary of Scouting in Port Alberni at a birthday party in the troop's hall Saturday.

Art Walker, now of Victoria, was the first Scout leader in Port Alberni and for many years was in charge of the First Arrowsmith troop.

Classes Draw Adults

COURTENAY — Adult education enrolment has grown from none in 1961 to nearly 100 this year, district director Harry Harris said Tuesday.

He said the good quality of teaching has encouraged adult students to return for the necessary three or four years to complete junior matriculation.

CLASSES FASTER

In addition, he said, people, who have been working on correspondence courses often find they can finish school sooner through evening classes. And a policy of giving pupils two or three months to pay fees enables more to attend.

Classes which started last week are Mathematics 30 and 91, Physics 91 and Socials 30. There is still room for a few more pupils.

Cowichan Classes

11 New Subjects Offered Adults

DUNCAN — Eleven new subjects are among the 73 academic, vocational and non-vocational courses offered this year in the adult education program of the Cowichan school district.

The 11 are English 200, industrial chemistry, silk screening, choral singing, salesmanship, family counselling, golf, home-maker training, horticulture, music appreciation and geology.

Industrial first-aid classes began Sept. 17 and English 200 instruction starts today at 7 p.m. Other adult education courses will begin during the week of Oct. 5 to 9.

Breaking and Entering Charged Against Girl

COURTENAY — Maxine Dolores Basset, 19, was remanded to Saturday when she appeared in magistrate's court Wednesday on a charge of breaking and entering with intent to steal.

No plea was entered and bail was set at $200.

Court was told night patrolman John Knowles found glass in a side door of Eaton's store broken by rocks at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Inside, he said, he found the girl, who said she was looking for things for her baby.

No School Shifts

School shifts in the Greater Victoria district are not necessary despite a 1,315 increase in enrolment, trustees learned Monday night. Enrolment totals 27,406 and some schools are using auditoriums as classrooms until new rooms are built.

Hotel Pub Closed Two Days

LANTZVILLE — The liquor licence to the Lantzville Hotel has been revoked for two days by the Liquor Control Board.

The action follows the conviction of owner D. A. Caillett on a bootlegging charge. The beer parlor section of the hotel will reopen Friday.

Referendum Failure Could Force Shifts

—Margaret Trebett

Manager Smith before Tahsis Co. sawmill, facing closure Sept. 30

CUMBERLAND — Shift classes will be the only answer if the $865,930 school referendum is rejected by school district voters Nov. 7, and even this may be impossible.

This statement was made Tuesday night by school board chairman James Simon at a public meeting sponsored by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce called to explain details of the referendum.

Mr. Simon said he was doubtful if shift classes could be arranged in this scattered district with so many bus students.

27 CLASSROOMS

The chairman began by disclosing the fate of a $930,000 referendum passed April 14, 1962, which has one more year to run.

A total of 27 classrooms was built under the referendum, but five planned activity rooms went by the boards as expenses in more critical areas used up the money.

Mr. Simon said the board already is facing "a somewhat desperate situation" in some areas.

FOUR-WAY SPLIT

The estimated pupil projection for 1965 already is exceeded in some schools and there are 250 more pupils than were expected for 1964.

The $865,930 will be split as follows—$35,000 for purchase and development of sites, $571,900 for purchase and construction of buildings, $200,000 for furnishings and equipment, and the rest for a contingency fund and architects' fees.

The $571,900 is mainly for classrooms, including science laboratories, activity rooms and industrial education-vocational shops.

FUTURE ADDITIONS

It also includes $16,000 for future additions to the school board office, which is rapidly reaching the stage where it is impossible to work.

In addition, several schools are being converted to oil heat from coal.

Mr. Simon said that, if the assessment remains static, 1.2 mills would be the rate for repayment of the loan.

MONEY OUTLAYS

Districts schools superintendent C. E. Ritchie gave a brief, informative talk on new courses, especially in the sciences and the industrial education-vocational field. Both of these fields, as the new courses are begun, will require large outlays of money for equipment.

Gems Net a $1,000 Mystery

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — The White Rose potatoes came up fine but the Netted Gems didn't, and C. E. Doty of Mays Roads says he "would give $1,000 to find out why."

The harvest of the early White Rose potatoes was almost completed yesterday on Mr. Doty's farm, located in the shadow of Richard's Mountain, north of here, as pickers began on the Netted Gems.

The owner of the potato and dairy farm said the White Rose yield was exceptionally good, with 13 tons to an acre compared with only five tons three years ago.

* * *

As for the Netted Gems, the main crop on the farm, he says "we'll be lucky to get five or six tons to the acre; even the experts don't know the answer."

Mr. Doty says potato growing is a big gamble, as prices are subject to drastic changes because they are determined by many factors which may change from one week to another.

He reluctantly quoted an average price of $52 a ton, but emphasized an exact figure is almost impossible to pin down because of the effect on the market of growing conditions, and of U.S. and Alberta imports.

* * *

His 110-acre farm has 65 cleared acres, of which 30 are devoted to potatoes. A dozen Holstein milkers provide other income.

The farm was a dairy operation when Mr. and Mrs. Doty bought it 16 years ago after selling their mixed farm at Rimbey, Alta.

"I'm very happy with the board," he says. "I would not grow potatoes without their control because I would be at the mercy of wholesalers."

As for equipment, he says he uses the same equipment as "our grandfathers."

For some time he has been trying to buy a potato harvester. But the machines available here are too big, and smaller machines in use in England cannot be obtained.

* * *

These cost about $3,500 each and Mr. Doty says he would "gladly spend that money if only I could get a machine."

Scouts Plan Car Wash

A car wash will be held by the 7th Fort Victoria Boy Scout troop Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Fairfield Plaza shopping centre at Fairfield and St. Charles.

Proceeds will go toward buying new tents for the troop's overnight camping.

Comox Valley Chambers May Amalgamate

CUMBERLAND— Leaders of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will meet the executive of the Courtenay-Comox Chamber Oct. 1 to discuss possible amalgamation of the two groups, it was announced Wednesday.

The Courtenay group suggested during the summer recess that the merger be considered and that the new group be called the Comox Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The decision to attend the conference was taken at a Cumberland Chamber meeting which also decided to support the Texada Chamber in its request to have the Powell River-Comox ferry stop at Texada.

A letter received from Milton Crane of Las Vegas inquiring about real estate, will require a meeting with officials of the U.S. company which bought the Canadian Collieries interests.

Mr. Crane will be advised opportunities exist for homes to be built in Cumberland. Further information will be forwarded to him after the meeting with village and company officials.

A brief submitted by the Atlin Board of Trade, requesting support for a route to Alaska, was given to Dr. J. Cubbage for study and recommendation at the next meeting.

Arena Ready Oct. 2

PORT ALBERNI — The civic arena should be ready to open by Oct. 1 or 2 after considerable changes and additions, city parks and recreation director Duncan Russell said Wednesday.

Work is nearing completion on the bleachers being built in the rink to provide seating for 800 people, but Mr. Russell pointed out painting must be finished and the paint allowed to dry before ice can be made.

PARKING AREA

Meanwhile, workmen are making progress on the addition which will house a skaters' lounge and additional dressing rooms, and work is continuing on the parking area.

Hockey leagues already are registering players for the season. Minor hockey officials say registration will exceed that of last year when more than 600 boys signed up to play.

GROUP INSTRUCTION

Arrowsmith Skating Club has lined up a program which will include group instruction by Sharon Couch.

Pre-school and junior skating will be from 3:15 to 5 p.m. each Tuesday, followed by intermediate groups, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., while senior members will skate from 8 to 9:45 p.m. Tuesdays. Club family skating for recreation is scheduled for 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Sundays.

Weekend Air Display

Water Bomber Stars at Fair

A flying Mars water bomber from Sproat Lake will show spectators at the Whidbey Island naval air fair Saturday and Sunday how to put out forest fires with man-made rain.

The huge four-engine aircraft is one of five built by the Glenn L. Martin Co. of Baltimore for the U.S. Navy in the Second World War. It carries 6,000 gallons of water and can effectively cover a land area of three to four acres with one water drop.

EIGHT FIRES

During the 1963 B.C. forest fire season the big bomber carried out successful operations against eight forest fires, making 87 operational drops and dumping a total of 494,000 gallons of water.

Conversion of the flying boat to a water bomber and the pioneering of its use in this field was undertaken by Forest Industries Tankers Ltd. and their member companies.

A second Martin Mars is currently being prepared to join the original water bimber in the fight against forest fires.

PLYWOOD TANKS

The Mars carries its water payload in tanks made of plywood and can use either fresh or sea water during operations. The plane can land on a lake or in the ocean, scoop up its payload and take off again all within two minutes.

It takes aboard its water load while skimming over the water at 70 knots and normally carries sufficient fuel for five hours of operation.

According to the owners of the aircraft the Mars project has been successful in limiting the possibility of disastrous fires in forests, affording protection to the most hazardous areas of Vancouver Island.

The Mars water-drop demonstration at Whidbey Island is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. each day of the fair.

Airmen Discuss Space Program

The U.S. space program, intercontinental ballistic missiles and the strategic air command will be discussed at the Victoria Rotary Club's noon meeting today at the Empress Hotel by five U.S. Air Force officers from Spokane, Wash.

Typhoon Floods Stadium

Wilda the Wildest

TOKYO (UPI)—Wilda, the most powerful Pacific typhoon of the season, swept across Japan's Amani-Sohima Island with destructive winds today and smashed into the main southernmost island of Khyushu.

Weather officials said heavy rains and high winds would continue in Tokyo through Friday. Flooding was reported in the lower levels of the stadium built for next month's Olympic Games.

Winds as high as 100 miles an hour tore off roofs, smashed windows and uprooted trees on Amani-Sohima. Electricity was knocked out in Naze, the island's main town.

Apples Face Threat

HALIFAX (CP) — Hurricane Gladys was expected to strike southern Nova Scotia early today and move through the province with winds up to 70 miles an hour.

The weather office here said late Wednesday the storm was heading for Nova Scotia and was expected to reach Yarmouth, on the province's southwestern tip, at dawn.

FEAR FOR CROP

Farmers in the 100-mile-long Annapolis Valley fruit belt were hoping a last-minute change in the hurricane's course would keep it away from their apples, now nearly ripe and hanging heavily on the trees. One fruit processing firm estimated 95 per cent of the valley's 2,500,000-bushel crop is still on the trees.

Meanwhile, coastal communities in Nova Scotia were preparing for the hurricane.

There was no calm before the storm Wednesday night. Winds were moderate in southern Nova Scotia and there were periods of heavy rain.

BOSTON (UPI)—Treacherous Hurricane Gladys churned up six to 10-foot ocean swells off the fog-shrouded New England coastline Wednesday night but veered sharply out to sea when nudged by a cold upper air mass.

Commonwealth To Oust U.K.?

NAIROBI (AP) — African member states might expel Britain from the Commonwealth if she continued to supply South Africa with arms, said Kenya Health Minister Dr. Njoroge Mungai. Lodge Visits Commons, Hears Viet Nam Rapped

OTTAWA (CP)—U.S. special envoy Henry Cabot Lodge sat in a Commons gallery Wednesday and heard the South Viet Nam government described as corrupt.

The fomer ambassador to Saigon had just spent more than two hours briefing Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin on the American position in South Viet Nam.

"CORRUPT"

During the Commons question period, which Mr. Lodge watched from the Speaker's Gallery, H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) said he hopes administration of Canada's foreign aid to South Viet Nam is not left to the "corrupt" government of that country.

Mr. Martin said Mr. Herridge's "loose language" was not based on careful reflection. The funds were handled by Canada's external aid office.

MPs APPLAUD

Earlier, T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, asked what Canadian commitments, if any, had been sought by Mr. Lodge. (See Page 31.)

Ignore Queen's Visit French Canada Urged

MONTREAL (UPI) — Quebec's most influential private association Wednesday called on French-Canadians to ignore next month's royal visit to Quebec City.

The 75,000-member St. Jean Baptiste Society recommended that groups and individuals within the province "show no gestures for or against" the Oct. 10-11 visit by Queen Elizabeth and her husband Prince Philip. (See Page 9.)

"Especially, abstain from all violence in showing your disapproval," the society added in an "open letter" statement to French-Canadians.

The society's statement, issued with approval of its general council and 17 regional bodies, was the latest contribution to a continuing verbal battle over the Queen's visit.

Unlike many previous offerings from French-Canadian sources, it made no suggestion that the visit be cancelled and demanded specifically that French-Canadians refrain from violence during the monarch's stay. Several sources within the province and across the remainder of English-speaking Canada have suggested the visit be dropped because of fear that threats of violence by Quebec separatist-terrorist groups might be carried out.

Georges Marcotte, 32, convicted killer of St. Laurent, Que., policeman, has been granted third stay of execution to enable him to make new appeal to Supreme Court of Canada. Two earlier appeals failed.

Protest Ended

MADRID (UPI) — Police Wednesday night broke up a budding demonstration of about 300 Spaniards outside the U.S. embassy. They were protesting the sinking of the Spanish freighter Sierra Aranzuzu off the Cuban coast Sept. 6.

Changing Winds Ease Fire Threat

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—Fire that routed hundreds from their homes and destroyed or damaged 18 houses in a "night of terror" changed direction Wednesday, easing the threat to this coastal city and the fashionable suburb of Montecito.

But there was no hope for control or immediate containment of the fire which burned in a northeasterly direction in a hilly watershed area vital to Santa Barbara, a city of 60,000, and adjacent communities.

MINI-METRO: NOT SO FAST!

By A. H. MURPHY
Colonist City Hall Reporter

BURNABY — Endorsement of the mini-metro principle by 500-odd delegates to the Union of B.C. Municipalities in convention here was delayed, if not blocked, Wednesday by the motion of Victoria Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow.

The endorsement recommendation which approved in principle "the concept of joint services boards to deal with certain regional problems" was sponsored by the executive of UBCM, and proposed from the chair after delegates were addressed on the subject by Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell.

"We're going too fast here," said Ald. Edgelow. "There are a lot of things about this scheme that we need to know more about.

TOO LATE

"Once a plan such as this is enacted into legislation it's too late. Let's slow up and give this more study."

By Staff Reporter

BURNABY — Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell admitted Wednesday to delegates from 123 members of the Union of B.C. Municipalities that the timing of the provincial government's curtailment of winter works benefits might have been something less than fair.

In a question period during a speech which did not touch on the thorny question he granted "some value" to the complaint of a Victoria alderman that the decision to cut back had put municipalities in a tight spot.

Fluoridation Issue Kept Out of UBCM

BURNABY — Ald Garnet Reynolds of Port Alberni spearheaded a successful attack against introduction of the fluoridation issue at the convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities here Wednesday.

The resolution, which asked amendment of the Municipal Act to permit fluoridation of water on a three-fifths vote of council, was described by the alderman as an affront to democratic traditions.

"It's a matter of a few choosing for the many," he said, "and that's no good."

"Why do we keep fumbling around with this issue year after year?" asked another delegate. "It's not a matter for the UBCM. Health is a provincial matter. Forget it."

How Kelowna Cut Decay

Dramatic Drop Followed Fluoridation

KELOWNA (CP) — For a cost of 10 cents a person, parents in Kelowna are saving money on repairs to their children's teeth, two dental experts say.

Figures released this week by Dr. Alan Gray, regional dental consultant for the Okanagan health unit, showed children in Kelowna have fewer dental problems that the sister communities of Vernon and Penticton.

The reason, said Dr. Gray, is fluoridation.

"We decided to compare decay rates of grade one children born and brought up in Kelowna with those of similar children from Vernon and Penticton, where there is only a small trace of fluoride in the water," he said.

Kelowna began its fluoridation plan in September, 1956.

Dr. Gray said the survey included 101 Kelowna youngsters, 90 from Vernon and 98 from Penticton.

The results were that slightly more than 30 per cent of the Kelowna children were free of tooth decay. Only 10 per cent of those in Vernon could make the claim, while 10.2 per cent of the Penticton children were cavity-free.

"These figures tell the story of improved dental health in Kelowna," Dr. Gray said.

"What they leave out is the saving in misery and suffering from toothaches, the better growth and development of faces and jaws, and the actual saving in money taking place in Kelowna."

He said the cost of fluoridation works out to about 10 cents per capita per year.

East Sooke Sealed Off In Hunt for Molester

RCMP said early today a man answering the description of the molester showed up at the house of an East Sooke resident, Peris Atkinson, a former city police inspector, and asked to buy some food Tuesday night.

He was invited into the house and given a meal after telling the Atkinsons he was a lost hunter.

It was not until after he left that they realized who he might be and called in RCMP. The Saanich tracking dog Rex was called in and followed a strong trail through the dense bush for nearly two miles, then the trail petered out.

Police called in extra cars and set up road blocks at key points in the East Sooke area.

Wednesday all abandoned cabins and residences in the East Sooke area were thoroughly searched for signs of the molester.

★ ★ ★

Police say the suspect will have a three or four-day growth of beard and is wearing olive drab overalls and logging boots.
